CB'ers Protest Quick Radio License For First Lady

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Communications Commission officials say they're being flooded with complaints because First Lady Betty Ford got an immediate response on her request for a temporary citizens band radio license while thousands of other Americans have to wait for weeks to get one. "Our field offices have been flooded with complaints," said James C. McKinney, who directs the FCC teams that enforce commission rules. However, McKinney said he did not have specific numbers on the complaints received. He said his field offices are telling people who complain that it's not unusual for someone to get a temporary license in a hurry if it is an emergency. "It's done quite often," he said. The emergency in Mrs. Ford's case was that she wanted to use a CB radio to talk with members of a caravan from President Ford's home town, Grand Rapids, Mich., during the Wisconsin presidential primary campaign. "The FCC says it hopes to take some of the sting out of the complaints by announcing plans to make instant temporary licenses for CB operators available to anyone starting Friday. FCC officials said that under the plan a person will be able to get a license for 60 days when he buys his radio set. He will be able to go on the air as soon as he fills out his application and drops it in the mail. It is expected he'll have a permanent license by the time the 60 days is up. The new plan for supplying temporary licenses has been in the works for months and was not a result of the complaints about Mrs. Ford, McKinney said. Earl Stevens of Independence, Kan., editor of the National CB Truckers News, told the FCC on Monday he is receiving letters from many CBers who heard Mrs. Ford's broadcasts in Wisconsin. He said they are complaining that she broke FCC rules by not giving her call sign properly, talking more than five minutes and using the CB band to solicit votes for her husband. Mrs. Ford's press secretary, Shellah Rabb Woldenfeld, called the complaints "erroneous." She said Mrs. Ford probably talked no more than two minutes and did use her call sign. But Stevens said: "We're going to fight this thing. We don't want the politicians moving in and using CB to campaign." McKinney said there is a rule prohibiting the use of the CB band for "soliciting for the sale of goods and services," but he would have to hear Mrs. Ford's broadcast to determine if that rule was violated. He said it might be necessary for the FCC to issue some sort of guideline for political use of CB. The FCC has normally issued CB licenses for political conventions and campaigning but not on the usual 23 channels assigned to CBers. McKinney said his few enforcers have to concentrate on six major rule violations: giving the call sign, not using a signal amplifier, not staying within the CB band, using sun spots to skip across country, using obscenity and using the CB radio to commit a major crime.

Whirlpool 1st Quarter Nears $16 Million Net

Whirlpool Corp. today reported major gains in earnings and sales for the quarter ended March 31, 1976, after a depressed first quarter, 1975. Consolidated net earnings for the first quarter of 1976 were $15,988,000 or 44 cents a share compared to $2,766,000 or 8 cents a share for first quarter, 1975. Sales totaled $403,769,000 compared to $296,987,000 a year ago.

During the first quarter of 1976 about one-third of Whirlpool's production force corporate-wide was on layoff. For the last quarter of 1975, Whirlpool reported net earnings of $19,739,000 or 55 cents a share, compared to earnings of $7,723,000 or 21 cents a share for the last quarter of 1974. In commenting on 1976 first quarter results, Whirlpool Chairman John Platts noted that both Whirlpool and the major home appliance industry generally recorded significant gains in shipments in this year's first quarter as compared with the depressed level of shipments in the first quarter of 1975.

He attributed the increased demand for appliances primarily to the improved economy and increased consumer confidence. The improvement in Whirlpool's earnings in the 1976 first quarter, Platts stated, is due primarily to the higher volume of shipments and an improvement in the cost-price relationship of appliances.

Warwick Electronics Inc., a 57 per cent owned subsidiary, reported a net loss of $2,123,000 for the first quarter of 1976, compared to a net loss of $2,581,000 in the 1975 first quarter. Warwick earnings continue to be adversely affected by intense competition from foreign manufacturers of color television receivers, the company said.

Regarding the balance of 1976, Platts said that inventories remain under firm control and are being increased only as necessary to support the improving sales. He added that he is optimistic Whirlpool shipments of major appliances for the balance of the year will continue to reflect the improved trend.

SOUTH BEND — Michigan and Indiana authorities here said yesterday that a former business associate of a man arrested in connection with the disappearance of two women said the man in custody had allegedly admitted killing the women.

Held on charges of murder in connection with the disappearances of Gerald (Jerry) Libertowski, 34, South Bend. He was arrested in connection with the disappearances of Janis Kay Sanders of Niles, who has been missing since July, 1975, and Miss Janice Langs, South Bend, Miss Langs disappeared in November, 1975.

Jeffrey Long, assistant Berrien county prosecutor, made the revelation regarding the alleged admission during a press conference here yesterday, called by officials in both states to announce that Libertowski has been charged with separate counts of murder in Indiana and Michigan.

Long said that Libertowski's former building contractor business associate, Myron Hunsberger, 42, of South Bend, made the statement to police last week. It was given as part of a statement obtained in exchange for immunity from prosecution in connection with both women's disappearance. Long said Hunsberger told police that in conversations between the two, Libertowski allegedly admitted killing both women.

Long said that the Berrien county prosecutor's office has dropped a charge against Hunsberger involving the writing of an insufficient fund check in a Niles service station in October and that a fugitive warrant issued for him in Indiana in connection with the check has also been dropped.

Hunsberger also told police in his statement that he helped Libertowski transport Miss Langs' auto to Elwood, Ind., where it was supposed to be destroyed. Police from both states, however, said they were able to recover the engine and other parts of the auto in Elwood last week.

Affidavits concerning the statement, signed by South Bend police officers, were filed in St. Joseph county, Ind., circuit court in South Bend, according to a court spokesman.

Yesterday, Libertowski was arraigned in the Indiana court on a charge of first degree murder in connection with Miss Langs' disappearance. Arraignment was continued until next Monday, April 18, by Judge John Montgomery. Libertowski was ordered lodged in the St. Joseph county jail without bond.

Long said extradition proceedings have been initiated to return Libertowski to Michigan to face an open murder charge in connection with Mrs. Sanders' disappearance. Long repeated an earlier statement that authorities in both states feel they have enough evidence to convict Libertowski on both charges, despite the fact that neither body has been found.

Long said police are checking out leads on where the bodies of the two women, believed buried, are located, but he would not comment further.

Mrs. Sanders, then 24, and the divorced mother of two young children, disappeared on the night of July 20, 1975, after leaving her job at Pete's Patio restaurant north of Niles. Her parents reported her missing the next day when she did not return home.

Miss Langs, then 21, was last seen after leaving work in Elkhart, Ind., on Nov. 6, 1975. During yesterday's press conference, Long identified Libertowski as a boyfriend of both women. He said both women lived with Libertowski at different times and had moved from the same South Bend house shortly before they disappeared.

Long said that Libertowski was allegedly seen talking with Mrs. Sanders in the parking lot of the restaurant the night she disappeared.

Shortly after Mrs. Sanders' disappearance, police staged a massive search for both women. A few days later, Mrs. Sanders' auto was found in a Niles motel parking lot near Michigan state police offices.

Patty's 90 Days Will Determine Time In Prison

By TONY LEDWELL

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst, her final sentencing for armed bank robbery delayed, prepared today for a 90-day psychiatric evaluation that could be crucial in her bid for freedom. Authorities plan to take Miss Hearst from the jail cell that has been her home for seven months and fly her to Los Angeles Wednesday for a pretrial hearing on state charges of kidnap, robbery and assault. The charges stem from a crime spree there a month after the San Francisco bank holdup of which she was convicted.

After what is expected to be a brief court session, she will move on to the Metropolitan Correctional Center at San Diego where she will undergo lengthy court-ordered psychiatric examination.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter, the request of defense attorney F. Lee Bailey, ordered the additional testing Monday.

As a formality, he sentenced the newspaper heiress to the maximum 35 years in prison — 25 years for armed bank robbery and 10 years for use of a firearm in a felony — to meet the requirements of the law allowing the extended psychiatric examinations.

But Carter made clear that he would reduce the sentence after the final reports on Miss Hearst's San Diego examination are submitted. "How much, I'm not now prepared to say," he told attorneys.

He noted that he has said before that the maximum sentence he would consider is 25 years, with any prison terms for the two counts running concurrently.

He specifically urged Miss Hearst to cooperate fully with prison psychiatrists, saying it would be a factor in determining "the nature of the punishment."

"The court finds that it requires more detailed information before it can make a final determination of sentence to be imposed," the judge said. The U.S. Bureau of Prisons will designate the psychiatrists who will examine Miss Hearst, 22, and submit a report to Carter. If necessary, Carter may extend the deadline another 90 days.

The judge's options of sentencing the unequipped victim range from a maximum penalty to simple probation. Carter, however, strongly hinted during Monday's 35-minute court session that he is not leaning toward leniency at this time.

He said the weight of the evidence during her eight-week trial supported the verdict that Miss Hearst willingly joined her Symbionese Liberation Army kidnappers in a terrorist bank robbery on April 15, 1974, 10 weeks after her abduction.

She was convicted March 20, even though she tearfully testified she was threatened with death if she did not participate in the holdup. "The offense here of which the defendant was found guilty (See back page, sec. 1, col. 8)

IRS Chief Cleared Of Misconduct Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Internal Revenue Service Commissioner Donald C. Alexander has been cleared of allegations of misconduct. But a Treasury Department report acknowledges that Alexander and other IRS officials used "questionable judgment" in blocking an audit of Senator Joseph M. Montoya's taxes.

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon issued a summary of the Treasury report Monday and expressed confidence in Alexander's honesty and integrity.

At the same time, Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi said a Justice Department investigation uncovered "no evidence to support" misconduct allegations against Alexander. "Consequently, the investigation has been closed," Levi said.

The Justice Department investigation concentrated on a charge that Alexander acted improperly in suspending an IRS probe of tax shelters in the Bahamas Islands. It also probed an allegation that he planned a boat trip last April 26 with an individual who was in tax difficulties.

Levi's statement did not deal with the Montoya audit. A Justice Department spokesman said another statement would be issued soon on it.

The separate Treasury report by Richard B. Albrecht, the Treasury general counsel and chief investigator, dealt with the circumstances under which an audit of Montoya's 1972 tax return was blocked. Montoya, a wealthy New Mexico Democrat, chairs a Senate subcommittee that oversees the IRS.

Albrecht found that Alexander and his deputy commissioner overruled an IRS intelligence director in Albuquerque, N.M., who wanted to pursue an intelligence division investigation of Montoya.

Simon, in a statement accompanying the report, said Alexander and his deputy took the action because they did not want to appear to be conducting a politically motivated investigation of Montoya, who was a vocal IRS critic and a member of the Senate Watergate Committee.

"The very actions ... that might now be questioned were taken at that time in the good faith desire to avoid further allegations of improper conduct by the IRS," Simon said.

A review of Montoya's taxes is currently underway. The Justice Department entered the investigation last Oct. 30 at the request of the Treasury Department.

As an outgrowth of its investigation, the Treasury Department is recommending that all federal elected officials and presidential appointees be audited regularly.

Albrecht said more than 1,000 government officials would be affected, including himself. "I think that's a price we ought to be willing to pay in order to get public confidence," he commented.

A Sure Way To Cut Public Spending

Every pollster in the land agrees the man on the street feels turned off by the major institutions supposedly created to make the democratic process work.

Their surveys taken in 1974-75 show a marked drop in confidence expressed in preceding samplings.

Conceivably the '74-75 ratings might indicate an improvement today now that the economy is showing signs of stronger breathing. The pollsters, however, project the possibility as relative at best and contend a behavioral turn around by the institutions is definitely in order.

Lowest on this confidence totem poll is the federal government. At bed rock is Congress, with the White House showing up a point or so better.

The samplers vary in their detailed explanations for this poor esteem, but essentially it gets around to the question of the public leaning in one direction and the Representatives and Senators for the most part headed on a tangent.

One point sticking out like a sore thumb is deficit spending.

John Q. Public wants to retrench, but so far has not impressed his elected voices in the national legislature who still believe the way to prosperity is to mortgage the future.

Since a letter to Congress only produces a form reply saying nothing, eight state legislatures have petitioned Congress to instigate a Constitutional amendment requiring Uncle Sam to function on the pay-as-you-go plan rather than fly now and pay later. The exception would be in time of war.

This is a tedious process.

It takes two-thirds of the 51 state legislatures to move the croquet ball through the first wicket and even if it passed, there is always the question of how diligently it would be enforced.

We are indebted to Mrs. Donald Schoonmaker, a long time Benton Harbor resident now living with her husband at Palmetto, Florida, for a more trenchant thought.

The other day she mailed in a thought from the Hope, Arkansas, Daily Star which we pass along to our readers.

Alex Washburn, The Star's editor and publisher, urges this approach:

"Set up a Constitutional amendment stipulating that in any peace time fiscal year that government overspends its tax revenues, the salaries of Congressmen, Senators and the President be reduced by the percentage the deficit bears to the national debt."

Per his formula if the national debt is $500 billion and the budget is $50 billion in the red, then Congress and the White House take a 10 per cent pay cut.

It goes without saying Congress would move heaven and earth to stall Editor Washburn's idea as something worse than appointing Premier Kosygin as Secretary of State.

House That Ruth Built Undergoes Remodeling

As a site of memorable sporting events, New York's Yankee Stadium has no peer. From 1923 to 1973, "The House That Ruth Built" played host to 27 World Series, two All-Star baseball games, three National Football League championship contests, and 29 title fights. Joe Louis defended his heavyweight crown there seven times. Army and Notre Dame played 21 football games on the stadium's turf, including a 0-0 tie in 1946 that featured Felix (Doc) Blanchard, Glenn Davis, and Johnny Lujack.

But that was the old Yankee Stadium. The decaying structure was shut down in 1973 by its present owner, the City of New York. Now, after two years of remodeling, the new stadium is about to open. The big day is April 15, when the Yankees play their first home game of the new baseball season.

Although the stadium's basic structure remains intact, much else has changed. Gone are the steel pillars that gave thousands of spectators an obstructed view of the field. Ramps have been replaced by escalators.

Another innovation is a $2.5-million computerized scoreboard.

The estimated cost of all this refurbishing is $100-million, or 40 times the cost of building the original stadium. When former Mayor John V. Lindsay first announced the renovation plan in 1971, he projected a final price tag of $24-million — the same amount that was spent to build Shea Stadium a decade earlier. Inflation proved Lindsay to be a poor prophet.

Yankee Stadium was built because the team was ordered in 1922 to vacate the Polo Grounds, which it had shared with the New York Giants since 1912. The Giants were miffed because the Yankees, with the recently acquired Babe Ruth, were outdrawing them at the gate.

In the first game played at Yankee Stadium, April 18, 1923, the Yankees beat the Boston Red Sox 4-1. Fittingly enough, Ruth provided the winning margin with a three-run homer. The stadium's capacity at the time was about 50,000, but general manager Ed Barrow insisted that the opening-day attendance was 74,414.

That year brought the Yankees their third American League pennant and first world championship — won from the archrival Giants. Among the many other notable exploits in Yankee Stadium were Babe Ruth's 90th home run in 1927, Don Larsen's perfect-game no-hitter in the 1956 World Series, and Roger Maris' 61st home run in 1961. And then, of course, there were the emotional ceremonies for two dying Yankee stars, Lou Gehrig in 1939 and Ruth in 1948.

The new Yankee Stadium will still have the old configuration of the old. Perry Green, the architect in charge of the remodeling, explained why: "We didn't want one of those cookie-cutter stadiums, those perfectly round nothing they've been putting up in every city. Go into any of them and you don't know whether you're in Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Philadelphia or Atlanta.... You always know where you are in Yankee Stadium."

Perhaps the Yankees will find inspiration in their new home, as their predecessors seemed to do in the 1920s. After a decade of disappointing finishes, the team will gladly accept any extra help it can get.

Well, It's A Living!

A PLEA ON BEHALF OF OUR LITTLEST ONES

Editor,

Thank you for the opportunity for all of us to voice our disapproval to the proposed closing of our neighborhood schools. This fine asset to our community must not diminish but remain a top priority when considering our budget cuts. No way can we see an advantage over the peace of mind that these children are safer close to home. This was the deciding factor when most of us purchased our homes, so we strongly urge the school board to search for other options. They have told us that they are for neighborhood schools too. We all know their job is not easy as they are dealing with the same inflated dollar and concern that we are. Many parochial schools are having to raise their tuition, so what are we going to do?

Jefferson school voters have always given a majority vote for millage increases — proof positive that this is not our first show of concern that all children of this community get 12 years of the best education that we can give them.

My four children have all graduated and are married or in college, so what do I care? I will always care about the quality of life for all our young people and feel it must be guarded by all of us.

If any of you have the impression that Jefferson is antiquated, take a walk through that building, as I recently did. You, too, will be proud that it is part of our system. I am sure that many families across this land would envy us. This building will be maintained for offices and the teachers shifted to Lincoln, so we are not making any tremendous saving. Can't we cut our budget in areas that will not affect our littlest ones?

SOME ALTERNATIVES ON SJ SCHOOL CUTS

Editor,

Here are a few suggestions in the current school budget situation. Let's not make the elementary school the target for all of the budget cuts. The younger children need the security of a neighborhood school close to home. The need music, art and gym classes for stimulation and release.

Let's up charges for use of the pool and swimming classes to see if we can't cover the expenses of the maintenance of the pool.

The board should study closely the high school curriculum. Seems to me that the "frills" of the system exist there and could be cut more appropriately than cutting away at the elementary schools.

Urges close study by the school board before any hasty decisions — serious cuts into the elementary system are difficult to restore in future years and could seriously affect the lives of many youngsters.

Another Tack For Payment

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Another mechanism for getting the state to pick up the cost of the May 18th presidential primary is in the House Appropriations Committee.

The committee Monday amended a budget bill by including an extra $2 million to pay local units of government for the cost of running the election.

The amendment, introduced by committee Chairman Dominic Jacobetti, D-Nearshore, is now part of a bill appropriating $111 million for grants and transfers. The bill is part of Gov. William Milliken's proposed 1978-1979 $3.2 billion budget.

Productivity Needs Help

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — That inflation has not been worse the past two years is due in considerable measure to the willingness of labor, overall, to accept moderate wage increases.

Though we have all read of sensational exceptions, cases in which some unions gouged what they could, the Morgan Guaranty survey reports real wages of private nonfarm workers rose less than 1 per cent in 1975, for example.

Unfortunately, to achieve this 1 per cent, the nominal rise was nearly 8, which is far and away above the normal increase in industrial productivity.

To keep pace with inflation and in some major industries, to catch up, the outlook for 1978's bargaining calendar is for overall wage increases of 8 to 9 per cent — on the average. Again, we are talking of nominal increases, not "real" gains in constant dollars.

Reasonable as these demands may be, they are, again, well above prospective gains in productivity. Analysts say this and other factors will result in a minimum inflation this year of 5 per cent or more.

The problem in this instance is not that workers will be asking too much, but rather, that year after year, the increase in productivity is too low, averaging 2.7 per cent over the past three decades.

If we are to give labor, shareholders and the buying public their just due, we shall require a major increase in new investment — the junking of obsolete equipment and the installation of modern machines, computers and other equipment at a more rapid pace than at any time in recent history.

This, requiring a new climate, means that private industrial managers be confident in the future, that investors be willing to increase their commitments and that unwise government regulation does not force industry into sterile channels.

Today, James J. Needham, chairman of the New York

Stock Exchange, observes that as a result of some unfortunate types of regulation, there has been "a significant diversion of funds into activities which do not generate more productive capacity. It is difficult to justify expensive federal regulatory requirements when their costs demonstrably exceed their value to society."

Perhaps most importantly, major sustained significant productivity increases require the nurturing of those among that great body of small firms which are in the forefront of technological advancement, whose investors and managers are willing to take great risks in return for major breakthroughs. If these companies prosper, the concepts they develop are adopted by major industrial firms, and productivity rises nationwide.

Unfortunately, as Needham told a congressional committee, "It is generally the newer and smaller businesses, rather than the larger and better established companies, that are squeezed out of the credit markets during periods of financial stringency. If these companies are forced to the wall for lack of capital, the competitive fabric of our economy will be weakened, and its innovative capacity eroded."

There is today a source of capital which has not been fully tapped. I refer to foreign capital — from Japan, Britain, continental Western Europe and from the major oil exporting countries. Despite the economic problems we face here, investment analysts in major foreign financial markets seem to agree opportunities in the United States are among the best in the world.

Unfortunately, despite our overall investment freedoms, restrictions and red tape serve to discourage those very investors we require if we are to meet the huge increases in productivity and in production capacity necessary to achieve our energy, antipollution, industrial safety and employment objectives.

'The Final Days' Disreputable

In their new book "The Final Days," Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein claim to describe the inner-circle events leading up to the resignation of Richard Nixon. Unless you are totally caught up by the salacious gossip aspect of the book, however — Nixon drunk, out of control, threatening suicide, John Ehrlichman trying to blackmail Nixon for a pardon, Ron Ziegler's egomaniacal trivialities — it is difficult not to regard the whole book with several sorts of dismay.

First, though none of the behavior described is absolutely incredible, you have no way of knowing what is authentic history, and what is not. The authors claim to have the testimony of two or more "sources" for each "fact" related. No source is identified. We have no notion of whether such sources in any instance are providing first-hand witness, gossip, hearsay, or fantasy.

Quite frequently, Woodward and Bernstein appear to be indulging in "creative" writing. They purport to inform us what the innermost thoughts and feelings of the principals were — matters on which evidence would be very difficult to come by. They put quotation marks around dialogue that supposedly took place many months ago. On these and other grounds, it is impossible to determine the proportion of fact to fiction here.

Throughout the narrative, moreover, the principal winners or at least survivors — Henry Kissinger, Alexander Haig, J. Fred Buzhardt — are presented in a generally very favorable light. Indeed, it is their interpretation that is usually imposed on events. The losers are consistently villains and fools: Nixon, Bob Haldeeman, Ehrlichman, Ziegler. Actually is seldom that neat or quite so conformable to fashionable taste.

In Woodward and Bernstein's version, for example, a great deal of distance is put between Henry Kissinger and his fallen patron.

Another dismaying feature of the book is the pervasive venom of the authors. Consider their following "interpretive" comment on an alleged Nixon quid pro quo with Watergate, Nixon allegedly hints at the possibility of suicide. He tells Al Haig that Army officers sometimes solve their problems with "a pistol in the drawer." Then: "I don't have a pistol," the President said sadly, as if it were one more deprivation in a long history of underprivilege.... It was the same time he used when he talked about his parents not having had any money."

That Nixon used just that tone under those circumstances strains belief. That the authors know just what tone he used is highly questionable. But there animus is clear.

Woodward and Bernstein's "The Final Days" is an ugly book, an intellectually disreputable one. But, of course, it will make a fortune for its perpetrators.

A Sure Way To Cut Public Spending

Every pollster in the land agrees the man on the street feels turned off by the major institutions supposedly created to make the democratic process work.

Their surveys taken in 1974-75 show a marked drop in confidence expressed in preceding samplings.

Conceivably the '74-75 ratings might indicate an improvement today now that the economy is showing signs of stronger breathing. The pollsters, however, project the possibility as relative at best and contend a behavioral turn around by the institutions is definitely in order.

Lowest on this confidence totem poll is the federal government. At bed rock is Congress, with the White House showing up a point or so better.

The samplers vary in their detailed explanations for this poor esteem, but essentially it gets around to the question of the public leaning in one direction and the Representatives and Senators for the most part headed on a tangent.

One point sticking out like a sore thumb is deficit spending.

John Q. Public wants to retrench, but so far has not impressed his elected voices in the national legislature who still believe the way to prosperity is to mortgage the future.

Since a letter to Congress only produces a form reply saying nothing, eight state legislatures have petitioned Congress to instigate a Constitutional amendment requiring Uncle Sam to function on the pay-as-you-go plan rather than fly now and pay later. The exception would be in time of war.

This is a tedious process.

It takes two-thirds of the 51 state legislatures to move the croquet ball through the first wicket and even if it passed, there is always the question of how diligently it would be enforced.

We are indebted to Mrs. Donald Schoonmaker, a long time Benton Harbor resident now living with her husband at Palmetto, Florida, for a more trenchant thought.

The other day she mailed in a thought from the Hope, Arkansas, Daily Star which we pass along to our readers.

Alex Washburn, The Star's editor and publisher, urges this approach: "Set up a Constitutional amendment stipulating that in any peace time fiscal year that government overspends its tax revenues, the salaries of Congressmen, Senators and the President be reduced by the percentage the deficit bears to the national debt."

Per his formula if the national debt is $500 billion and the budget is $50 billion in the red, then Congress and the White House take a 10 per cent pay cut.

It goes without saying Congress would move heaven and earth to stall Editor Washburn's idea as something worse than appointing Premier Kosygin as Secretary of State.

It's too close to the Biblical injunction anent physician heal thyself.

Mayor Returns Salvo At Leaders Of Recall

Benton Harbor Mayor Charles Joseph Monday night challenged leaders of a recall campaign to tell what they have done for the city and attacked recall chairman Maurice Bishop for owing delinquent taxes and for his record as a contractor in refurbishing homes in Benton township.

In a hard-hitting prepared statement to be read during Monday night's city commission meeting, Joseph lashed back at recent charges by members of the recall effort and also declared that more than $700,000 a year in salaries for policemen and firemen is being paid to employees who live outside the city limits.

Following the meeting, Joseph said that people were "fed up" with repeated allegations by the recall group and said his statement was in accord with his feelings. "They no longer want me to sit down here and be another nice guy when it doesn't call for it," he said.

Maurice says he pays more taxes than all of us...he ought to say he OWES more taxes than all of us," he added.

In his prepared statement, Joseph charged that if Bishop was serious about helping poor people he should start with "those 15 families in the township that Maurice Bishop supposedly did work on their homes.

He said Bishop received $50,000 in federal Neighborhood Development Program funds to refurbish the homes and that "presently Benton township is working with some of these people trying to repair some of this work."

In a reference to Bishop's objections about announced reductions of personnel in the police and fire departments, Joseph said that 89 per cent of the police force and 84 per cent of the firemen live outside the city limits.

He also declared that both departments are top-heavy with administration.

"There isn't one single policeman or fireman who complained (about the layoffs) who lives in the city," Joseph said after the meeting.

The full text of Joseph's statement:

"Maurice Bishop had an article in the newspaper today where he apparently attempts to decide policy for this City Commission, even before the Commission receives it.

"Maurice complains about a businessman has an application for a loan from the city. Mr. Sisson does have an existing business in Benton Harbor. However, the applications are initially reviewed by the Economic Development Department which is under the City Manager, not by the Mayor. Each member of this Commission has not only the opportunity but the responsibility of reviewing items presented to this Commission and looking at the total benefits as well as effects on the city. So it's pretty strange why Maurice Bishop decided to point out the Mayor, instead of directing his questions to Arnold Dolin, Charles Yarbrough, or Edmund Eanani. It's because Maurice Bishop feels that I am the only one that puts things into reviewing the material or may be the only one that will be interested in helping Benton Harbor businesses.

"There are presently 18 other applications being reviewed by the Economic Development Department. All of these applications were submitted by businessmen. Will all of these men come under attack by Maurice Bishop, or does he have a personal vendetta against Mr. Sisson? The city works with a number of businessmen each day and week.

"We had better take a long hard look at how many dollars that could benefit Benton Harbor are instead spent in St. Joseph downtown or the Plaza or other places because we haven't been able to help keep our businessmen downtown. First, he complained there are no businesses downtown — then he complains when a businessman requests assistance. This is nothing but double talk.

"If Maurice Bishop is really concerned about the police department and tax dollars then why hasn't he found out that 69% of our police department and 84% of our fire department live outside the city limits. There are tax dollars that are paid by residents that leave our city every week.

"Using the straight salary figures of employees in those departments I have found that in the fire department we can see $204,388 tax dollars being paid to people living outside the city and only $57,451 is paid to employees that live in Benton Harbor.

Police, Fire Cuts Are Defended

Benton Harbor City Manager James Peoples, Jr., last night defended the pending layoffs of 25 police and firemen saying the layoffs will still leave the city with the normal amount of police and firemen for a city of Benton Harbor's size.

Citing statistics from the Michigan Municipal League annual report, Peoples said at the city commission meeting that the average firefighting force for a city of Benton Harbor's size was 23 — while the proposed layoffs will leave the city with a force of 25 men. The average police force, he said, is 31. Peoples said — while the layoffs will leave the police department with 27.

The Michigan Municipal League report covered 518 cities nationwide with about the same population as the City of Benton Harbor.

Under the proposed layoffs announced earlier by Peoples, 14 police patrolmen and 11 firefighters will be dropped because of budget cuts. Heavy criticism has come from residents of burglarizing groups for both police and firemen claiming the layoffs will leave the city with "minimum protection."

"The statements (by police and firemen) left me a little bit disturbed," Peoples said last night. "The facts are that we have more than we can afford for a city of our size."

Peoples said he made the decision for the layoffs because of the city's financial condition. "The decision was mine. I know what we must do to keep the city solvent," he said. One of the city's major financial problems was a large amount of delinquent property taxes (about $750,000) that has accumulated over a number of years.

Peoples also compared the number of police and firemen in Benton Harbor with the number in the City of St. Joseph. He said St. Joseph has 21 firemen and 34 policemen and "both have been elected for doing a super job."

Peoples also appealed to city residents to keep their homes "fire-safe," not leaving children home alone and making sure electrical wiring is safe.

Office Plan Hearing Set In St. Joseph

St. Joseph city commissioners last night scheduled a public hearing for May 10 on the proposed downtown office district as outlined by the planning firm of Barton-Aschman Associates, Inc., Evanston, Ill. The commission also re-elected Franklin H. Smith to a fifth term as mayor and Joseph Hanley as mayor pro tem. Hanley has held that post two and a half years.

Commissioners Warren Gast and Leo Seibert were absent last night, leaving only Smith, Hanley and Commissioner William Gillespie to vote on commission officers.

In setting the public hearing, the commission also voted to accept a report of the city planning commission urging that the office district be pursued. Janus Heitkoite, chairman of the planning commission, said acceptance of the report did not mean city commission approval of the office district.

Heitkoite said approval would come, if at all, after the public hearing. He said the planning commission has already voted approval of the office district project.

Heitkoite told the city commission the office district is to be centered at Pleasant and Court streets, Long range plus, as outlined by Barton-Aschman, are for the office district to expand eventually to be bordered by Main street on the west, Port street on the north, Wayne street on the east and Broad street on the south.

Further details on the Barton-Aschman report were presented in the March 19 edition of The Herald-Palladium.

City Manager Gerald W. Hepler reported that snow and ice removal costs for 1975-76 (November through March) were up about $20,000 over the same period last year due mainly to heavy snow in January.

Hepler said it cost $91,119.46 for snow and ice removal this year as compared to $29,863.91 in 1974-75 and $37,865.30 in 1973-74.

However, in January of this year alone $31,128.43 was paid for snow and ice removal from city streets as compared to $7,262.06 and $13,987.03 the two previous years (1974-75 and 1973-74 respectively.)

In other business the commission:

—Voted to buy on low bid (including truck) from Ned Gates Chevrolet, Inc., Benton Harbor. The truck for public works will replace a 1968 model.

—Voted approval of a direct grant in the amount of $1,728 to Margaret Phillips for repairs to her home at 850 Myrtle avenue under the city's direct grant loan subsidy program.

At the end of last night's regular meeting Smith and Gillespie, both re-elected last week, were sworn into office by City Clerk Patrick Phelan.

Lake Shore Drive Will Be Closed, Motorists Reminded By State

Motorists are reminded Lake Shore drive (I-94 business loop) in St. Joseph is scheduled to be closed to through traffic from Cleveland avenue to Hilltop road starting Thursday while the C&O railway bridge deck is being repaired. The closure will extend to Aug. 1, according to Fred Russell, senior district engineer for the Michigan Department of State highways. The closure Thursday hinges on detour preparations that started Monday. The intersection of Cleveland avenue and Hilltop road will be widened to three lanes and a traffic light installed. The deck and beams of the viaduct will be removed and new steel beams and a concrete cover installed, Russell said.

Clark Names Chief For Forestry Sales

Larry C. Cross has been appointed U.S. sales manager of forestry equipment for Clark Forestry Company, Construction Machinery Division, Pipestone road, Benton township.

Cross will direct the activities of a newly created field sales organization and be held responsible for sales and distribution of the forestry product line.

He joined Clark in 1967, and has held positions in engineering, product development and marketing.

Internationally, since 1971, he has served as Clark's marketing manager for forestry equipment.

A native of Wake county, N.C., Cross is a graduate of North Carolina State University with a B.S. degree in forest management. He served on the logging committee of the World Forestry Congress in Germany, 1971.

Grinnell's Closing; May Return When Mall Opens

Grinnell's, now in the process of closing its Benton Harbor music store, intends to return to the Twin City area when the proposed Pipestone Mall opens, a store official said Monday.

Dave Sherrard, of Detroit, in charge liquidating stock in the store at 544 West Main street, said many of the company's stores are being relocated from downtowns to shopping malls and Grinnell's hopes to do the same here.

Sherrard said the lease on the downtown store is expiring, and the owner of Southfield, Mich., wants to sell the building. Otherwise, the store probably would have remained open until it could be moved to Pipestone Mall, he explained.

Grinnell's has been at its present location since 1956. Grinnell's is owned by American Music Stores, Inc., which has 54 other stores in Michigan, Ohio, and Indiana.

Pipestone Mall was first announced in 1974 when developer Meyer C. Weiner Co. bought 300 acres between Pipestone road and I-94 in Benton township. No stores have been built yet, but an unconfirmed report circulated last month that Detroit-based J.L. Hudson Co. would be an anchor store.

BH Commission Votes Loan For Store Outside Of City

The Benton Harbor city commission Monday night voted to approve a loan of $10,000 to establish a grocery store in Benton township.

Funds for the loan will come from federal Community Development grants and will go to Willie Sisson for rehabilitation of a former grocery located at 101 North Fair avenue — just outside the city limits.

Sisson told The Herald-Palladium that the store will be a $100,000 project to be known as "Cash-Way Foods" and he plans to employ at least five people. Under terms of the loan, at least three employees must be Benton Harbor residents.

Mayor Charles Joseph called the loan a "wise investment" while voting for approval along with Commissioners Helen Ford, Barbara Huckaby, Winston Elliott and Alfred Williams.

Commissioners Arnold Dolin and Edmund Eanani opposed the loan, Commissioner Charles Yarbrough abstained and Commissioner Charles Shepherd was absent from last night's meeting.

During discussion on the matter, Yarbrough questioned how the city could afford to invest $10,000 in a business that would not increase the city's tax base and Dolin objected that the United Community Development Corporation which is sponsoring the project was formed as a county-wide operation but was getting all its funds from the City of Benton Harbor. Joseph countered that the grocery would serve residents of the city as well as of the township — particularly senior citizens in that area — and added that "if he (Sisson) were white, I don't think there would be any problem."

"You sure got back all of a sudden," Yarbrough said. "I wish you would change soon, Yarbrough," the mayor retorted.

During the meeting Sisson said he had lived in Benton Harbor 35 years and asked that his tax record be compared "with other people in this city who are complaining to the

Bishop Owes $6,948, Says BH Manager

Maurice Bishop, leader of a recall drive against Benton Harbor Mayor Charles Joseph and four city commissioners, owes $6,948.90 in delinquent property taxes, including interest and penalties, City Manager James Peoples, Jr., said today.

Peoples said the delinquent property taxes were on Bishop's business, All Time Pest Control at 757 East Main street and eight other properties he owns in the city. Some of the delinquent property taxes go back to 1973 and were delinquent as of March 31, according to Peoples.

Bishop's delinquent property taxes were among points ticked off last night against the recall committee by Mayor Joseph.

When the St. Joseph-Lincoln Senior citizens center opened last August it told people where they could go to get services. Now the center is bringing many of these services under its roof at Luther hall, 500 Main street, St. Joseph, for senior citizens of St. Joseph city, St. Joseph township and Lincoln township.

PAULA FRENCH
Director

Paula French of Berrien Springs, center director, said, "We were like a referral bureau, waiting to help but not offering much on the spot."

Services currently available at the center include transportation, blood pressure checks, legal aid, employment assistance, home help and social educational programs. The center assists in finding employment for seniors.

The center still refers. Lawyers don't counsel people in the center but attorneys drop by to see who is in need of legal advice.

The center has an automobile available provided by LeValley-Kluhn Olds Cadillac of Benton Harbor. Senior citizens are encouraged to use available public transportation whenever possible but there are times when the center's auto is the only transportation available. Reservations are required 24 hours in advance except in the case of an emergency.

The blood pressure checks are conducted every other Thursday by a volunteer registered nurse. No diagnosis is made but members are referred to their own doctor when checks indicate abnormal blood pressure.

In addition to legal aid services, representatives of consumer protection units make formal group presentations on legal problems and consumer affairs.

Seniors who qualify, those whose income is less than $2,300 annually, can be hired for $2.50 per hour by non-profit organizations. The program is conducted through the Region IV of the area Agency on Aging. Seniors can work 20 hours a week.

Center personnel help senior citizens fill out Homestead tax forms and Medicare forms which often are quite complicated.

The social educational programs include craft classes, sewing, quilting, knitting, crocheting, card games and leisure time activities.

The center provides an atmosphere which encourages the elderly to participate. Mrs. French said that socialization helps prevent loneliness. Most programs are free. Programs are set up by a committee of seniors and the director.

A new program is providing hot, nutritious meals for seniors over 60 who for one reason or another may not get proper nourishment.

Meals were formerly served in the Saron Lutheran church dining room. With the addition of a new stove and refrigerator the lunches are served in the senior center area. Approximately 25 lunches are served Monday through Friday.

The elderly, Mrs. French said, have as many problems as any other age group. The problems are compounded, however, by their lack of mobility, lack of money, lack of companionship and sometimes lack of knowledge of where to go for simple services.

These problems often lead to emotional problems. Mrs. French said. She pointed out that an elderly person who has suffered the loss of a mate and whose family is grown up and away from home feels alone and neglected.

Mrs. French said the service goals of the center are to achieve or maintain economic self-support, to reduce or eliminate dependency; prevent or reduce institutional care by providing community based care, home based care or other forms of less intensive care and securing admission to institutions when other forms of care are not appropriate.

There are approximately 4,000 persons over 60 years of age in the center's service area. The census was taken by checking voter registration cards and from other sources.

Of the total over half, 2,288 live in the city of St. Joseph. St. Joseph township lists 810 and Lincoln township has 835.

Originally there were 150 elderly persons eligible for the Luther hall program listed on rolls collected by the Benton Harbor Senior center. St. Joseph residents were dropped from the Benton Harbor program on July 1, 1975.

At that time Mrs. French was working through the Agency on Aging as the regional volunteers coordinator. The St. Joseph area was without any formal services and a grant under a federal program, Title XX, was secured so Mrs. French could be hired as director on a part-time basis.

The center is located in Luther hall which is owned by Saron Lutheran church. Luther hall is the former St. Joseph public library.

The church provides the space at no cost to the senior citizens and takes care of utilities and janitor service.

At first the center occupied a small area sectioned off from a Sunday school classroom. As activities increased the center has taken over the entire first floor.

Luther hall basement is used as a teen center.

The rapid growth of the center's programs has caused a financial crisis. Originally the center was financed by federal funds with contributions from individuals and business. In addition the city of St. Joseph appropriated $900 and the village of Stevensville $50.

At present the board that governs the center operations have applied to the government units in its service area, St. Joseph city and St. Joseph and Lincoln townships for funds to help waging a $22,000 budget.

The center's fiscal year runs from Sept. 30, 1976 to Oct. 1, 1977. All funds raised locally are matched four for one. But local funds must be on deposit before federal funds are released, Mrs. French said.

The center will hold a bazaar and while elephant sale April 28, 29 and 30 to raise funds.

In an effort to lighten operations, Mrs. French has been hired as the permanent, full-time director.

Members of the senior citizens board, which meets on the second Tuesday, includes: Lloyd Mallet, Stevensville, president; Albert Dessel, St. Joseph, vice president; St. Joseph (Diane) Lang, St. Joseph, secretary and Mrs. Dorothy Curtis, St. Joseph, treasurer.

Other board members are Rev. Robert F. Andrews, Mrs. Ray (Maxine) Whitecomb, Miss Esther O'Neil, Mrs. Walter (Anna O.) Roschke, Rev. Richard Selmer, Dave Flister, Rev. Curtis Runkel, all of St. Joseph, Mrs. Eleanor Lancaster, Benton Harbor, Mrs. Rogers (Joan) Murray, Berrien Springs, and Rev. Lloyd Phillips, Stevensville.

Beef, Lamb, Or Ham For Easter?

For many families, Easter dinner is a time for all the family to gather for a festive occasion and a special meal. Since most meals center around the meat dish, check the possibilities carefully this year, suggests Maryann Beckman, Food Marketing Information Agent at Kalamazoo.

Supplies of beef animals are coming to market now are about seven per cent larger than last year but smaller than earlier this year. Supplies may decline through June through December.

This means consumers will probably find beef featured for the next couple of months, Mrs. Beckman says. Easter dinner may be a beef roast or even steak. From now through June is a good time to stock your freezer, too.

Lamb, the Easter tradition for many, is in about a four per cent shorter supply and percentage stocks are about 12 per cent below last year. Imports are up considerably but this won't increase lamb supplies greatly. Although a few stores may special lamb for Easter, you'll pay more this year.

"Don't overlook turkey as a choice. Although storage stocks in Feb. 1 were nearly 30 per cent below last year's large stocks, there is still plenty of turkey available. Retailers report they will have some specials for Easter and the rest of April. Supplies of chickens continue to be larger than a year ago, too, so look for specials and perhaps choose a couple of whole birds to roast for Easter dinner.

The traditional favorite, ham, will cost more than last year because pork supplies have been and will continue to be small until later in the year. Some retailers though are planning to special ham "at or below their costs" to meet shoppers' traditional needs and to attract them to their stores. Check specials and features between stores.

If you know your "hamology," it's still possible to spend the least total dollars and still have ham, according to Mrs. Beckman. Buying a whole ham or the shank portion or half with center slices still on, gives you the lowest price per pound. But portions or halves and ham slices or center ham roasts are more expensive.

The shank does have the largest amount of bone and, therefore, fewer servings per pound but total dollar cost will be less and with a couple of simple cuts with a sharp knife, before cooking, you can cut yourself a beautiful completely boneless roast this have some slices, chunks and meat on for other meals later on.

Simply cut straight into the smallest end of the shank until you hit bone. Then turn your knife at right angles and cut down, following the bone. The resulting largest piece, the boneless roast, makes, slice off some large as possible slices for frying, for use in scalloped potatoes and ham etc. Trim the bone even further for some ham chunks for casseroles etc.

The remaining bone can be simmered in water for bean or split pea soup stock. After simmering about an hour, remove bone and pick the meat pieces off to add to the soup you'll make in the remaining cooking liquid. Wrap the slices, chunks or meaty bone in separate foil packages and freeze for later meals. Or: If you've already made the soup from the bone, freeze it for later. Use all within one to three weeks time for best quality.

Fully-cooked boneless hams, whether canned or smoked, will be the most expensive in total dollars spent, but since they are boneless, they will give four servings per pound so will cost less per serving than other choices. Compare costs, brands, styles and form before making your final decision. Your final decision will depend on whether total dollars or saving time are most important to you.

Remember that even though many hams are now labeled as "fully cooked" and can be eaten without further cooking, flavor is improved if they're heated for 10 to 15 minutes per pound at 325 degrees. Those hams not labeled as fully cooked must be cooked before eating for 18 to 25 minutes per pound at 325 degrees.

SERVES ST. JOSEPH AND TWO TOWNSHIPS

Center Offers Many Services

When the St. Joseph-Lincoln Senior citizens center opened last August it told people where they could go to get services.

Now the center is bringing many of these services under its roof at Luther hall, 500 Main street, St. Joseph, for senior citizens of St. Joseph city, St. Joseph township and Lincoln township.

Paula French of Berrien

Director

Springs, center director, said, "We were like a referral bureau, wanting to help but not offering much on the spot."

Services currently available at the center include transportation, blood pressure checks, legal aid, employment assistance, homestead tax and Medicare form help and social-educational programs. The center assists in finding employment for seniors.

The center still refers. Lawyers don't counsel people in the center but attorneys drop by to see who is in need of legal advice.

The center has an automobile available provided by Levalley-Klum Olds Cadillac of Benton Harbor. Senior citizens are encouraged to use available public transportation whenever possible but there are times when the center's auto is the only transportation available. Reservations are required 24 hours in advance except in the case of an emergency.

The blood pressure checks are conducted every other Thursday by a volunteer registered nurse. No diagnosis is made but members are referred to their own doctor when checks indicate abnormal blood pressure.

In addition to legal aid services, representatives of consumer protection units make formal group presentations on legal problems and consumer affairs.

Seniors who qualify, those whose income is less than $2,500 annually, can be hired for $2.50 per hour by non-profit organizations. The program is conducted through the Region IV of the area Agency on Aging. Seniors can work 20 hours a week.

Center personnel help senior citizens fill out Homestead tax forms and Medicare forms which often are quite complicated.

The social-educational programs include craft classes, sewing, quilting, knitting, crocheting, card games and leisure time activities.

The center provides an atmosphere which encourages the elderly to participate. Mrs. French said that socialization helps prevent loneliness. Most programs are free. Programs are set up by a committee of seniors and the director.

A new program is providing hot, nutritionally-accented noon lunches for those seniors over 60 who for one reason or another may not get proper nourishment.

Meals were formerly served in the Saron Lutheran church dining room. With the addition of a new stove and refrigerator the lunches are served in the senior center area. Approximately 25 lunches are served Monday through Friday.

The elderly, Mrs. French said, have as many problems as any other age group. The problems are compounded, however, by their lack of mobility, lack of money, lack of companions and sometimes lack of knowledge of where to go for simple services.

These problems often lead to emotional problems. Mrs. French said. She pointed out that an elderly person who has suffered the loss of a mate and whose family is grown up and away from home feels alone and neglected.

Mrs. French said the service goals of the center are to achieve or maintain economic self-support to reduce or eliminate dependency; prevent or reduce institutional care by providing community based care, home based care or other forms of less intensive care and securing admission to institutions when other forms of care are not appropriate.

There are approximately 4,100 persons over 60 years of age in the center's service area. The census was taken by checking voter registration cards and from other sources.

Of the total over half, 2,288 live in the city of St. Joseph. St. Joseph township lists 910 and Lincoln township has 935.

Originally there were 150 elderly persons eligible for the Luther hall program listed on rolls collected by the Benton Harbor Senior center. St. Joseph residents were dropped from the Benton Harbor program on July 1, 1975.

At that time Mrs. French was working through the Agency on Aging as the regional volunteers coordinator. The St. Joseph area was without any formal services and a grant under a federal program, Title XX, was secured so Mrs. French could be hired as director on a part-time basis.

The center is located in Luther hall which is owned by Saron Lutheran church. Luther hall is the former St. Joseph public library.

The church provides the space at no cost to the senior citizens and takes care of utilities and janitor service.

At first the center occupied a small area sectioned off from a Sunday school classroom. As activities increased the center has taken over the entire first floor.

Luther hall basement is used as a teen center.

The rapid growth of the center's programs has caused a financial crisis. Originally the center was financed by federal funds with contributions from individuals and business. In addition the city of St. Joseph appropriated $500 and the village of Stevensville $50.

At present the board that governs the center operations have applied to the government units in its service area, St. Joseph city and St. Joseph township for funds to help swing a $22,000 budget.

In an effort to tighten operations, Mrs. French has been hired as the permanent, full-time director.

Beef, Lamb, Or Ham For Easter?

For many families, Easter dinner is a time for all the family to gather for a festive occasion and a special meal. Since most meals center around the meat dish, check the possibilities carefully this year, suggests Maryann Beckman, Food Marketing Information Agent at Kalamazoo.

Supplies of beef animals coming to market now are about seven per cent larger than last year but smaller than earlier this year. Supplies may decline though from June through December.

Don't overlook turkey as a choice. Although storage stocks on Feb. 1 were nearly 30 per cent below last year's large stocks, there is still plenty of turkey available. Retailers report they will have some specials for Easter and the rest of April. Supplies of chickens continue to be larger than a year ago, too, so look for specials and perhaps choose a couple of whole birds to roast for Easter dinner.

Tickets may be purchased at the Benton Harbor high school technical center on Valley drive or from any student participating in the program.

The Co-op programs provide students enrolled in these programs the opportunities of actual work experiences by the coordinators, Karen Trefry, Larry Kinney and Patricia Quinn, placing the students in retailing and office jobs throughout the twin cities area.

At the end of the school year, the students and coordinators host annual employer-employee banquets to give appreciation to all persons who helped make the Co-op programs' goals realities during the school year.

At that time, scholarships are also given to deserving students. This fashion show is one of many fund-raising activities that make these banquets and scholarships possible, according to Mrs. Dunn.

'Anything Goes'

Style Show

Tomorrow

The Distributive Education and Office Education Co-op programs of Benton Harbor high school will sponsor a fashion show, "Anything Goes!" Wednesday, April 14, at 7 p.m., at the Benton Harbor high school performing arts center.

Donation for the show is $1. Fashions will be provided by Michele's and Johnny's Fashions of Benton Harbor.

Tickets may be purchased at the Benton Harbor high school technical center on Valley drive or from any student participating in the program.

The Co-op programs provide students enrolled in these programs the opportunities of actual work experiences by the coordinators, Karen Trefry, Larry Kinney and Patricia Dunn, placing the students in retailing and office jobs throughout the twin cities area.

At the end of the school year, the students and coordinators host annual employer-employee banquets to give appreciation to all persons who helped make the Co-op programs' goals realities during the school year.

At that time, scholarships are also given to deserving students. This fashion show is one of many fund-raising activities that make these banquets and scholarships possible, according to Mrs. Dunn.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Eyeballs Are Sure To Pop

Dear Ann Landers: I live with another woman who has a young female child. Yes, we are lesbians and I am not ashamed of it.

I am very fond of the little girl and consider myself very nearly a parent because of my relationship with her mother.

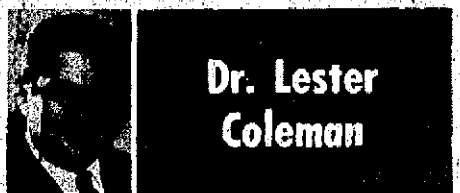

What I need to know is what I should call this child when I refer to her in conversations? I don't like to say, "She is the daughter of my roommate," because she is much more than that.

I am proud of the fact that she is the daughter of the woman I love and is as dear to me as if she were my own child. Your suggestions will be greatly appreciated. — No Clusets For Us

Dear No Clusets: The question you should be asking yourself is why do you feel the need to hit people over the head with the fact that you are involved in a lesbian relationship? It seems to me this is a personal matter. In fact, I can think of no matter that is more personal.

Since you feel compelled to cut the world in on your sexual preference, you could refer to the child as "the daughter of my female lover with whom I am living." If it's popped eyeballs you're after, you'll get them.

Agreed

Dr. Lester Coleman

I have had part of my stomach removed because of an ulcer. Since the operation I am free from pain. Every once in a while I suddenly become weak and feel as if I am about to faint. My doctor says that this is called a "dumping" effect, and that it will disappear. Does this always happen after such an operation?

Mr. G.R.E., Calif.

Dear Mr. E.: For reasons that are not completely clear, some patients (not all) develop the "dumping syndrome" after the removal of part of their stomach.

Sudden attacks of dizziness, weakness, sweating, and palpitation are characteristic of this problem.

Some physicians believe that these sensations, which occur about an hour after eating, may be related to a sudden fall of blood sugar (hypoglycemia).

A new substance, serotonin, is now suspected as being the reason for this unpleasant group of symptoms. It is believed that serotonin is released by the body when the small intestines become distended after eating.

Patients who suffer from the "dumping" syndrome are given a high protein diet and are advised to eat small amounts of food at more frequent intervals.

It is also suggested that after eating they lie down and rest for half an hour. This seems to modify the severity and the frequency of the attacks.

Is there any reason why a girl should avoid sports and other activities during her menstrual period?

Dear Miss L.: One of the myths associated with menstruation is that it is injurious to indulge in sports during that time.

There is little or no medical might do?

We, too, were recently involved in the death of a three-year-old child who darted in front of our car. There was no way I could have avoided hitting him. The child's parents were responsible for allowing him to run loose in the street.

Now they are suing us for an astronomical sum and the anxiety is terrible. We not only grieve for the dead child and suffer from the shock and horror of the accident, but we must hire an attorney to defend us and worry about being wiped out financially after a lifetime of hard work and frugal living.

No responsible jury could reward these parents for their carelessness. But juries are notoriously sympathetic when a small child's death is involved, especially when they think a wealthy insurance company will pick up the tab. We believe such cases should be heard only by a judge, since he is trained to assess the facts. What say you, Ann? — Victims In Salem

Dear Victims: Amen. I'm with you all the way.

First Choice

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter has been invited to the prom by a nice boy. She hasn't given him a definite answer yet because she is hoping to be asked by a boy she likes better. I say this is unfair — that she should either accept the first invitation or not go.

She claims it's not done that way any more. I don't want to insist that my daughter live by my standards if they are outdated. We've agreed to abide by your answer, Ann. What is it? — Jackson, Mich.

Dear Mich: Integrity never goes out of style. It is unfair to keep a fellow dangling while waiting for "a better offer." If your daughter would prefer to go with another boy she should say so to this one and take her chances.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers's booklet, "Marriage — What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing 90 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Usually the defense tries to avoid giving declarer a ruff and a discard, but there are always exceptions.

If West had opened a diamond South would have had no play for his three-heart contract, but West opened his partner's suit.

South took dummy's ace, cashed three trumps while winning the third lead in his hand, led the 10 of diamonds and let it ride. East was in with the queen and stopped to figure things out. He cashed his king of clubs. Then he led a third club!

South could ruff in either hand and discard in the other, but this did him no good. East was bound to gain the lead twice more. The first time he would lead a fourth club. South would ruff with the one heart left to him — either his own or dummy's, but East would get in again and this time his fifth and last club would be the setting trick.

Ask the Jacobys

A Missouri reader says, "I opened with one heart."

My partner responded two diamonds. I tried two spades. He bid three diamonds. What should I have done next?

Our correspondent had pointed himself into a corner by opening a hand with only nine high-card points. If he passed at this stage, he might be missing a game — if he bid he might wind up taking an enormous penalty.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Associates will make heavy demands on your time and talents today. Yet they're not apt to be too cooperative in return.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The boss will have his eye on you today. Don't try to slip anything past him. Perform your tasks to the best of your ability.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be on guard socially today; not to do something unthinkingly that could seriously offend a friend.

CANCER (June 21-July 21) It may seem like all at your house today have chips on their shoulders, including you. Don't let things get out of hand.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22) If you're doing mental work today don't let your attention wander. Prior concentration will pave the way for big mistakes.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Budget your resources with extreme care today. Try not to assume new obligations (all you're sure the old ones are taken care of).

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Foreboding or dictatorial types should be avoided today if at all possible. They could cause you problems.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Today's conditions tend to res-

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Screen carefully any proposition offered you today by one whose reputation is even a bit questionable. It could be a hummer.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Eyeballs Are Sure To Pop

Dear Ann Landers: I live with another woman who has a young female child. Yes, we are lesbians and I am not ashamed of it.

I am very fond of the little girl and consider myself very nearly a parent because of my relationship with her mother.

What I need to know is what I should call this child when I refer to her in conversations? I don't like to say, "She is the daughter of my roommates," because she is much more than that.

I am proud of the fact that she is the daughter of the woman I love and is as dear to me as if she were my own child. Your suggestions will be greatly appreciated. — No Closets For Us

Dear No Closets: The question you should be asking yourself is why do you feel the need to hit people over the head with the fact that you are involved in a lesbian relationship? It seems to me this is a personal matter. In fact, I can think of no matter that is more personal.

Since you feel compelled to cut the world in on your sexual preference, you could refer to the child as "the daughter of my female lover with whom I am living." If it's popped eyeballs you're after, you'll get them.

Agreed

Dear Ann Landers: "Murderer Without Guilt" has my sympathy. And now may I add a footnote for whatever good it might do?

We, too, were recently involved in the death of a three-year-old child who darted in front of our car. There was no way I could have avoided hitting him. The child's parents were responsible for allowing him to run loose in the street.

Now they are suing us for an astronomical sum and the anxiety is terrible. We not only grieve for the dead child and suffer from the shock and horror of the accident, but we must hire an attorney to defend us and worry about being wiped out financially, after a lifetime of hard work and frugal living.

No responsible jury could reward these parents for their carelessness. But juries are notoriously sympathetic when a small child's death is involved, especially when they think a wealthy insurance company will pick up the tab. We believe such cases should be heard only by a judge, since he is trained to assess the facts. What say you, Ann? — Victims In Salem

Dear Victims: Amen. I'm with you all the way.

First Choice

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter has been invited to the prom by a nice boy. She hasn't given him a definite answer yet because she is hoping to be asked by a boy she likes better. I say this is unfair — that she should either accept the first invitation or not go.

She claims it's not done that way any more. I don't want to insist that my daughter live by my standards if they are outdated. We've agreed to abide by your answer, Ann. What is it? — Jackson, Mich.

Dear Mich: Integrity never goes out of style. It is unfair to keep a fellow dangling while waiting for "a better offer." If your daughter would prefer to go with another boy she should say so to this one and take her chances.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers's booklet, "Marriage — What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dr. Lester Coleman

I have had part of my stomach removed because of an ulcer. Since the operation I am free from pain. Every once in a while I suddenly become weak and feel as if I am about to faint. My doctor says that this is called a "dumping" effect, and that it will disappear. Does this always happen after such an operation?

Mr. G.R.E., Calif.

Dear Mr. E.: For reasons that are not completely clear, some patients (not all) develop the "dumping syndrome" after the removal of part of their stomach.

Sudden attacks of dizziness, weakness, sweating and palpitation are characteristic of this problem.

Some physicians believe that these sensations, which occur about an hour after eating, may be related to a sudden fall of blood sugar (hypoglycemia).

A new substance, serotonin, is now suspected as being the reason for this unpleasant group of symptoms. It is believed that serotonin is released by the body when the small intestines become distended after eating.

Patients who suffer from the "dumping" syndrome are given a high protein diet and are advised to eat small amounts of food at more frequent intervals.

It is also suggested that after eating they lie down and rest for half an hour. This seems to modify the severity and the frequency of these attacks.

Is there any reason why a girl should avoid sports and other activities during her menstrual period?

Dear Miss L.: One of the myths associated with menstruation is that it is injurious to indulge in sports during that time.

There is little or no medical reason for this. In the absence of severe abdominal cramps there is no reason why sports should be curtailed.

Most young women do not go swimming for esthetic reasons, rather than for reasons of medical danger.

I have a click in my ear when I open my mouth wide. In addition, it begins to hurt for no reason. Then, I am unable to chew for a few days until the pain disappears. What does this sound like?

Mrs. N.F., Okla.

Dear Mrs. F.: Your description is an accurate one for a problem that arises in the jaw joint. People with malocclusion (improper position) of the biting surface of the teeth frequently have changes in the jaw joint and symptoms such as you describe.

There are now dentists who specialize in the problems of the temporomandibular joints. They are called in consultation when general dentists need their expertise for such special problems that arise.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "What to Do About Ulcers." For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. ## Labor Heroine Dies At 61

DETROIT (AP) — Back in the 1930s, Myra K. Wolfgang would stand up on a flatbed truck, pouring out her contempt for the bosses and her dedication to the workers.

The darling of Detroit's tumultuous labor movement and one of the nation's first women union organizers, she became one of labor's most powerful leaders.

Mrs. Wolfgang, the first women vice president of the 480,000-member Hotel and Restaurant Employees and Bartenders International Union,

AFLCIO, died Monday of cancer.

She had been hospitalized since March 25 with an intestinal obstruction after undergoing surgery in January for removal of a blood clot on the brain.

She would have been 62 on April 20.

Mrs. Wolfgang was known as a tough bargainer and a blunt speaker — a radical who railed at labor's "fat do-nothing establishment" and took as her protégé a man thrown out of another union on suspicion of being a Communist. She once said of her reputation: "Trouble? I don't look for it, but by God, I don't run away from it."

Scaled-Down Jobs Bill Favored

By TOM RAUM

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A scaled-down $2.5-billion public works jobs bill before the Senate stands a good chance of being accepted by President Ford as long as Congress doesn't increase the price tag, a Senate Republican leader says.

But Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., assistant minority leader, also warned that expensive amendments could make Senate consideration of the bill "a futile political exercise."

The Senate today was to begin work on the measure designed as an alternative to the $6.1-billion jobs bill vetoed earlier this year by President Ford.

Two expensive programs contained in the vetoed measure were left out of the new version, but efforts are expected to be made to tack them on again during floor debate.

Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, has indicated he intends to try to revive a $1.5-billion antirecession revenue-sharing program to aid local governments in times of high unemployment. That measure was in the vetoed bill, as was a $1.4-billion program of new federal grants for waste treatment programs also missing from the proposed compromise.

In a Senate speech Monday, Griffin said the scaled-down version, which backers say could generate 50,000 to 100,000 new jobs, mostly in construction projects, is "a lot closer to the mark" than the vetoed measure.

But he urged senators to unite behind the bill and fight off attempts "to turn it back into a budget-busting bill."

Ford vetoed the earlier bill on Feb. 13, calling it "little more than an election year pork barrel." The House voted 319 to 88 to override the veto, but the Senate failed to do so by three votes to achieve the required two-thirds majority.

Senate Public Works Committee Chairman Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., said the compromise bill is "our partial response to the pressing need for new jobs."

"This legislation particularly addresses the situation in the construction industry where the unemployment rate in February was 15.5 per cent — more than double the national average."

The public works jobs bill is the second measure designed to create jobs up for congressional consideration this week. Congress sent to the White House on Monday a bill carrying $1.2 billion for public service jobs designed to maintain through January 1977 the present level of 315,000 persons employed in special programs by state and local governments.

The bill also carries $328.4 million for 888,000 jobs for youths this summer, a proposal requested by Ford, $55.4 million for 15,000 jobs for elderly persons and $23 million for summer recreation and community programs.

Senate Backs Defense Budget

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is backing President Ford's request for a record peacetime defense budget but is making no moves to cut domestic spending that the administration finds "unnecessary or undesirable."

In adopting an over-all $412.6-billion federal spending ceiling for fiscal 1977, the Senate beat down an attempt to cut defense programs by $500 million.

The Senate on Monday gave Ford nearly all he asked for defense, trimming only $300 million from the $101.1 billion he requested. The $500-million additional cut proposed in an amendment by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., was beaten by a 58 to 27 vote.

The House only last Friday indicated its support for a high level of defense spending, passing a $33.3-billion military weapons procurement bill at a level $1 billion more than Ford requested.

The resolution setting congressional spending ceilings now goes to the House for consideration after an Easter recess ending April 26.

The $412.6-billion over-all budget compares with $395.2 billion recommended by Ford in January.

The Senate Budget Committee, which had recommended cutting the $300 million in defense spending, calculated that its ceiling for 17 categories of expenditures would produce a deficit next year of $50.2 billion. But this figure was disputed by administration officials.

The administration's budget calls for a $46.6 billion deficit on figures also disputed by congressional budget experts.

Budget director James T. Lynn said after Monday's vote that the Senate budget target will produce a deficit of $54 billion next fiscal year.

PLO Winner In West Bank Voting

NABLUS, Occupied Jordan (AP) — Arab resistance to the Israeli occupation of West Jordan stiffened today as Palestinian nationalists and radicals scored a sweeping victory in Arab municipal elections throughout the occupied territory.

"The Israelis are shocked — they didn't expect such results," said Mayor Karim Khalaf of Ramallah, who campaigned successfully for reelection as an avowed supporter of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

The semi-official Israeli state radio admitted the voting in 22 towns and villages Monday was a protest against the occupation, and that it showed support for the PLO.

Khalaf said the Arabs living under Israeli occupation could now "put up a united front against Jewish settlements in the West Bank," which Israel captured from Jordan in the 1967 war.

There had been sporadic anti-Israeli riots for the past two months in the occupation zone, but no violence was reported Monday. Instead, an air of festivity prevailed as 62,966 Palestinian Arabs voted for town council members, a turnout of 72.3 per cent of those eligible.

There was no immediate comment from the Israeli military government in the West Bank. But the outcome clearly indicated increasing resistance to Israel's nine-year control over West Jordan and its 670,000 Arab residents.

One of the winning candidates was Atallah Ghashmawi, a Communist held in an Israeli jail on suspicion of being an agent for the outlawed PLO. His family asked the occupation government to release him so he could take his seat on the council of Beit Sahur, a suburb of Bethlehem.

In Bethlehem itself, the pro-Fatah forces led by Mayor Elias Freij were returned to office.

Bill Would Bar PBB In Feed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Commercial feed containing any amount of PBB could not be sold in Michigan under legislation scheduled for a House vote. The House moved the bill, sponsored by Rep. Donald Albosta, D-St. Charles, into position for a final vote Monday.

Federal guidelines allow products containing less than three-tenths parts per million to be sold. Supporters of the bill said that while the state Department of Agriculture already tests feed for PBB, it would give the agency statutory authority to do so, making the presence of PBB a violation of the Commercial Feed Law. The state Department of Public Health says there is no short-term evidence that eating PBB-tainted food hurts humans. But a 15-year study is underway.

Mortgaged Dairy Herd Is Spared Farmer's Gun

HERSEY, Mich. (AP) — Acting on advice from his lawyer, Louis Trombley has spared his 71 ailing cows from being shot to death.

The Osceola County dairyman's lawyer gave the advice Monday after the federal Farmers Home Administration, which holds the cattle as security on $35,000 Trombley borrowed, said it "cannot and will not condone the destruction of FHA security."

But the lawyer, Paul Greer of Fremont, said he will file suit trying to have the state's agriculture director ordered to remove cattle containing any amount of polybrominated biphenyl (PBB) from Michigan's farms. Greer estimated such legal action will take at least a month.

Trombley blames PBB for his cattle's decline, although state tests show the animals contain too little of chemical to be quarantined.

Animals with more than .3 parts per million of PBB are quarantined and destroyed.

Those with smaller amounts may be sold legally.

But Trombley insisted, "I'll lose everything I've got before I'll put those cattle on the market." He claimed the federal agency wanted him to sell the animals to help meet his loan.

Trombley told a U.S. Senate subcommittee last week that he and other farmers planned to kill their ailing herds rather than "let the cattle stand out there until they drop dead."

He reported Monday that an unidentified farmer with 170 head plans to execute them later this week.

PBB Panel Has Address

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — An address at which people can contact the state panel investigating the PBB problem in Michigan was announced Monday.

Complaints and information regarding human and animal health problems stemming from the contamination of feed may be sent to the address, state officials said.

Written documentation may be sent to: PBB Scientific Advisory Panel, P.O. Box 10219, Lansing, Michigan, 48901.

Mixup In PBB Story Corrected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Associated Press incorrectly reported Senate testimony last Thursday on how quantities of a toxic chemical allegedly got into animal feed in Michigan.

Food and Drug Commissioner Alexander M. Schmidt testified that Michigan Chemical Co. of St. Louis, Mich., manufactured "Firemaster," a flame retardant containing hexabrominated-biphenyl, and "Nutrimaster," an animal feed additive with magnesium tetroxide. Both products were packaged in similar 50-pound brown paper bags, he said, but labels fell off as the bags were opened.

The Food and Drug Administration, in its investigation of why dairy cows were becoming ill, discovered that in early 1973 between 10 and 20 bags of "Firemaster" were inadvertently substituted for "Nutrimaster" and distributed in about 320 tons of feed, Schmidt testified.

"It was discovered that the Michigan Chemical Co. had sent Firemaster, instead of Nutrimaster, to the Michigan Farm Bureau Services, who manufactured the feed," he said.

The Associated Press had erroneously quoted Schmidt as testifying that Michigan Chemical Co. had inadvertently added the flame retardant chemical to the feed.

figure is even more startling seeing $420,423 going for salaries of employees living outside the city limits while only $189,848 is being paid to employees living in the city.

"When I look at a total of over $700,000 leaving this city to residents of other communities, while they still ask for money, that makes me furious."

"But, as I understand this entire matter, isn't all of this rhetoric supposed to be for the good of the taxpayers and the poor people? Well, why doesn't Maurice Bishop really get serious, about helping poor people. A good place to start would be with these 18 families in the township that Maurice Bishop supposedly did work on their homes."

"Maurice Bishop received over $50,000 from Benton township for work done under NDP — a federal program. Presently Benton township is working with some of these people trying to repair some of this work."

"Maurice Bishop knows a great deal about government money — like the money paid to All Time Pest Control from federal money by Benton township, and the money paid to All Time Pest Control from the Benton Harbor/Benton Township Housing commission, and the money he used to get from the City of Benton Harbor to All Time Pest Control."

"Maurice Bishop is guilty of the same types of things that have steered many people and other city officials wrong in the past."

"Maurice Bishop talks about $134,000 as a city waste. How can it be a city waste if it hasn't even been spent and some of it not even approved when he wrote the article."

"I noticed the word 'give' the People's Community Federal Credit Union $7,000. What is meant by give this credit union. There were over 30 applications for community development programs. Why would the government distribute community development money and set guidelines for these funds if it wasn't to be used for programs?"

"Maurice Bishop knows there are guidelines for this money."

and they are similar to the same guidelines that HUD is now using to review the work he did on those 15 houses in the township.

"If Maurice Bishop and his group were so concerned about tax dollars and making sure the city had enough money — maybe it would be a good idea if he first began his good Samaritan act by paying some of his own 'delinquent taxes' — or is the proper word 'default taxes'? If some of the others were so interested in the city, they should become taxpayers and begin putting something into this city rather than attempting to tear down at any slight chance."

"If Maurice Bishop is really so concerned about Benton Harbor, poor folks and getting a fair shake, then he should prove this to me and the public by demonstrating his good faith. Wouldn't you think that Maurice Bishop would willingly go out and help those poor families have a better life by getting their homes back up to standard — at no additional cost."

"Then, of course, Maurice should come right down to city hall and pay his taxes."

"It's strange but I remember when Maurice was a member of the credit union — it was one night at an annual meeting when Maurice didn't get the position that he apparently wanted that he jumped up and shouted out how upset he was and said he was taking his money out of the credit union — he banged the chair and took his money."

"Doesn't this remind you of the little boy that would take his marbles and go home if he wasn't winning the game?"

"It's much better to provide people with a system that can teach them how to save and invest — rather than not provide them with anything and criticize if they steal."

"What's wrong with teaching families and helping them learn to provide economic stability through a financial institution?"

"First, this group (recall committee) complains that we don't have any businesses left in Benton Harbor. Then they complain when businessmen try to get help to keep their businesses open. It's a clear contradiction and I am tired of people talking out of both sides of their mouth."

"Well, no businessman can ever say that I was part of the groups that threatened and harassed them asking for hand-outs and intimidations until many of the businesses had to leave the city."

"Many businessmen left this community because of unpublished intimidation and threats. Businessmen have admitted to me that it wasn't the people that may walk in off the streets and shoplift that ran them out of business — but rather a lot of other threats made on them by groups that used pressure tactics to make them give away large amounts of merchandise."

"I hope every businessman can see just how dangerous this trend can be. Not only to other businessmen — but to each of them, as well. The Benton Harbor businesses need help. Many of them have requested help. Many more are afraid to ask for help. Because they don't wish to be intimidated like Mr. Sisson was in the newspaper. Many citizens need help and are always afraid to ask for fear they will be singled out and harassed."

"Now because they see some things happening it looks like fun. . . and I guess they want to have some fun. . . well, this is just another case that children play house and dolls because it's fun as kids and they don't understand the real responsibilities."

"Apparently this group of people that are so upset are only seeing the high heels, and the daddy's big hat and think it's fun but this city must operate from experienced, knowledgeable people that are truly willing to do a job and work very hard."

"Yes, we need an Ombudsman and a newsletter. We need it even more when it is so obvious that so many do not really understand the fundamentals of this government or realize what the laws of this state mean. The article in the newspaper today only reinforces the need for more people to work with our citizens so they really understand what is going on and what the government is all about."

"I intend to continue helping businessmen, citizens, and any other agency, or organization that will truly benefit the people. I haven't seen a program designed yet that will meet all of the needs of all the people at the same. . . so until I see it, I will continue working under the provisions of the law and using the laws and means available to provide a better life for people."

"I offer the challenge to the others to come up and tell us what they have done to help anybody. . . how much time have they contributed to citizens. . . how much have they given. . . how I know they won't tell us how much they have gotten. . . probably they won't tell us about the $50,000. . . Just tell us what they have done."

newspaper," an obvious reference to an attack on the proposed loan earlier Monday by recall leader Maurice Bishop.

Sisson later told The Herald-Palladium that although he now lives in Benton township, he still owns three parcels of property in the city including Smoke's Lounge at 250 North Fair and that he pays "$1,600 to $1,700 a year" in property taxes to the city.

In other business last night, the commission tabled until a workshop discussion Thursday discussion of a request from Dr. Harzel Taylor that the city act as sponsor or "umbrella agency" for the Benton Harbor dental clinic at 684 East High Street.

The clinic has been administered by the Berrien county health department and has operated since March, 1975, with Medicaid payments, but the health department last month announced its plans to phase out the clinic operation by June 30.

Phasing out the clinic, has been supported by the Lakeland Valley Dental Society, but Dr. Taylor has said he wants to continue clinic operations with available Community Development funds if he can obtain a necessary sponsoring agency.

The commission voted to set April 28 as the date for a public hearing on granting tax exemption certificates to Michigan Standard Alloys and Superior Steel under Industrial Development District and Rehabilitation District acts.

The commission already has

CENTREVILLE — A Portage, Ind., man has been charged here with criminal sexual conduct in connection with a complaint from a 14-year-old Berrien Springs girl.

Booked into the St. Joseph county jail here Saturday was John Carl Tallos, 30, of Portage. He was charged with criminal sexual conduct in the third degree which includes the charge of rape, according to St. Joseph sheriff's deputies.

Officers said Tallos was arrested about 3:30 p.m. Saturday in Three Rivers, 15 minutes after a witness reported seeing the Berrien Springs girl either jumping or being thrown from a moving car on M-80, about three miles west of Mendon.

Deputies said the girl, who was not injured, told them she had been picked up while hitchhiking in Niles about 1 p.m. by a lone man who drove her to Branch county and then back into St. Joseph county where the attack occurred. Officers said the girl told them the man had threatened her with bodily harm but did not have a weapon.

The girl told officers she had been attempting to run away from home in Massachusetts.

Tallos demanded preliminary examination when arraigned in St. Joseph district court Monday and was returned to the jail in lieu of $2,500 bond.

In other business last night, the commission tabled until a workshop discussion Thursday discussion of a request from Dr. Harzel Taylor that the city act as sponsor or "umbrella agency" for the Benton Harbor dental clinic at 664 East High street."

The clinic has been administered by the Berrien county health department and has operated since March, 1975, with Medicaid payments, but the health department last month announced its plans to phase out the clinic operation by June 30."

Phasing out the clinic has been supported by the Lakeland Valley Dental Society, but Dr. Taylor has said he wants to continue clinic operations with available Community Development funds if he can obtain a necessary sponsoring agency."

The commission voted to set April 26 as the date for a public hearing on granting tax exemption certificates to Michigan Standard Alloys and Superior Steel under Industrial Development District and Rehabilitation District acts."

The commission already has

Hoosier Accused

CENTREVILLE — A Portage, Ind., man has been charged here with criminal sexual conduct in connection with a complaint from a 14-year-old Berrien Springs girl.

Booked into the St. Joseph county jail here Saturday was John Carl Tallos, 30, of Portage. He was charged with criminal sexual conduct in the third degree which includes the charge of rape, according to St. Joseph sheriff's deputies."

Officers said Tallos was arrested about 3:30 p.m. Saturday in Three Rivers, 15 minutes after a witness reported seeing the Berrien Springs girl either jumping or being thrown from a moving car on M-60, about three miles west of Mendon."

Deputies said the girl, who was not injured, told them she had been picked up while hitchhiking in Niles about 1 p.m. by a lone man who drove her to Branch county and then back into St. Joseph county where the attack occurred. Officers said the girl told them the man had threatened her with bodily harm but did not have a weapon."

The girl told officers she had been attempting to run away from home to Massachusetts."

Tallos demanded preliminary examination when arraigned in St. Joseph district court Monday and was returned to the jail in lieu of $2,500 bond."

Argentine Military Regime Cracks Down On Unions

By WILLIAM R. LONG
Associated Press Writer

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The military government is taking firm but cautious measures to control organized labor, which has been a dominant force in recent Argentine history.

The movement was molded into a political force by the late President Juan D. Peron. But unions did little or nothing to protest when the armed forces overthrew Peron's widow and successor, President Isabel Peron, in a coup March 24.

Since then, military authorities have suspended all collective bargaining, banned strikes and taken charge of many important union organizations.

In a communique early this month, the Labor Ministry warned that participants in any "stoppage, interruption or reduction of work" will be subject to imprisonment. Government authorities and industrial managers claim absenteeism has declined sharply, but they give no figures.

Another communique said union members would not be given leaves of absence to be ship stewards, as was the practice before the coup.

But the same communique said leaves of absence will continue to be granted to members who work as officials in union headquarters. This was seen by labor sources as an important concession and an indication the government does not intend to dismantle the labor union movement.

The government has, however, "intervened" a dozen important national unions, dismissing their officers and putting military men in charge. The latest interventions, announced April 6, were in the 100,000-member schoolteachers' union and the 5,400-member merchant marine union.

The armed forces also have taken over the General Labor Confederation, the central organization of Argentine unions.

Unions in the confederation have about 2.9 million members. One-fourth of those workers are in unions that have been "intervened," including 180,000 metalworkers and 115,000 textile workers.

No official reasons have been given for the interventions, but they appear to be based on concern over corruption, leftist militancy or political involvement among the union leadership.

Authorities are known to have begun compiling lists of reputed union troublemakers in at least some industries, telling management that such workers can be fired. But sources say officials have warned management against "drastic action" such as the mass firing of Peronist employees.

One qualified observer of labor affairs said such moderation indicates that the military authorities want to avoid provoking any reaction among workers that could lead to widespread disorder.

The Argentine armed forces' respect for labor power dates back to the 1930s, when Peron, then an army colonel, was minister of labor. He used the Cabinet post to build up a strong following among workers, pushing through wage increases and laws favorable to labor. Peron also packed the General Labor Federation with his followers.

Mistrustful fellow army officers threw Peron out of the ministry and put him in jail. In protest, workers paralyzed the nation with a general strike.

Released from jail, Peron was nominated for the presidency and was elected in February 1946. In the nine years before he was deposed by the military, he consolidated labor power in Argentina and helped the union movement become wealthy.

After his ouster from the presidency in 1955, Peron ran the labor movement from exile abroad. Disturbances, strikes and other labor action made life difficult for successive military and civilian administrations.

The armed forces, unable to control labor strife, allowed Peron to return and run for president again in 1973 after 18 years in exile. With his third wife, Isabel, as his vice presidential running mate, Peron won 61.8 per cent of the vote.

But his new administration was plagued by strikes against policies aimed at holding down wages and prices.

After Peron died in July 1974, leaving his widow in the presidency, the labor unrest grew worse and the authority of union leadership was eroded. Many leaders voiced support for

Mrs. Peron's economic policies, but the rank and file protested with illegal strikes, slowdowns and absenteeism.

It was clear months before the March 24 coup that Mrs. Peron's labor support was severely weakened, practically nonexistent. The armed forces obviously were aware that in moving against Mrs. Peron they would not have to deal with the resistance of a united labor front.

No-Smoking Bill Gets Senate Nod

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The State Senate has approved a bill to restrict smoking in Michigan nursing homes.

Under the bill, passed 26-0 Monday night, nursing homes would have to adopt a policy regulating smoking. The policy would require that patients be asked whether they prefer smoking or nonsmoking areas, and smoking would be restricted to private rooms, rooms with other smokers or designated smoking areas.

Visitors could not smoke in rooms occupied by nonsmokers, and visitors and staff would have to smoke in designated areas only. Staff could not smoke in patients' rooms while performing their duties, and eating areas would have smoking and nonsmoking areas.

No tobacco products could be sold within the facility unless approved by the owner or governing board.

Monster Looks Like Giraffe

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The Loch Ness monster, legendary inhabitant of a deep Scottish lake, is described by researchers as a long-necked creature with horns on its head.

They base their impression on a series of fuzzy photographs they say show the monster swimming in Loch Ness last summer.

An artist's enhancement of the pictures makes the beast resemble a giraffe with a short snout.

The photos caused a furor last November when their existence first was reported. The researchers published a detailed account of their findings in today's edition of Technology Today, a publication of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Earlier measure, signed into law, which restricted smoking at hospitals. It accompanies several other bills protecting the rights of nonsmokers.

Signed into law also are measures to restrict smoking in food stores and providing nonsmoking areas in restaurants. A bill providing nonsmoking areas in public meetings is still under consideration.

The House also voted to create a special committee to study the state Civil Service Department. It succeeds a similar committee which functioned during the last legislative session.

Michigan Communists Get Another Chance

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The board of State Canvassers has given the Michigan Communist Party a chance to revalidate thousands of signatures collected in Ann Arbor and Lansing to get on next fall's ballot.

SIG. HAT: An unidentified Vancouver, British Columbia, girl pauses to pose for photographer recently during a children's parade of homemade Easter bonnets sponsored by a Vancouver library. (CP Wirephoto)

Some 478 petitions bearing 3,494 signatures were threatened with invalidation Monday because of a technical error.

It was not stated on the petitions as required whether the addresses of signers were in the cities of Lansing and Ann Arbor or in Lansing Township and Ann Arbor Township.

That presented the state Elections Division with an impossible task of trying to verify the addresses of the signers, said Nancy Chase of Ann Arbor, board of canvassers vice chairman.

But the board decided, after conferring with an assistant attorney general, that the petitions would be accepted if local Ann Arbor and Lansing officials verified the addresses.

The Michigan Communist party collected a total of 21,899 signatures statewide, with 17,874 needed for a spot on the November ballot. Counting other usual errors which turn up in petition drive, the Communists feared invalidating 3,494 signatures would keep them off the Michigan ballot. "We honestly feel they made a sincere effort to get valid signatures," said Mrs. Chase. "They obviously sincerely tried to do their best."

The Communists want to run two candidates on Michigan's November ballot — Gus Hall for President and Jarvis Tyner for vice president. Communists also may run for various university governing bodies, said Thomas Dennis, Michigan Communist Party chairman. Since 1948, Communists have run in Michigan elections only in 1972 and 1974, Dennis said.

Search Called Off

MIAMI (AP) — A search has been called off for three men missing since Friday when their disabled yacht smashed into a Russian trawler which was trying to rescue them, the Coast Guard said Monday.

Richard Fahlen, 21, of Grand Rapids, Mich., was one of four persons saved Friday when the 36-foot Cornall sank, officials said.

A Coast Guard spokesman in Miami said intense air and sea searches had turned up no sign of the three missing men when the efforts were halted Sunday.

SJ School Board Looking At Pair Of Millage Votes

St. Joseph school district residents at the annual election June 14 will fill two board of education seats and possibly vote on two tax millage proposals.

The board took no formal action on the tax issues during its regular meeting at Lincoln school last night. It agreed, however, to meet at 7:30 tonight at Lincoln school to discuss finances with the citizens' advisory council.

Also scheduled is an informational meeting to discuss millage with interested citizens at 7:30 p.m. Monday, April 26, at Jefferson school.

The board has been considering placing a six-tenth mill building and site tax before the voters for maintenance of buildings. A request for extra operating millage also is possible because of public outcry against the considered closing of Jefferson and Milton schools for economy reasons and declining enrollment, according to business manager Dennis Percy.

A decision on any millage propositions must be made by May 17 to get on the ballot in June.

Expiring this year are board terms of Mrs. Linda (Daniel E.) Griswold, who said she will not seek re-election, and Mrs. Freda (Jack) Sparks who said she will be a candidate.

Mrs. Griswold cited grown children who will be out of the school system as a reason for not running. She has served since 1968 and currently is board secretary.

Mrs. Sparks was elected in 1972 to fill the remaining three years on the term of Rev. Arthur Franzen, who resigned on being transferred to Canada. Mrs. Sparks said she was in a learning phase the first three years, adding that she wants to repay the time invested by voters.

Petitions may be obtained from the business manager's office. A petition signed by at least 20 registered voters of the district is needed to nominate candidates for board seats. Petitions must be filed with Mrs. Griswold (board secretary) or the business manager not later than 4 p.m. Monday, May 17.

The millage question dominated the three-hour meeting last night, and amounts believed needed varied greatly.

Trustee Joseph Naines called for a "permissive millage" of five or ten mills. Naines said it would be a way to free the district from uncertainties of state aid. Naines said he used the word "permissive" because the district would ask for a lot, but agree to levy only what was needed.

The St. Joseph district is penalized in state aid because it has a high local tax base per student. There is currently a bill in the legislature to remove the penalty and provide more state aid for St. Joseph and other districts with high tax bases.

The St. Joseph district levies 31.468 operating mills, including 23.09 extra-voted and the 8.378 allocated mills. The district also levies 3.15 mills for debt retirement.

The board voted to submit a $5.7 million operating budget for 1976-77 to the allocation board for consideration. The proposed budget reinstates all programs eliminated last year.

The board in other areas:

—Named Board Vice President James Mason as its representative at a meeting tomorrow with representatives of other local government units and the Department of Natural Resources. The purpose is to explore ways to expand recreation programs and secure funding. The meeting will be in Jefferson school.

—Nominated Mrs. Judy Koneczny, Mrs. Sue Burda and Mrs. Karen Pantl for consideration by the Benton Intermediate school district for appointment to the Parent Advisory committee for special education.

Bloomington's Tax Up 3 Mills

BLOOMINGTON — The Bloomington village council last night approved increasing the village property tax rate by three mills to help pay the bonded indebtedness of the village's sewer system. The extra three mills will bring the village's total tax rate to 23.5 mills for fiscal 1976. Of the 23.5 mills, 12.5 goes toward the general fund, eight mills for sewer, and three mills for streets and sidewalks.

Funds from the added millage were needed to meet bond payment costs, village officials said.

In May, 1971, the village approved $388,000 in municipal bonds to finance its share of the village's sewer system. Since that time some 250 hookups have been realized, nearly 50 less than expected, village officials said.

Since the revenue from the hookups is less than expected, the village decided to increase the sewer millage rate to help pay the bonded indebtedness. The village council has the right to do so without a vote of the people, according to the village attorney.

Each mill will raise about $1,900, based on the village's 1975 taxable property value.

In other areas, standing committees appointed by Richard Dickerson, village president, were as follows: Named as president pro-tem was George Scamhorn and James Petty, clerk pro-tem.

Other committee appointments included: Streets and drains — Allen Harris, Ronald Bair, Herbert Van Horn, Harris, Ralph Hulbert, permits and licenses, Scamhorn, Hulbert, Petty, finance — Petty, Scamhorn, Bair; budget — the finance committee plus the village clerk and treasurer.

Diane Butler, street commissioner, was rehired at an annual salary of $9,500, compared to $9,000 last year.

Robert Johnson, part-time police chief, was granted a salary increase of $25 per month bringing his salary to $200 per month. He will patrol 15 hours per week.

Charles Wickett of Bloomington was rehired as village attorney for $200 a year plus $20 per meeting attended. Clean-up days were slated for May 14-15 and mayor exchange day will be May 17.

Union Candidate Opposes Clark Strike In Buchanan

BUCHANAN — A member of Local 488 UAW, who said last night that he will seek the presidency of the local in June, has stated he hopes his fellow union members "...take another look at things before voting for a strike" at Clark Equipment company's axle division here.

Walter Willis III of 1119 West Colfax, South Bend, in a letter to the editor of The Herald-Palladium, stated "Before we go out, let's be sure we know what we're doing. As for me, I will never give my consent."

The union represents the 1,700 to 1,800 hourly employees at the plant.

Willis questioned the union's executive board going to the news media to air its complaints against the firm. Instead of through procedures outlined in the current contract between the two.

The union and the firm are currently operating under the second year of a three-year contract approved in May, 1974. The employees approved holding a strike vote in a special election last week. The vote to authorize a strike is to be held Thursday, April 15.

Willis stated it was his suggestion "to dispose of grievances since we have until contract time to see if we can't work out a better understanding. I am sure that if we show that we will bargain in good faith, management will bring back some of their work."

Willis stated that "...Clark had plenty of work but couldn't get their employees to work. Why do they farm it out? I would do the same thing, and you would too," he said.

Willis said he feels the union membership should "summon the International union and the regional director and ask their assistance "...in this senseless act."

"Then we should make our place of employment what it should be, a fair day's work for a fair day's pay. We must put our trust in people who will administer this high honor," he said.

Lemuel Barker, president of the local, has maintained that grievances over working conditions, safety and health are all issues. The union has charged that Clark has not bargained in good faith to settle the issues.

The firm contends the real issue is the dismissal of a union steward. The firm contends the steward was one of Barker's inner circle.

A firm spokesman has said a strike would be illegal.

Bangor Gives Nod To Retirement Plan

BANGOR — The Bangor city council last night approved joining the Michigan Municipal League's employee retirement plan.

Under the plan, which will go into effect July 1, the city's 13 employees will pay three per cent of the first $4,000 they earn or 5 per cent of anything over $4,000 into the retirement fund. The city will also contribute an amount to be determined by the budget committee, according to Harold Lafter, newly elected mayor pro-tem.

In other areas, the council approved purchasing a banner to stretch across the downtown area during mayor's exchange day. Cost of the banner is $40.

The council tabled a request from the Bangor Bicentennial committee to use the old football field in downtown Bangor for a fireworks display July 4.

The council also requested the city attorney to draw up an amendment to a city ordinance specifying where the responsibility lies for payment of buildings ordered demolished.

Eau Claire Slates Tax Break Hearing

EAU CLAIRE — Eau Claire village council last night scheduled a May 4 public hearing to decide whether a food processor in the community is to become eligible for tax exemptions on its proposed remodeling.

The council has had under study since early March the request for the exemption by Silver Mills Frozen Foods, Inc.

The firm wants the council to declare the property a plant rehabilitation district, thus clearing the way for it to seek a tax exemption for the next 12 years on any remodeling it might do.

The May 4 hearing is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. in the village hall, according to Mrs. Ruth L. Shupe, village clerk.

No specific remodeling plans or cost estimates were announced.

In other action, the council set a special meeting for April 20, at 8 p.m., to discuss its budget for the coming year, and announced that a recommendation on a route for a proposed M-42 extension would be considered at the council's May 10 meeting.

The council also took under study the possible placing of street lights in the alley between Maple and Elm streets and at the intersection of Hochberger and Pipestone roads.

The council confirmed committee appointments recommended by Village President J. Caswell Crowder. The committees are: sewer, Frank James and Nelson Nagle; streets, Rick Staley, Nagle and a citizen, Ed Young; library, Bill Durham and Clots Puchet; police and public safety, Nagle, Staley and a citizen; Wesley Bowerman; finance, Puchet, Paul Bergan, Kenneth Kari and Peggy LaVanway; and parks, Dergan and Durham.

More Eau Claire Schools Cuts Okayed

EAU CLAIRE — The Eau Claire school board last night approved program cuts as its second step in bringing the school's projected revenue and expenditures into balance for the 1976-77 school year.

Dr. William Schaefer, school superintendent, said the proposed cuts will trim $37,000 from projected expenses for the coming year.

In its first budget cutting phase, the board in March notified 15 probationary teachers that they would not be rehired for the coming school year unless the district could come up with more money.

The board has put two millage issues on the June 14 school election ballot which, if approved, would generate enough money to salvage some, if not all, threatened program cuts and staff reductions, Dr. Schaefer said.

One proposal is for the renewal of six mills, the second is for the added levy of two mills, all to finance school operations.

Among program cuts approved by the board last night are elimination of elementary school art at a savings of $5,000; elimination of sixth hour teaching pay, $3,000; elimination of one bus run and one driver, $2,000; elimination of one maintenance staff member, through attrition, $1,000; and reduction in administrative travel and across-the-board expense funds, $3,000.

The superintendent said the school expects a $100,000 increase in expenses for the coming school year while state school aid is expected to increase by $35,000.

School board members said they expect to announce hiring of a new superintendent by June 15 to replace Dr. Schaefer who has previously announced his resignation.

Doug and Delbert Schlupp, owners of the Five Corners garage in Eau Claire, told the board they are no longer interested in performing maintenance on the district's 18 buses.

High school Principal John Laskarides said the school's National Honor Society chapter will hold its annual banquet at 7:30 p.m., April 21.

Mildred Royal as vice president.

Dr. Durham, 46, is owner-operator of Schooner Hills Orchards, Columbia township, and holds a Ph.D. in English literature. Mrs. Royal, 55, a teacher 17 years, is now teaching reading in the Bloomingdale school district.

Both were among five candidates elected to the board March 22 to fill vacancies left by five members ousted in last February's special recall election.

The board's secretary, Mrs. Peggy Phillips, and the board's treasurer, Otto Watkins Jr., will both continue to serve in those offices. Neither was a recall target in February.

In other areas, the board unanimously voted to rescind the March 8 decision of the five-member interim school board placing Supt. Howard Beyer on sick leave he never requested.

The board also rescinded the appointment of administrative assistant Frederick Stap as acting superintendent.

"It was a misunderstanding," Mrs. Phillips said after last night's meeting when asked why Beyer had been put on sick leave. She said the interim board had believed Beyer was sick and needed the leave.

She said Beyer had worked every day since he was put on sick leave and last night's action effectively removed the sick leave from the record.

Mrs. Phillips also announced the board will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. Monday, April 19, at the high school.

Dr. Durham said that although no agenda for that meeting has been prepared yet, it would be an important one.

Prior to being elected, Dr. Durham said one of the first things the next school board must do is consider whether Beyer is fulfilling his duties and whether he is capable of remaining superintendent.

"We're all aware of the problem," Dr. Durham said last night after the meeting. "But, until tonight, we didn't have officers and without officers there was really nothing we could do."

Following an hour of discussion concerning this year's graduation ceremonies, the board agreed to break tradition at the May 30 commencement and allow high school principal John Balzer to hand diplomas to the 103 graduating seniors rather than the traditional board member.

The request came from high school senior Rick Blunt, one of several in the audience of about 50 who offered comments and suggestions during the meeting.

The board also voted to allow each graduating senior two tickets for preferred chairs on the gym floor during commencement, which the senior may give to anyone he wishes. Other guests without tickets would have to sit in the bleachers during the ceremony.

The board agreed to limit commencement speakers to three students, the ex-vaudeville-actors and one other student chosen by classmates.

To insure that all commencement guests hear the speakers, the board agreed to rent for $50 a public address system. Balzer had said that in recent years guests had been rude to the commencement speakers possibly because they could not hear what was being said.

The board scheduled the bicentennial ceremony for 2 p.m. on May 30.

Blunt caused some momentary embarrassment when he asked if any board members or if Beyer and Stap had attended the high school play last Friday and Saturday night. Attendance for the two nights totaled 30, he said, and he suggested the school officials were not supporting student programs.

No one admitted to having attended the play.

Balzer, who had attended, said the audience was so small he had become dejected. "We ask students to participate and to be enthusiastic, but there has to be an audience," Balzer said.

Dr. Durham said he would have attended if he had known about it. "Your problem may have been advertising," he told Blunt.

Blunt noted that the next student production, "Oliver," a musical, was scheduled for May 14 and 15.

Mrs. Phillips said school district residents not registered to vote must do so by May 17 if they wish to vote in the June 14 school election.

The board passed a tentative budget for the 1976-77 school which calls for spending $1,812,258. Beyer said it was $15,000 higher than this year's budget and would be sent to the county tax allocation board.

Dr. Durham said the budget calls for no increase in millage.

Bangor Gives Nod To Retirement Plan

BANGOR — The Bangor city council last night approved joining the Michigan Municipal League's employee retirement plan. Under the plan, which will go into effect July 1, the city's 13 employees will pay three per cent of the first $4,200 they earn or 5 per cent of anything over $4,200 into the retirement fund. The city will also contribute an amount to be determined by the budget committee, according to Harold Lafler, newly elected mayor pro-tem.

In other areas, the council approved purchasing a banner to stretch across the downtown area during mayor's exchange day. Cost of the banner is $40.

The council tabled a request from the Bangor Bicentennial committee to use the old football field in downtown Bangor for a fireworks display July 4.

The council also requested the city attorney to draw up an amendment to a city ordinance specifying where the responsibility lies for payment of buildings ordered demolished.

Eau Claire Slates Tax Break Hearing

EAU CLAIRE — Eau Claire village council last night scheduled a May 4 public hearing to decide whether a food processor in the community is to become eligible for tax exemptions on its proposed remodeling.

The council has had under study since early March the request for the exemption by Silver Mills Frozen Foods, Inc.

The firm wants the council to declare its property a plant rehabilitation district, thus clearing the way for it to seek a tax exemption for the next 12 years on any remodeling it might do.

The May 4 hearing is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. in the village hall, according to Mrs. Ruth L. Sharpe, village clerk.

No specific remodeling plans or cost estimates were announced.

In other action, the council set a special meeting for April 26, at 8 p.m., to discuss its budget for the coming year, and announced that a recommendation on a route for a proposed M-62 extension would be considered at the council's May 10 meeting.

The council also took under study the possible placing of street lights in the alley between Maple and Elm streets and at the intersection of Hochberger and Pipestone roads.

The council confirmed committee appointments recommended by Village President J. Caswell Crowder. The committees are: sewer, Frank James and Nelson Nagle; streets, Rick Staley, Nagle and a citizen, Ed Young; library, Bill Durham and Clois Pucheu; police and public safety, Nagle, Staley and a citizen, Wesley Bowerman; finance, Pucheu, Paul Bergan, Kenneth Karn and Peggy LaVanway; and parks, Bergan and Durham.

More Eau Claire Schools Cuts Okayed

EAU CLAIRE — The Eau Claire school board last night approved program cuts as its second step in bringing the school's projected revenue and expenditures into balance for the 1976-77 school year.

Dr. William Schaefer, school superintendent, said the proposed cuts will trim $37,040 from projected expenses for the coming year.

In its first budget cutting phase, the board in March notified 15 probationary teachers that they would not be rehired for the coming school year unless the district could come up with more money.

The board has put two millage issues on the June 14 school election ballot which, if approved, would generate enough money to salvage some, if not all, threatened program cuts and staff reductions, Dr. Schaefer said.

One proposal is for the renewal of six mills, the second is for the added levy of two mills, all to finance school operations.

Among program cuts approved by the board last night are elimination of elementary school art at a savings of $5,000; elimination of sixth hour teaching pay, $3,400; elimination of one bus run and one driver, $2,000; elimination of one maintenance staff member, through attrition, $8,000; and reduction in administrative travel and across-the-board expense funds, $3,000.

The superintendent said the school expects a $100,000 increase in expenses for the coming school year while state school aid is expected to increase by $35,000.

School board members said they expect to announce hiring of a new superintendent by June 15 to replace Dr. Schaefer who has previously announced his resignation.

Doug and Delbert Schlipp, owners of the Five Corners garage in Eau Claire, told the board they are no longer interested in performing maintenance on the district's 18 buses.

High school Principal John Laskarides said the school's National Honor Society chapter will hold its annual banquet at 7:30 p.m., April 21.

Hartford Approves Payment For Anti-Delinquency Unit

HARTFORD — Payment of $200 to help support a juvenile delinquency prevention program in Van Buren county was approved by the Hartford city council last night.

Approval of payment came after a request for the money was made by Mrs. Beverly Hampton of Hartford, a member of the youth services advisory committee of the county probate court.

Sheryl Daines, program director, said this morning the local funds were needed to qualify for a state mental health department grant being sought because previous federal funding is to be cutback this year. She said the state mental health department has said it would provide $27,000 for the program if $2,800 is raised locally.

According to Miss Daines, federal funds this year are to be about $27,000. Previously, the funds amounted to 90 per cent of a near $30,000 annual budget for the program.

The rest of the funds in previous years came from a five per cent contribution from the Van Buren county board of commissioners and the balance from the state office of Criminal Justice.

The county board has cut its contribution from $2,800 in the last fiscal year to $175 in the new one.

In other areas, the council accepted a $610 bid from Al's Tree Service, Watervliet, for removal of eight trees. The bid was the lowest of two submitted.

A request by Ralph Taylor, route 2, Watervliet, to operate an ice cream truck in the city during the summer months was referred to the council's ordinance committee.

Homer Jackson, superintendent of public works, told the council he would investigate ways to prevent the further theft of storm drain covers. He said that 17 of the covers had been stolen recently.

The council instructed its police committee and the police chief, Leo Spencer, to meet with Roman Melson, 300 Spaulding street, at a date to be set later, to discuss Melson's complaint about being issued a citation for allowing a dog to run loose.

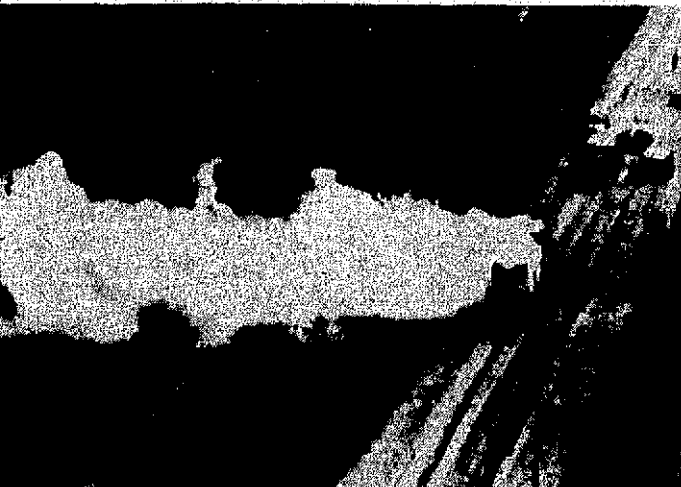

Requests from the Hartford Lions club to sell white cane tags on April 20-21 and May 1, and from the Hartford American Legion Auxiliary to sell poppy tags on May 20, 21 and 22 were approved.

City participation in a statewide program aimed at preventing contractors from damaging utility lines when they dig was approved. Under the program, to cost the city $5 per month, contractors are required to call the state before digging to learn the location of underground utility lines.

Jimmy Dorsey Band Will Play At Dowagiac May 15

DOWAGIAC — For the third consecutive year, the 41-member Dowagiac Rotary club is bringing the big band sound to Dowagiac. On May 15 the club is sponsoring a dance at the Dowagiac armory featuring singer Bob Eberly and the Jimmy Dorsey band.

Last year the dance profit of $2,000 was given to the hospital as the first installment on the pledge.

In 1974 the profit of $2,000 was given to the city of Dowagiac for use at Rotary park.

Dan Brosnan, Dowagiac's postmaster and chairman of the ticket committee, said all reserved tables on the mezzanine floor have been sold.

Main floor tickets are available and went on sale to the public on April 1. They can be obtained from Dan Brosnan, at the Dowagiac Chamber of Commerce office, in the First National Bank building, or through any Rotary member.

Co-chairmen of the steering committee for the dance are Joe Mallow, Bob Mullen, and the Baulis, according to Rotary Club President John Smith.

Hartford's School Budget Anticipates Sharp Decline

HARTFORD — A tentative 1976-77 budget reflecting an anticipated sharp cut in personnel was approved by the Hartford school board last night.

The new budget calls for expenditures of $1,743,263 or a decrease of $266,804 from the present budget of $2,010,067. Supt. Gary Waterkamp said it is based on an anticipated student enrollment next fall of 1,629, a drop of 109 students from present figures.

The cut, the superintendent said, is primarily a reflection of the board's recent decision to "pink slip" 28 teachers because of the enrollment drop, plus an effort to cut back the amount spent for supplies.

The tentative budget will be submitted to the Van Buren tax allocation board which is scheduled to meet April 19. A final budget will be completed in August, Waterkamp said.

The superintendent said the tentative budget represents no cuts in the district's basic program other than what has been previously announced because of the teacher cuts.

The budget is based on local revenue of $713,565, state aid of $1,027,698, and aid from the intermediate district of $2,000.

Expenditures include: elementary instruction, $386,648; secondary instruction, $907,882; special education, $28,675; administration, $87,877; health services, $14,550; transportation, $108,030; maintenance and operation, $219,900; fixed charges, $281,300; capital outlay, $13,000; community services, $500; and other costs, $8,000.

In other areas, the board voted to accept the resignation of member David Geisler, who said in a letter that he planned to enroll his daughter at Grace Christian school, Watervliet, and would serve as a member of that school's board.

Geisler has been on the Hartford board for 11 years. Waterkamp said Geisler had told board members his decision to enroll his child in the private school was in no way a reflection on the Hartford schools.

The board voted to set Monday, June 14 as the date for the annual school election. Up for election are the positions now held by Bill Burnette and Leo Latus. Also to be filled are the remaining year of Geisler's term, and the remaining two years of member William Dyer, who resigned earlier.

Board Treasurer Harold Leach expressed concern over what he said was a growing number of parental complaints over the lack of discipline in district schools. He said his wife stopped teaching two years ago because she could not get any support from administrators in backing disciplinary action.

What is needed, Leach said, is a return to corporal punishment. Waterkamp responded that it would be a dangerous mistake to rush into corporal punishment, adding that there are other ways to maintain discipline. He promised to have school principals meet with the board to discuss solutions to the problem.

The board also decided to allow the Hartford cable television company to run cables across school property; authorized Waterkamp to seek a legal opinion on the direction the system should take in regard to workmen's compensation; and voted to forego having an outside speaker at commencement activities.

Leach also reported on the present status of recommendations for traffic control changes in the city now being considered. The speed limits on all zones through school property would be raised from 25 to 30 miles per hour, he said.

Registry's 'Out'; $15 Is 'In'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Farm vehicles used only during harvest would not have to be registered under a bill signed into law by Gov. William Milliken. "This new law eliminates the need for farmers to pay expensive registration costs for trucks used only a few weeks each year," Milliken said. Instead, a special identification fee of $15 will apply to vehicles used for transporting crops from the field to storage. The exemption applies to an estimated 2,500 vehicles.

Royalton Board Accepts Bid For Park Pavilion Lumber

The Royalton township board last night accepted a $5,878 bid from the Baroda Lumber company for lumber to be used in constructing a pavilion at the township park.

The firm's bid was $80 higher than the low bid, but was accepted because it specified yellow pine planks instead of spruce or fir, according to Supervisor Harley Marschke.

The lowest bid came from the Eau Claire Lumber company which bid $5,798. Another bid from the Glendard Home Center, Stevensville, for $5,860 was also rejected.

Clerk Otto Jasper said construction is expected to begin on the pavilion later this month by Berrien county members of a Seabee detachment of Mobile

Construction Battalion 26, based at the Glenview, Ill., Naval Air Station.

The park is located near the township hall on John Beers road.

Reappointed as representatives to the Tri-Unit fire board were Jasper and Marschke.

Gobles Man Accused Of Destruction

PAW PAW — Vern Ronald Richmond, 20, Gobles, was released on his own recognizance yesterday after demanding Van Buren Seventh district court preliminary examination on a charge of malicious destruction of property.

Richmond was arrested in connection with a complaint Saturday by Patrick R. Clippinger, Gobles, that a camper he owned had been damaged in the amount of $1,121 after rocks had been thrown at it, according to Gobles police.

An April 21 hearing was scheduled for Richmond.

Resigns from board school board last night.

The new budget calls for expenditures of $1,743,263 or a decrease of $268,804 from the present budget of $2,012,067. Supt. Gary Waterkamp said it is based on an anticipated student enrollment next fall of 1,629, a drop of 100 students from present figures.

The cut, the superintendent said, is primarily a reflection of the board's recent decision to "pink slip" 28 teachers because of the enrollment drop, plus an effort to cut back the amount spent for supplies.

The tentative budget will be submitted to the Van Buren tax allocation board which is scheduled to meet April 19. A final budget will be completed in August, Waterkamp said.

The superintendent said the tentative budget represents no cuts in the district's basic program other than what has been previously announced because of the teacher cuts.

The budget is based on local revenue of $713,565, state aid of $1,027,698, and aid from the intermediate district of $2,000.

Expenditures include: elementary instruction, $385,649; secondary instruction, $607,682; special education, $29,675; administration, $87,677; health services, $1,550; transportation, $108,030; maintenance and operation, $219,000; fixed charges, $251,900; capital outlay, $33,000; community services, $500; and other costs, $8,000.

In other areas, the board voted to accept the resignation of member David Geisler, who said in a letter that he planned to enroll his daughter at Grace Christian school, Watervliet, and would serve as a member of that school's board.

Geisler has been on the Hartford board for 11 years. Waterkamp said Geisler had told board members his decision to enroll his child in the private school was in no way a reflection on the Hartford schools.

The board voted to set Monday, June 14 as the date for the annual school election. Up for election are the positions now held by Bill Burnette and Leo Latus. Also to be filled are the remaining year of Geisler's term, and the remaining two years of member William Dyer, who resigned earlier.

Board Treasurer Harold Leach expressed concern over what he said was a growing number of parental complaints over the lack of discipline in district schools. He said his wife stopped teaching two years ago because she could not get any support from administrators in backing disciplinary action.

What is needed, Leach said, is a return to corporal punishment.

Waterkamp responded that it would be a dangerous mistake to rush into corporal punishment, adding that there are other ways to maintain discipline. He promised to have school principals meet with the board to discuss solutions to the problem.

The board also decided to allow the Hartford cable television company to run cables across school property; authorized Waterkamp to seek a legal opinion on the direction the system should take in regard to workmen's compensation; and voted to forego having an outside speaker at commencement activities.

Leach also reported on the present status of recommendations for traffic control changes in the city now being considered. The speed limits on all zones through school property would be raised from 25 to 30 miles per hour, he said.

Gobles Man Accused Of Destruction

PAW PAW — Vern Ronald Richmond, 20, Gobles, was released on his own recognizance yesterday after demanding Van Buren Seventh district court preliminary examination on a charge of malicious destruction of property.

Richmond was arrested in connection with a complaint Saturday by Patrick R. Clippinger, Gobles, that a camper he owned had been damaged in the amount of $1,121 after rocks had been thrown at it, according to Gobles police.

An April 21 hearing was scheduled for Richmond.

Royalton Board Accepts Bid For Park Pavilion Lumber

The Royalton township board last night accepted a $5,878 bid from the Baroda Lumber company for lumber to be used in constructing a pavilion at the township park.

The firm's bid was $80 higher than the low bid, but was accepted because it specified yellow pine planks instead of spruce or fir, according to supervisor Harley Marschke.

The lowest bid came from the Eau Claire Lumber company which bid $5,798. Another bid from the Glenford Home Center, Stevensville, for $5,860 was also rejected.

Clerk Otto Jasper said construction is expected to begin on the pavilion later this month by Berrien county members of a Seabee detachment of Mobile

Construction Battalion 26, based at the Glenview, Ill., Naval Air Station.

The park is located near the township hall on John Beers road.

Reappointed as representatives to the Tri-Unit fire board were Jasper and Marschke.

Buchanan Tables $1,000 Payment To Avoid Lawsuit

BUCHANAN — The Buchanan city commission last night tabled a proposal that would settle, before it reaches court, a threatened false arrest suit against the city by a Galien construction firm. The proposal to pay Mullberg Construction $1,000 not to sue the city for false arrest was suggested by the city's insurance carrier and recommended by the city's attorneys, Desenberg, Moses & Desenberg.

But it drew the ire of City Manager Robert Faulhaber who termed the offer "blatant blackmail" and a "rip-off of city taxpayers."

"Government cannot function on the basis of blackmail," Faulhaber wrote in the agenda handed to commission members.

The city and the construction firm have been at odds since a February, 1975, dispute over sidewalk construction. Deway and Lene Mullberg were arrested by the city on Valentine's Day in 1975 as they tried to tear out sidewalk they had installed as part of a sub-contracting project with a Grand Rapids firm.

The Mullberg brothers claimed they had not been paid for sidewalk construction and were suing to reclaim their property.

City charges of malicious destruction of property against the Mullbergs were later dismissed during a Berrien Fifth District court trial.

Atty. Robert Moses, a member of the firm that represents the city, said no false arrest suit has been filed against the city.

The insurance company has reached the "negotiated nuisance settlement" with the Mullbergs, Moses said, apparently with the idea that a false arrest suit would be filed if payment is not made.

Faulhaber has recommended that the city take the $1,000 from the insurance company and use it towards legal fees in fighting any suit that might arise.

In their action last night, the city commission voted to re-apply for a reduced federal com-munally development grant.

A grant consultant to the city, Leslie Cripps of Berrien Springs, said the city's application for $300,000 has been rejected because too many other communities had higher ranking pre-applications.

Cripps told the commission it is in a good position to receive $337,000. A commission work session to refine the re-application was set for 7:30 p.m., Thursday, April 22.

An appraisal of the old county garage on two lots on Fulton street was also approved by the city commission, which is interested in buying the property. The city would tear the garage down as a means of "upgrading" the neighborhood, Faulhaber said. The property is currently owned by John G. Verrington company of Benton Harbor.

Also approved was a contract with the Century Engineering company of St. Joseph for the design of three bridges on McCoy street, and for preparation for applications for state aid in replacing the present bridges.

A contract for reappraisal of personal and real property in Buchanan, as recommended by the city board of review, was tabled.

City officials said they want to wait on the reappraisal proposal until the county determines whether it plans a countywide property survey.

The Buchanan softball league was given permission to borrow $1,500 from the city, at no interest, to finance improvements at the old athletic field just south of McCoy creek.

DETROIT (AP) — Former Detroit bondsmen Harvey Wish has been summoned before a federal grand jury, apparently in a continuing investigation of alleged corruption in the Michigan judicial system.

Wish's attorney, Murray Chodak, confirmed on Monday that Wish had been called to testify, but he refused to say why.

The attorney said Wish would cite his Fifth Amendment rights and decline to answer any questions.

Wish, 48, was indicted last year along with former Michigan Gov. John B. Swainson, in an alleged bribery scheme to get a new trial for convicted burglar John J. Whalen.

Wish was convicted of bribe conspiracy, although Swainson was acquitted on that charge and convicted only of three perjury counts.

Man Indicted In Bridgman Bank Robbery

A San Francisco, Calif., man has been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges stemming from the $55,000 holdup of a Bridgman bank last Oct. 10. Also indicted by the grand jury in Grand Rapids Monday on two bank robbery counts linked to the Dec. 22 holdup of a Mecosta, Mich., bank was another man who until Friday was being held at the Berrien county jail.

Ali Hires Syrian Grappler

CHICAGO (AP) — Heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali plans to train for his wrestling debut with the help of a 41-year-old "very vicious" Syrian grappler known to television audiences as "The Sheik."

A spokesman for Ali said Monday the champion will begin working out with The Sheik next week in preparation for his June 25 bout in Tokyo with the Japanese wrestler, Antonio Inoki.

George Dibble, a spokesman for Ali Enterprises of Chicago, said the boxing champ and the wrestler would work out at Berrien Springs, Mich., where Ali has a training camp.

Dibble and Chuck Allen, business agent for The Sheik, declined to discuss specific details of the arrangement between the two fighters.

Allen said The Sheik, who speaks no English, defeated Anki in October 1974.

He said The Sheik had been the heavyweight champion of the National Wrestling Alliance for the past nine years and is a regular performer on television wrestling shows.

Report $30,000 'Contract' On Trooper's Life

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — The Saginaw County prosecutor says there is a $30,000 contract out on the life of a State Police trooper.

Prosecutor E. Brady Denton said Monday that State Police undercover drug agents told him about the contract on Trooper Donald Laskey, an agent involved in a string of drug raids in early March.

Denton said threats and attempts at intimidation are not uncommon, but a $30,000 contract is rather unusual.

"The situation is such that there are not that many people who can afford $30,000 on a trooper's life, but it's not unheard of," Denton said. Denton said there have been contracts on law enforcers' lives as long as he has been in office. They have not succeeded.

"It's not unusual to walk down a hall during a preliminary hearing on a drug case and hear at least one death threat. It's happened before," Denton said.

He said Laskey and his family are under police protection but would not say if there were any additional reports of contracts or others under police protection.

Laskey testified last week at a hearing for two Saginaw men who are charged with involvement in a heroin ring.

He said the men were charged with involvement in a heroin ring.

U.S. Wants To Step Up Arms To Yugoslavia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States wants to step up arms sales to Yugoslavia, and is even considering selling sophisticated antitank missiles to the Communist nation, government officials say.

Yugoslavia expressed an interest last year in buying U.S. weapons, and the Ford administration has asked President Tito's government to formally request the helicopters, radars and navigation systems it wants, sources in the State Department, Pentagon and Congress disclosed Monday.

The possibility of including sophisticated antitank missiles in a deal has also been raised, the sources said.

The incident occurred over the weekend but was not disclosed until Monday. Weiss said Wilson was being held on a larceny charge.

Body Found On Lake

ESCANABA, Mich. (AP) — Escanaba police say the body of a man was found Monday along northern Lake Michigan near Escanaba. Investigators said the body was found by two boys near the city's public bathing beach. John Lessnau of Detroit was reported missing from a tugboat working in the area last Dec. 8. However, Delta County sheriff's deputies said Monday night there were apparent discrepancies between Lessnau's dental records and the condition of the corpse. An autopsy was ordered to determine the exact cause of death and establish positive identification.

Saginaw Officer Suspended

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — A two-year member of the Saginaw police force has been suspended pending an investigation into the shooting death Monday of a 29-year-old man inside a Saginaw bar. The officer, Frank Paribis, 30, reportedly shot and killed John Linon after Linon pointed a loaded pistol at police officers. Detective Capt. Henry Pawlik said Paribis has been relieved of his duties and will report to the department's internal affairs office, which is investigating. The suspension and investigation are routine procedures when an officer is involved in a fatal shooting, officials said.

Grants Can Be Cut

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A state department may cut grants it hands out as well as operating expenses when the governor orders a spending cutback, according to Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley. Kelley said Monday that special grants contained in the state's budget are not immune from reductions when the governor orders a cutback to avert a budget deficit. Kelley, answering a query from Rep. John Markes, D-Westland, said that grants to libraries could legally be cut as the Department of Education absorbed a four per cent reduction in a gubernatorial cutback this year.

MSU News Staffers Back

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The staff of the Michigan State University student newspaper was back on the job in full force Monday after a one-day walkout Sunday. Editor-in-chief John Tringvill said he expected no more work slowdowns. He said the State News would be published all week as usual. Four-fifths of the 50 member editorial staff refused to work Sunday to protest the selection by the paper's board of directors of a new editor-in-chief not supported by the staff.

1,500 To Be Rehired

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Ford Motor Co. said Monday must of the 1,500 workers affected by a planned phase-out of an engine line this summer will be rehired at other Ford facilities before the end of the year. "Barring some unforeseen circumstance, the immediate unemployment effect of this move will be minimal," said company Chairman Henry Ford II in a letter to U.S. Rep. James G. O'Hara, D-Mich.

"We estimate that 750 of the Dearborn engine plant employees can be placed elsewhere in the Rouge area by September and most of the remaining affected employees can be afforded employment opportunity by year-end either in the Rouge area or other Detroit-area facilities." The company has announced it will halt production of 360 and 390-cubic-inch engines for medium-duty trucks at the end of the 1978 model year. The engine will be replaced by a newer series of 3

Buchanan Tables $1,000 Payment To Avoid Lawsuit

BUCHANAN — The Buchanan city commission last night tabled a proposal that would settle, before it reaches court, a threatened false arrest suit against the city by a Galien construction firm. The proposal to pay Mollberg Construction $1,000 not to sue the city for false arrest was suggested by the city's insurance carrier and recommended by the city's attorneys, Desenberg, Moses & Desenberg.

But it drew the ire of City Manager Robert Faulhaber who termed the offer "blatant blackmail" and a "rip-off of city taxpayers."

"Government cannot function on the basis of blackmail," Faulhaber wrote in the agenda handed to commission members.

The city and the construction firm have been at odds since a February, 1975, dispute over sidewalk construction.

Dewey and Lene Mollberg were arrested by the city on Valentine's Day in 1975 as they tried to tear out sidewalk they had installed as part of a sub-contracting project with a Grand Rapids firm.

The Mollberg brothers claimed they had not been paid for sidewalk construction and were going to reclaim their property.

City charges of malicious destruction of property against the Mollbergs were later dismissed during a Berrien Fifth District court trial.

Atty. Robert Moses, a member of the firm that represents the city, said no false arrest suit has been filed against the city.

The insurance company has reached the "negotiated nuisance settlement" with the Mollbergs, Moses said, apparently with the idea that a false arrest suit would be filed if payment is not made.

Faulhaber has recommended that the city take the $1,000 from the insurance company and use it towards legal fees in fighting any suit that might arise.

In other action last night, the city commission voted to re-apply for a reduced federal community development grant.

A grant consultant to the city, Leslie Cripps of Berrien Springs, said the city's application for $300,000 has been rejected because too many other communities had higher ranking pre-applications.

Cripps told the commission it is in a good position to receive $137,000. A commission work session to refine the re-application was set for 7:30 p.m., Thursday, April 22.

An appraisal of the old county garage on two lots on Fulton street was also approved by the city commission which is interested in buying the property. The city would tear the garage down as a means of "upgrading" the neighborhood, Faulhaber said. The property is currently owned by John G. Yerington company of Benton Harbor.

Also approved was a contract with the Century Engineering company of St. Joseph for the design of three bridges on McCoy street, and for preparation for applications for state aid in replacing the present bridges.

A contract for reappraisal of personal and real property in Buchanan, as recommended by the city board of review, was tabled.

City officials said they want to wait on the reappraisal proposal until the county determines whether it plans a countywide property survey.

The Buchanan Softball league was given permission to borrow $1,500 from the city, at no interest, to finance improvements at the old athletic field just south of McCoy creek.

Man Indicted In Bridgman Bank Robbery

A San Francisco, Calif., man has been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges stemming from the $55,000 holdup of a Bridgman bank last Oct. 10. Lehman was arrested last February in Phoenix, Ariz., on charges stemming from another bank robbery.

Bailey spoke briefly on behalf of his client, saying that he doubted society needed to be protected from Miss Hearst, and he urged that "retribution by society" should be avoided.

U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr., who prosecuted the case, did not speak and had no comment for reporters.

Miss Hearst conferred with her attorneys for more than six hours before returning to the San Mateo County Jail south of here, where she has been kept since her arrest Sept. 18.

Miss Hearst, appearing pale and weak, seemed momentarily confused when Carter imposed the maximum sentence. Her attorneys quickly whispered assurances to her.

Bailey explained the decision to Miss Hearst's parents, Randolph and Catherine Hearst, who were sitting in the front row.

MSU News Staffers Back

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The staff of the Michigan State University student newspaper was back on the job in full force Monday after a oneday walkout Sunday. Editor-in-chief John Tingwall said he expected no more work slowdowns. He said the State News would be published all week as usual. Four-fifths of the 50 member editorial staff refused to work Sunday to protest the selection by the paper's board of directors of a new editor-in-chief not supported by the staff.

1,500 To Be Rehired

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Ford Motor Co. said Monday most of the 1,500 workers affected by a planned phase-out of an engine line this summer will be rehired at other Ford facilities before the end of the year. "Barring some unforeseen circumstance, the immediate unemployment effect of this move will be minimal," said company Chairman Henry Ford II in a letter to U.S. Rep. James G. O'Hara, D-Mich.

"We estimate that 750 of the Dearborn engine plant employees can be placed elsewhere in the Rouge area by September and most of the remaining affected employees can be afforded employment opportunity by year-end either in the Rouge area or other Detroit-area facilities." The company has announced it will halt production of 360 and 390-cubic-inch engines for medium-duty trucks at the end of the 1976-model year. The engine will be replaced by a newer series of 351 and 400-cubic-inch power plants now being produced in Cleveland.

Hartford Sewer Hearing Wednesday

New $5.6 Million System Would Include City, Two Townships

BY AL AREND
Staff Writer

HARTFORD — A public hearing for Hartford township residents to discuss a proposed $5,634,000 sewer project will be held Wednesday, April 14, at 7:30 p.m. at the Hartford high school auditorium.

According to Thomas Deneau, engineer with Wightman & Associates, St. Joseph, financial costs and obligations of the proposed sewer system, which includes all of Hartford township, Hartford city, and sections 28-33 of Bangor township will be explained.

He said the public hearing is being held at the request of the Hartford township board. A similar hearing was held in Bangor township last Saturday. Deneau stressed that Wednesday's hearing is not to be confused with an environmental public hearing slated for 7 p.m. Tuesday, April 20, at the Lawrence high school auditorium. At that time, questions concerning the environmental impact of Hartford area sewer study and the Lawrence area study will be answered.

Gove Associates, Kalamazoo engineers, are studying the proposed $2,070,000 sewer project for Lawrence township, including Lawrence village.

Originally, according to Deneau, both proposed projects were to be combined under one regional plan, but it was the recommendation of both Wightman and Gove that two localized wastewater treatment facilities be constructed. Instead, one regional facility. It was estimated that a regional facility would cost about $532,400 more.

Federal funds were granted to develop step-1 facilities plans. Once all local units of government involved approve the step-1 plans, the plan will be submitted to the state and EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) for approval.

At that time, further funding for a step-2 (preparation of plans and specifications for construction) grant will be awarded, Deneau stated. Once step-2 work is approved by all parties, then application for a step-3 construction grant would be made.

"If all goes well, construction of both projects could begin next spring (1977)," Deneau said.

He said the final decision to proceed or not to proceed is up to the local governing boards and does not require a vote of the people.

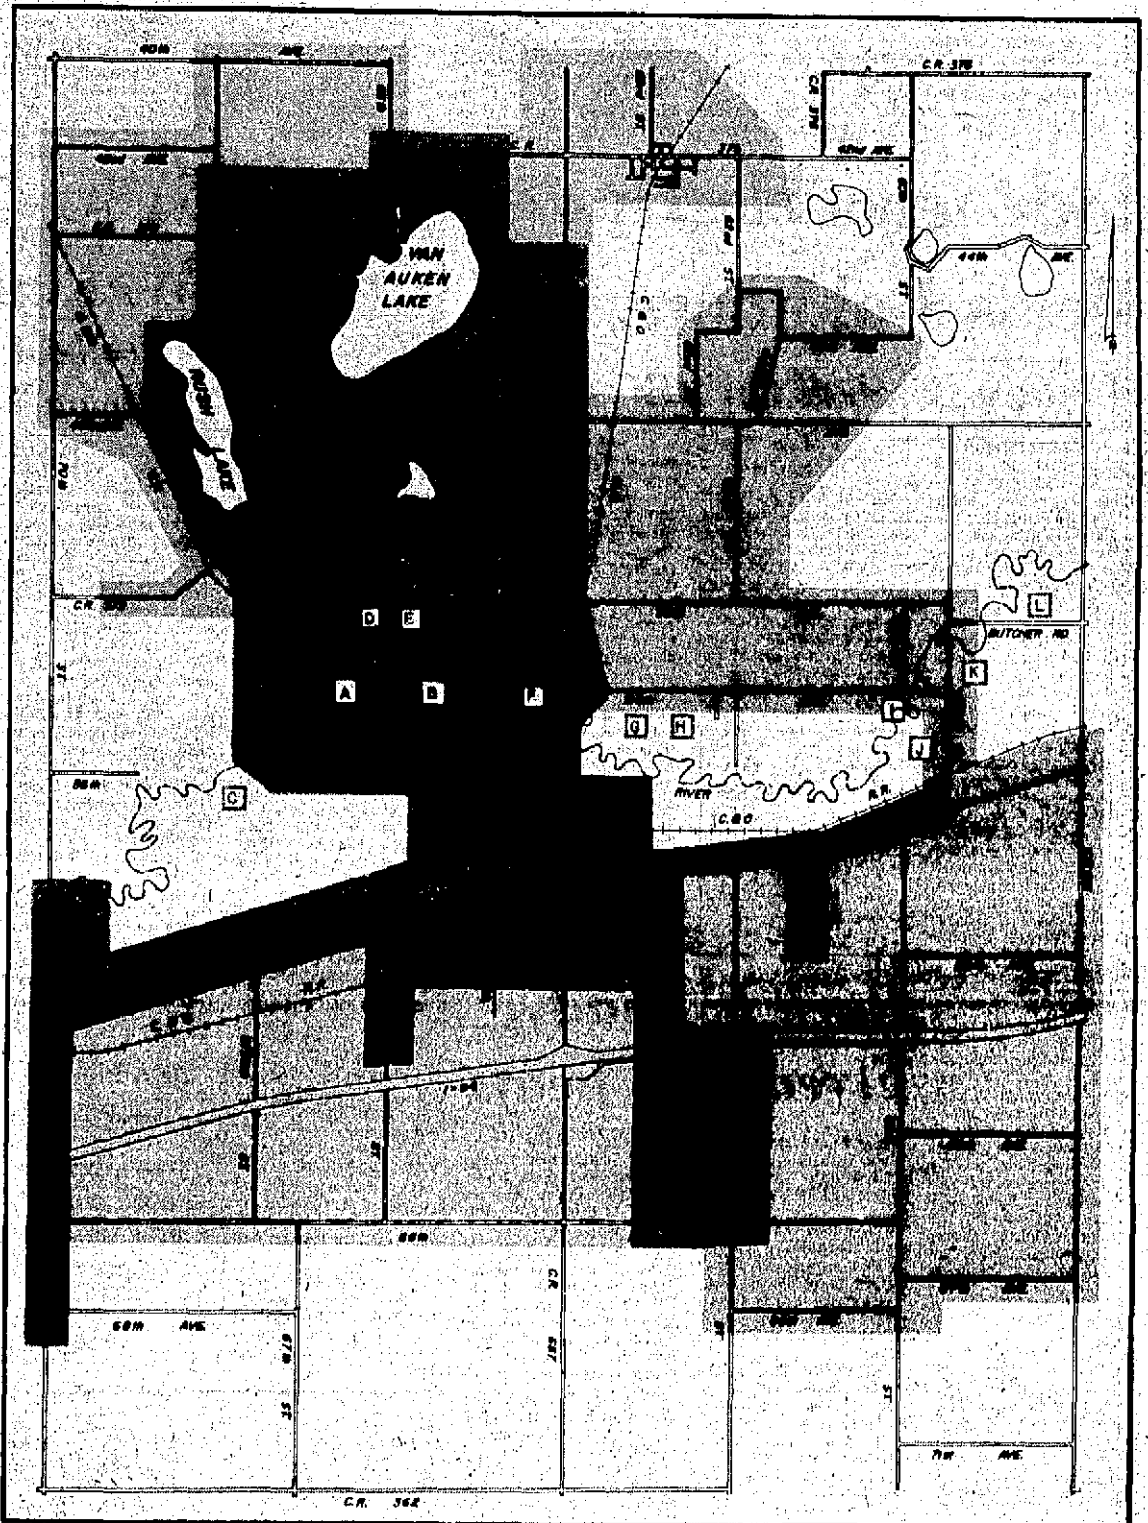

Deneau indicated that both projects have high priority ratings concerning construction grants.

Federal and state grants would pay for approximately 80 per cent of the total cost of both projects, Deneau said that for the $5,634,000 proposed Hartford area project, the EPA would pay $3,896,000, the state Water Resources commission $260,000, for a total grant of $4,156,000. Wightman engineers have estimated the cost to Hartford city at $266,000; Hartford township, $671,000; Bangor township, $382,000. The local units share would be bonded through the county, Deneau said.

Hartford city and Lawrence village have existing treatment plants which provide primary wastewater treatment only. However, both have been ordered to upgrade the existing facilities to the level of secondary treatment by the year 1977. According to Deneau, to do so will require major renovations of, or replacement of, the existing facility.

The townships of Hartford, Lawrence and Bangor, do not have wastewater collection or treatment facilities. Several areas in the townships have been cited by the Van Buren county health department for on-site sewage disposal failure, according to Deneau. Those areas presently have a serious health hazard problem plus a lake eutrophication (lack of oxygen) problem due to these failures, he said. The townships also have areas where, although on-site disposal will work, the dwelling-unit density is increasing to the point where area wide collection and treatment should be considered.

The Van Buren county road commission has been named lead applicant in securing grants for both proposed projects.

GOP Now Has Five Vying In 42nd District

THREE RIVERS — Mark D. Siljander, 24, route 5, Three Rivers, yesterday became the fifth candidate to throw his hat in the ring for the Republican nomination for state representative from the 42nd district. Siljander, currently employed as a distributor for Chalet Homes, Inc., was defeated in a similar GOP primary race for the seat in 1974, by Rep. DeForrest Strang (R-Sturgis) who has announced he will not seek re-election this year.

A resident of Fabius township, St. Joseph county, he has served as a township trustee since 1972, and for the past two years on the township's zoning board of appeals. He's a member of the Michigan Township Association's board of directors and has served as a delegate to numerous state GOP conventions.

A native of Chicago, Ill., Siljander has bachelor's and master's degrees from Western Michigan university in political science and communication. He has also been a youth director and lay minister at the Three Rivers First United Methodist church.

Siljander said he's a vigorous supporter of local government and has stood against efforts to legislate power and responsibility away from local governments to regional bodies.

He said he's running for the legislature due to the problem of increasing taxation. "It's about time we put a stop to spiraling hikes in property taxes brought on by politicians in Lansing on a spending spree," he said. "These taxes are crushing the residential property owner...especially the agricultural property owner."

Other Republicans seeking their party's nomination for the

DOWAGIAC

Dusty Old Bombs Found, Destroyed

DOWAGIAC — Two old U.S. military bombs were removed Monday from the basement of a downtown Dowagiac building by members of the state police bomb squad from Holland and exploded in a wooded area outside the city.

According to officers, the explosions, dug orators, eight-foot deep in the ground.

The two bombs were found in the basement at 132 South Front Street, in the heart of downtown Dowagiac, in a building now occupied by a krate school. The school's operator, Richard Anderson, found the dusty bombs while cleaning out the basement and notified authorities. They had been stored on a shelf.

Michael Schutt, Dowagiac police chief, said the devices were 20-pound fragmentation bombs of a type dropped from aircraft during World War II and the Korean conflict. They were 26 inches long, four inches in diameter and had propellers. Schutt said it is not known who put the bombs in the basement, but it was apparently done many years ago. He said numerous businesses have occupied the building since World War II.

Schutt said the bombs would have had to have been treated roughly before they would have gone off, and apparently were safe as long as they were not knocked around.

The bomb squad used plastic explosives to detonate the two bombs.

WANTED: Team Of Oxen For Berrien Fair

The board of directors of the Berrien County Youth Fair is searching for a team of oxen to be used during Bicentennial activities at the fair this summer. Mrs. Barbara Kolm, Youth Fair secretary, said that a team of oxen would help represent the Bicentennial theme that will be utilized at the fair, Aug. 17 to 21.

A special exhibit area at the fairgrounds, in Berrien Springs, will be devoted to old farm machinery, tools and, it is hoped, a threshing machine in operation, she said. Special contests for adults are being planned, including horseshoe pitching and husband calling — a reminder of the days when a farm wife had to shout out the back door to tell the family that it's dinner time, said Mrs. Kolm. Ladies working at the fair and fairgoers are encouraged to dress in old-fashioned costumes, said Mrs. Kolm. Although judging won't occur, children who dress in old style costume will be allowed to join the nightly parade on Children's Day and senior citizens will be recognized.

River Valley Will Go For Levy

THREE OAKS — The River Valley school board last night voted to put a property tax levy proposal on the June 14 school election ballot but did not set the amount to be sought.

School officials said 11.8 mills for school operations expired with the last tax collections. The levy to be put on the ballot will be set at a later date.

The board also approved a preliminary 1976-77 school budget of $2,671,366, about $82,202 less than the school's current operating budget of $2,753,568.

The budget that will go to the Berrien county allocation board provides for expenditures of $2,671,366 and projected revenue of $2,589,164, according to Dr. Charles Williams, superintendent.

The projected deficit will be made up with a present surplus, Dr. Williams said.

In other action, the board boosted the salary of John Payne, director of maintenance and bus transportation, from $12,688 to $13,323, and raised the fees paid to election inspectors from $20 to $25, and for the election chairman from $20 to $30.

The school's community education director, Larry Fisher, told the board that graduation for 30 adult education class members will be at 8 p.m. Saturday, May 8, at the school. The board voted to advertise for fleet insurance for school-owned vehicles. The bids are to be opened May 10.

Fennville Puts One Mill On Ballot

FENNVILLE — Fennville school board last night voted to put the renewal of a one-mill property tax levy for a school building and site fund on the annual June school election ballot.

The millage proposal will be for three years and will raise about $30,000 the first year.

Voters last year approved the one-mill levy for a one-year term. Also on the June 14 school ballot will be candidates seeking election to three school board terms. Expiring are the terms of Mrs. Barbara Comeau, Ronald Hiesche and Mrs. Karen Schermer.

The seats of Mrs. Comeau and Hiesche are for four years and that of Mrs. Schermer for one year. Mrs. Schermer was appointed to the board in November to replace Ralph Shaw. Shaw was elected to a four-year term in 1973.

People wanting to be board candidates must have nominating petitions returned to the school by May 17, school officials said.

In other action last night, the board accepted the resignation of Lloyd Thomas, director of building and grounds. He is resigning, effective April 23, to take a similar position with the Covert school district. School officials said they are seeking a replacement for the $10,000-a-year post.

The board also hired Larry Morse, a school teacher in the district, as basketball coach for the coming year. He replaces Tim Telon who resigned as head coach after four years and a 39-45 win-loss record. Telon is to remain a teacher in the district, board members said.

The resignation of veteran elementary teacher Dorothy Walters was also accepted by the board. She has been a teacher in the Fennville system for about 30 years.

Rich Get Richer In Four-Year Pact

NBA And Players Reach Accord

NEW YORK (AP) — Peace reigned in the National Basketball Association today for the first time in six years following the finalization of a four-year collective bargaining agreement.

The agreement, announced Monday by NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien and Larry Fleisher, general counsel for the players' association, at a joint news conference added generously to the players' already lucrative financial benefits.

It was the first time since 1970, when Oscar Robertson and several other players filed a class action suit against the NBA, that peace prevailed in the league.

The Robertson suit was settled out of court two months ago in Philadelphia during the All-Star break. It only needs to be approved by Judge Robert L. Carter of Southern District Court in New York to be finalized. The judge is expected to be presented the papers for signing within the next week.

Meanwhile, O'Brien disclosed that Judge Carter had suggested the NBA and American Basketball Association explore the possibility of resolving out of court another lawsuit — the ABA's antitrust action against the NBA.

The suit is scheduled to be tried in Judge Carter's court on June 1, but both sides have asked for extensions — the ABA until June 15 and the NBA until September. The suit charges the NBA with engaging in monopolistic practices designed to drive competitors out of business.

Following Judge Carter's request for settling the ABA suit out of court, O'Brien said, "I would anticipate hearing from ABA Commissioner (Dave) DeBusschere in that context. If anything is forthcoming in that area, I would relay it to the owners of the NBA. The judge has recommended that we talk, and both sides want to comply with the judge's wishes. The potential for communication should be explored."

Should that suit be settled, there still would be another legal barrier blocking the two leagues from accomplishing a long-discussed merger. That would be a suit by the ABA Players Association filed against the NBA, its member teams, the ABA and two of its teams, the New York Nets and Denver Nuggets. The suit challenges the draft and other related practices that affect conditions of ABA players.

The ABA often has expressed a desire to merge with the more established NBA, but the NBA has been opposed. In fact, the NBA's Board of Governors voted unanimously during the All-Star Game to oppose merging with any other pro basketball league.

O'Brien stressed Monday that the league's position on that matter has not changed.

The settlement, replacing one which expired last June 1, increased minimum salaries from $20,000 a year to $30,000 through the 1978-79 season; hiked the playoff pool $30,000 to $1 million this year and $30,000 for each of the next three years; and raised pension benefits from $60 to $75 a month, effective at age 50.

The NBA players already are the highest salaried athletes in sports, earning an average of $108,000 a year.

Indestructible Hunter Beats Baltimore, 3-0

Monday Baseball On ABC Debuts

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Television's Six Million Dollar Man met baseball's Three Million Dollar Man Monday night and the Baltimore Orioles couldn't get their two cents in.

"Lee Majors waved to me before the game," Catfish Hunter said. "I wanted to trade him and get a new arm."

"Don't try to run that one by the Orioles. They couldn't do much with Hunter's old arm, managing only three singles as the New York Yankees made off with a 3-0 triumph to kick off ABC-TV's 16-week Monday night television package."

In the only other major league games, the Texas Rangers triumphed the Oakland A's 5-1 behind veteran Nelson Briles and the Houston Astros blanked the San Francisco Giants 5-0 as J.R. Richard, Larry Hardy and Ron Forch scattered nine hits.

Cleveland at Boston in the American League was called off by cold weather and San Diego at Los Angeles in the National was rained out with $6,000 on hand. It was the Dodgers' first home rainout since 1957 and only their second since moving to Los Angeles in 1958.

In frigid 43-degree Baltimore, Majors — an ABC-TV star, match — threw out the first ball before Hunter took over and it's doubtful if the pattycake Orioles, with Reggie Jackson back home in Arizona and Lee May in the clubhouse nursing a first-lining groin injury, could have hit that one, either.

"Same old Catfish," roared Brooks Robinson, one of the injury Orioles who went hitless.

Park Is Ready; Flyers Rip Leafs

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Brad Park may be back in action with the Boston Bruins tonight, as if they really need him.

Without Park, the star defenseman who has been sidelined for about six weeks because of surgery on his left knee, the Bruins routed the Los Angeles Kings 4-0 in the opening game of their Stanley Cup quarter-final series.

Park worked out at Boston Garden Monday, and said he may be back on the ice when the Bruins and Kings clash in the second game of the best-of-seven playoff set tonight.

"I was able to go full stride, and that's encouraging," Park said. "I can't definitely say I'll play in the second game Tuesday, but I'm going to Los Angeles." The third game of the series is at Los Angeles Thursday night.

The defending champion Philadelphia Flyers, meanwhile, began their quarter-final series against Toronto Monday night with a 4-1 victory behind their high-scoring line of Bobby Clarke, Bill Barber and Reggie Leach.

The second games of each series will be played tonight, with the home teams looking to take a 2-0 advantage. Los Angeles is at Boston, Toronto at Philadelphia, the New York Islanders at Buffalo and Chicago at Montreal.

The Flyers' line of Clarke, Barber and Leach, which piled up a record 143 goals during the regular season, came up with two goals and four assists in the victory over Toronto, which has not beaten the Flyers in Philadelphia since Dec. 18, 1971.

Philadelphia outshot Toronto 4-21, making it an easy night for Flyers goalie Bernie Parent, still recovering from neck surgery which forced him to miss most of the regular season.

Emile Francis New GM, Coach Of Blues

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Emile Francis, who vowed a year ago never again to coach the New York Rangers, has kept his word.

The 49-year-old Francis, appearing eager to explore new horizons, was named Monday as coach and general manager of the National Hockey League's St. Louis Blues.

"On Feb. 10 of last year I told Bill Jennings (Rangers president) I was not going back behind the bench," said Francis, who stepped down a third time as New York's coach at the end of the 1974-75 season.

"But that did not necessarily mean I would not coach again," he added, a twinkle in his eye. "I wanted to take my time and think about what I was going to do."

An added inducement in the form of a Blues shareholder's role was thought to have swung the decision for Francis, who resigned last week as a Rangers vice president three months after he was deposed as general manager.

"You might say that was the reason," he said when asked if an attempt had been made to force him behind the bench a fourth time during the Rangers' slump.

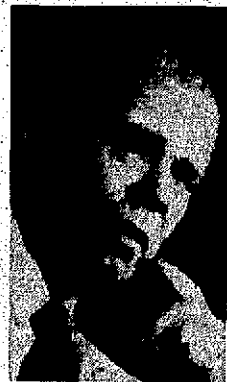

The 5-foot-8 Francis, whose quick moves earned him the nickname of "Cat" during six seasons as an NHL goalie, had been in the Rangers' front office since hired as an assistant general manager in 1963.

MSU Coach Makes Debut

Heathcote Says He's Going To Be Boss

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Scoring wisecracks the way some players score baskets, a blunt but joking Jud Heathcote stepped in as Michigan State University's head basketball coach.

"I'd just like to say 'Jud Who?' is here," Heathcote told laughing reporters at a news conference late Monday.

The MSU cage team in the past has been charged with not having enough discipline.

To that charge, Heathcote said, "I'm going to run the show. I'll coach the players, the players will not coach me. It's tough and I demand a lot and am probably more negative than a coach should be. Our kids will be very, very, very disciplined."

Some people claimed Heathcote's predecessor, Gus Ganakas, now assigned to other university duties, wasn't strict enough, especially in light of locker room scuffles and a walkout players staged last year prior to a game against Indiana.

Heathcote, 46, admitted he doesn't have all the answers yet. Asked how he plans to stop National Collegiate Athletic Association champion Indiana, he said, "I don't know how you stop Indiana. But we'll hope to be competitive."

He acknowledged that MSU's Jemison Fieldhouse "is not the greatest facility in the world," adding, "I knew this was not the Taj Mahal when I took the job. We'll have to accustom the positive."

Heathcote said student interest in sports is important.

"Kids at the college level lack so much direction in their lives, an involvement in sports whatever it may be is super."

Heathcote's four-year contract with MSU provides for a salary of $28,000, compared to the $19,780 he was earning at the University of Montana, where he was head coach for five years.

Heathcote said recruiting will be his top priority. He said he will not "write off" next season despite the problems of a change in command.

"We're hoping to win the Big Ten title. We like to be optimistic and also realistic. We'll try to take what we have and what we can recruit and make a basketball team from them."

He said he hopes to decide before this Friday's MSU Board of Trustees meeting whether to retain Ganakas' two assistant coaches — Vern Payne and Dick Versace.

Tigers, Bears Split Openers

St. Joe Saved By 11-Run Explosion

By JACK WALKER
Staff Sports Writer

St. Joseph's bats awoke from a deep slumber just in time Monday afternoon.

Breaking loose with an 11-run explosion in the second game of a doubleheader, the Bears salvaged a split of their season-opening twin bill with Benton Harbor at John C. Sanis Memorial Park.

The fourth-inning bombardment rallied St. Joe to a 12-7 win after the Bears dropped the opener 3-2.

"The way we had been hitting up until that point, I didn't expect to pull the second game out," St. Joe coach Dave Durr said. "We finally strung some hits together. We have the nucleus to have a good hitting ballclub all through the lineup. We just need a good week of solid work."

St. Joe trailed 2-1 when it came to bat in the fourth inning of the nightcap. But aided by a dropped flyball, the Bears finally broke loose. Pat Weber singled and one out later Herb Ross singled. After two straight walks brought in one run and left the bases loaded, Rick Dyer lifted a high flyball to leftfield.

Tiger leftfielder Steve McNatt ran under the ball, but dropped it to plate two runs and bring some life to St. Joe.

Four more walks and singles by Steve Toney, Weber and Mike Collier and the Bears had the 11-run inning to gain the victory.

Cory Benford picked up the win for St. Joe with a superb relief job on the mound. Benford vied just one run and three hits after taking over for starter Roger Schwoebel in the first inning.

Benton Harbor, now 1-2, used a brilliant pitching effort by Rick Haney to post the first-game victory. Haney gave up just three hits, while fanning nine and walking just two.

"Haney hung in there," Benton Harbor coach Paul Wilhite said. "He didn't get down on himself when he couldn't get his curveball over. He hung in there and got stronger as the game went along."

"We were hurting for pitching after that first game. If we can find another couple of pitchers to go with Haney, I think we'll do all right."

The two games were scheduled for six innings apiece, but the second contest was cut to five innings by darkness.

Benton Harbor broke a 2-2 deadlock in the first game with consecutive third-inning singles by Jerry McClintock, Mike Schultz and Jeff Phillips.

WHA Faces Calgary-Quebec War

From Associated Press

It has been a long, weary season for the people running the four-year-old World Hockey Association with the folding of the Denver-Ottawa team, the suspension of the Minnesota Fighting Saints franchise and the financial troubles of the San Diego Mariners.

But today the WHA board has another major problem—an open office war between the Calgary Cowboys and the Quebec Nordiques.

The two teams exchanged accusations Monday following an incident Sunday night. It was triggered when Rick Jodzio of the Cowboys left the Calgary bench and charged Quebec's Marc Tardif, sending the left winger to hospital with a concussion which will keep him out of action for two weeks.

A brawl ensued after the incident with 10 players being ejected by referee Steve Dowling, including Jodzio and Quebec's Gordie Gallant with match penalties for deliberate attempt to injure.

The Nordiques, who trail the best-of-seven Canadian Division semifinal 2-0 following Sunday night's 8-4 loss, were more vociferous in the post-game comments and threatened Monday to withdraw from the remainder of the playoffs unless three conditions are met by the league.

The Nordiques want Jodzio banned from the WHA forever and have asked the league to suspend Calgary Coach Joe Crozier for the rest of the playoff series. They have also demanded that Bud Poile, the WHA's vice-president in charge of hockey operations, be stripped of all his powers.

Quebec team President John Dacres said the Quebec players agree with the stand and the Nordiques will not show for the third game in Calgary, set for Wednesday, if their demands are not met.

In Winnipeg, Ben Hutslink, chief executive officer of the WHA, said that nothing will be done about the situation until Wednesday when the coaches and managers of both teams plus the trustees from Quebec and Calgary meet with him in Calgary.

Meanwhile, Inspector Gerard Muheux of the Quebec City municipal police force said Monday a complete report on the incident and the ensuing bench-clearing brawl will be submitted "without delay" to the provincial justice department following a formal complaint from the Nordiques.

The Nordiques claim Jodzio struck Tardif with his stick across the face. Jodzio denies the charge.

"I didn't hit him with my stick," Jodzio claimed. "I checked him and I punched him, but I didn't hit him with my stick."

"In 20 years of hockey, I have never seen such a savage attack," stormed Quebec Coach Jean-Guy Gendron. "Tardif, the league's leading scorer, was knocked out and that player continued to hit him while he was down."

"It's a disgrace for the league and hockey. I can assure you it was done under Crozier's orders."

"There's no doubt Quebec started it," Crozier countered. "They started it when Gord Gallant jumped Jodzio from behind and landed two or three punches."

"Jodzio didn't fight back. He was under instructions not to fight. His job was to shadow Tardif and he had been doing that job without being dirty."

Enright's 4th Book On Girls Athletics

Sodus native Jim Enright, a former sports editor for this newspaper, has just had his fourth book published "Only In Iowa."

It's the story of administrators, educators and athletes who have helped make the Iowa girls athletic program among the best in the nation.

The 318-page book, which is copyrighted by the Iowa Girls' High School Athletic Union, contains several pictures and more than 60 pages of records.

Enright, who also wrote sports for a Chicago newspaper, got the idea for his new book when he heard that the girl athlete is as popular in Iowa as Ernie Banks is in Chicago.

Enright, who graduated from Eau Claire high school in 1958, previously wrote "Mr. Cub, The Story of Ernie Banks," plus "The Official Major League Playbook" with Chuck Tanner, the new manager of the Oakland A's, and "The Chicago Cubs."

Pitcher Bushee Fennville Star Valley, Bangor Register Baseball Victories

Rick Bushee is quickly establishing himself as one of the area's premier pitchers this season.

The Fennville right-hander was brilliant again Monday, hurling a two-hitter as the Blackhawks blanked Allegan 3-0.

River Valley stopped New Prairie 4-1 in another Monday contest, and Bangor nipped Parchment 3-2 behind a three-hitter by Carl Johnson.

Bushee, who has not allowed an earned run in two starts this season, fanned nine and walked just one in pitching his masterpiece.

Fennville, now 3-0, got Bushee the only run he needed in the first inning when Terry Morse scored on a passed ball. Bushee then helped his own cause with a run-scoring single.

Jeff Jackson also fired a two-hitter in River Valley's victory. One of the two singles off Jackson was a bunt and the other a soft line drive over second base.

Jackson struck out four and walked one in posting his second win without a loss.

River Valley, now 4-1, scored all three of its runs in the fifth inning to break a 0-0 deadlock. Denny Freehling and Roger Shermak walked to open the frame. Dennis Busse followed with a triple over the left-fielder's head to plate both runners. Dave North singled in Busse with the final Mustang tally.

Bangor's Johnson fanned 12 and walked six while leading the Vikings to victory in their KVA opener. The winners also had just three hits, including a pair of singles by Fred Dukes.

Bangor, now 2-2, got single runs in each of the first three innings. A sacrifice fly by John Dietzman produced the first

St. Joe Saved By 11-Run Explosion

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

St. Joseph's bats awoke from a deep slumber just in time Monday afternoon.

Breaking loose with an 11-run explosion in the second game of a doubleheader, the Bears salvaged a split of their season-opening twin bill with Benton Harbor at John C. Sams Memorial Park.

The fourth-inning bombardment rallied St. Joe to a 12-7 win after the Bears dropped the opener 3-2.

"The way we had been hitting up until that point, I didn't expect to pull the second game out," St. Joe coach Dave Durr said. "We finally strung some hits together. We have the nucleus to have a good hitting ballclub all through the lineup. We just need a good week of solid work."

St. Joe trailed 7-1 when it came to bat in the fourth inning of the nightcap. But aided by a dropped flyball, the Bears finally broke loose. Pat Weber singled and one out later Herb Ross singled. After two straight walks brought in one run and left the bases loaded, Rick Dyer lofted a high flyball to leftfield. Tiger leftfielder Steve McNutt got under the ball, but dropped it to plate two runs and bring some life to St. Joe.

Four more walks and singles by Steve Toney, Weber and Mike Collier and the Bears had the 11-run inning to gain the victory.

Cory Benford picked up the win for St. Joe with a superb relief job on the mound. Benford yielded just one run and three hits after taking over for starter Roger Schwoebel in the first inning.

Benton Harbor, now 1-2, used a brilliant pitching effort by Rick Haney to post the first-game victory. Haney gave up just three hits, while fanning nine and walking just two.

"Haney hung in there," Benton Harbor coach Paul Wilhite said. "He didn't get down on himself when he couldn't get his curveball over. He hung in there and got stronger as the game went along."

"We were hurting for pitching after that first game. If we can find another couple of pitchers to go with Haney, I think we'll do all right."

Benton Harbor broke a 2-2 deadlock in the first game with consecutive third-inning singles by Jerry McClintock, Mike Schultz and Jeff Phillips.

The two games were scheduled for six innings apiece, but the second contest was cut to five innings by darkness.

WHA Faces Calgary-Quebec War

From Associated Press

It has been a long, weary season for the people running the four-year-old World Hockey Association with the folding of the Denver-Ottawa team, the suspension of the Minnesota Fighting Saints' franchise and the financial troubles of the San Diego Mariners.

But today, the WHA board has another major problem—an open off-ice war between the Calgary Cowboys and the Quebec Nordiques.

The two teams exchanged accusations Monday following an incident Sunday night. It was triggered when Rick Jodzio of the Cowboys left the Calgary bench and charged Quebec's Marc Tardif, sending the left winger to hospital with a concussion which will keep him out of action for two weeks.

A brawl ensued after the incident with 10 players being ejected by referee Steve Dowling, including Jodzio and Quebec's Gordie Gallant with match penalties for deliberate attempt to injure.

The Nordiques, who trail the best-of-seven Canadian Division semifinal 2-0 following Sunday night's 8-4 loss, were more vociferous in the post-game comments and threatened Monday to withdraw from the remainder of the playoffs unless three conditions are met by the league.

The Nordiques want Jodzio banned from the WHA forever and have asked the league to suspend Calgary Coach Joe Crozier for the rest of the playoff series. They have also demanded that Bud Poile, the WHA's vice-president in charge of hockey operations, be stripped of all his powers.

Quebec team President John Dacres said the Quebec players agree with the stand and the Nordiques will not show for the third game in Calgary, set for Wednesday, if their demands are not met.

In Winnipeg, Ben Hatskin, chief executive officer of the WHA, said that nothing will be done about the situation until Wednesday when the coaches and managers of both teams plus the trustees from Quebec and Calgary meet with him in Calgary.

Meanwhile, Inspector Gerard Maheux of the Quebec City municipal police force said Monday a complete report on the incident and the ensuing bench-clearing brawl will be submitted "without delay" to the provincial justice department following a formal complaint from the Nordiques.

The Nordiques claim Jodzio struck Tardif with his stick across the face. Jodzio denies the charge.

"I didn't hit him with my stick," Jodzio claimed. "I checked him and I punched him, but I didn't hit him with my stick."

"In 20 years of hockey, I have never seen such a savage attack," stormed Quebec Coach Jean-Guy Gendron. "Tardif, the league's leading scorer was knocked out and that player continued to hit him while he was down."

"It's a disgrace for the league and hockey. I can assure you it was done under Crozier's orders."

"There's no doubt Quebec started it," Crozier countered. "They started it when Gord Gallant jumped Jodzio from behind and landed two or three punches."

"Jodzio didn't fight back. He was under instructions not to fight. His job was to shadow Tardif and he had been doing that job without being dirty."

The Bears were able to close to within 9-8 in the fourth inning before Northern put the game away with four runs in the fifth.

Enright's 4th Book On Girls Athletics

Sodus native Jim Enright, a former sports editor for this newspaper, has just had his fourth book published .... "Only In Iowa."

It's the story of administrators, educators and athletes who have helped make the Iowa girls athletic program among the best in the nation.

The 316-page book, which is copyrighted by the Iowa Girls' High School Athletic Union, contains several pictures and more than 60 pages of records.

Enright, who also wrote sports for a Chicago newspaper, got the idea for his new book when he heard that "the girl athlete is as popular in Iowa as Ernie Banks is in Chicago."

Enright, who graduated from Eau Claire high school in 1928, previously wrote "Mr. Cub, The Story of Ernie Banks," plus "The Official Major League Playbook" with Chuck Tanner, the new manager of the Oakland A's, and "The Chicago Cubs."

Dampier's Late Shot Gives Colonels Series Victory

LOUISVILLE (AP) — "We've been a roller-coaster team all season but we finally hit the top," said Kentucky Colonels Coach Hubie Brown.

"It wasn't an easy ride for the Colonels, who nipped Indiana 100-99 on a basket by Louie Dampier with two seconds left to play Monday night. That gave the Colonels a 2-1 victory in their best-of-three preliminary series of the American Basketball Association playoffs.

The Colonels advance to the semifinals against the regular season champion Denver Nuggets. The best-of-seven series gets under way Thursday night in Denver.

The other ABA semifinal series, between the New York Nets and San Antonio Spurs, is tied 1-1. The third game will be played in San Antonio Wednesday night.

Brown said Dampier's 10-foot goal was "a broken shot, the result of a broken play."

Kentucky was ahead 98-96 with 17 seconds left when Mike Flynn sank a three-pointer from the corner to give Indiana a 99-98 edge.

"We had planned to feed our inbounders shot to Artis Gilmore," Brown said of the strategy discussed during a timeout. "But Gilmore was surrounded by a sea of Indiana jerseys and the ball wound up in Dampier's hands."

Dampier recalled that he "looked up and saw two seconds were left and I knew I had to shoot it up right then."

Dampier ended the night with 20 points, seven less than Gilmore.

Lancer Girls Clip Harbor

Lakeshore girls won their softball opener over Benton Harbor 26-11 Monday behind the hitting of Jodi Rabbers and the pitching of Patty Hoge.

Rabbers knocked in six runs while collecting a home run, a triple and a single at the Lakeshore diamond. Hoge, the winning pitcher on a seven-hitter, also had a double.

Lakeshore finished with 15 hits overall, with Kathy Mensinger adding a homer and Gwyn Nolan and Jamie Sinkiewicz each contributing triples.

Benton Harbor, now 0-1, got a double and a single from Martin and a two-bagger from Logan.

Morris Tops LMC Golfers

Jim Morris, a sophomore from South Haven and 1975 Lake Michigan College Player of the Year, was team medalist with a 433 total during LMC's golf team's training trip to Florida last week.

Dean Dixon had 437, Lon Kipter 438, Frank McIntosh 444 and Morris McIntosh 455. The season opener is a home meet Wednesday against Glen Oaks, Grand Rapids, Muskegon and Jackson at the Point O' Woods course.

Michigan is pushing for two separate waterfowl hunting seasons this fall — one for the Upper Peninsula and another for Lower Michigan.

U.P. duck and goose hunting has started earlier than the Lower in the past, but Michigan's overall quota of hunting dates was always the same. It meant that the Lower had a shorter season than the Upper.

Under the new proposal, Michigan would be divided into "zones," a procedure which would allow an earlier U.P. start while still giving the Lower a season of equal length.

A taped slide program on the Kalamazoo - Black - Macatawa - Paw Paw River Basin is now available on a loan basis to interested groups.

It was prepared for the Kalamazoo - Black - Macatawa - Paw Paw River Basin Citizens Advisory Council by the Kalamazoo Nature Center. It deals with the physical characteristics of the river basin, the resource conservation and development study of the basin being developed by the Soil Conservation Service and the purpose and activities of the Citizens Council. Other topics covered include soil erosion and sedimentation, water quality, flood plains, wildlife habitat and wetlands.

Further information and arrangements for borrowing the 40-minute program are available by calling 383-3993 or 383-3964.

Wisconsin and Lake Champlain have been given "no discharge" approval by the Environmental Protection Agency.

The Wisconsin approval prohibits discharges into any of the state's internal waters, plus Lake Michigan, Green Bay and the Fox River. Excepted are the Wisconsin waters of Lake Superior, the Mississippi River and the St. Croix River to North Hudson.

The Lake Champlain prohibition was granted to New York State. This now means that holding tanks, rather than flow-through treatment devices, become mandatory on boats with marine sanitation equipment on the waters of Vermont, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Michigan and Missouri; parts of California and New York, and most of Wisconsin waters.

Department of Natural Resources biologists are supporting a bill before the Legislature which would permit rabbit hunting through March in the northern Lower Peninsula.

Many hunters have pushed for the change because of high rabbit populations the last couple of years. They also note that deep snow in February has made hunting almost impossible in late winter.

Rabbit season now closes throughout the Lower Peninsula on March 1. It remains open through March in the U.P.

Steel Shot Mandatory In 1977

By JOHN VANDEN HEED
Conservation Editor

Steel shot ammunition will be mandatory for Michigan duck and goose hunting in 1977, according to Department of Natural Resources waterfowl expert Edward J. Mikula.

Smelt Catch Small

The first smelt have been taken along southwestern Michigan's Lake Michigan shoreline.

But the catches have generally been small, with the largest, checked by Berrien county conservation officer Bill Edwards not amounting to more than four pounds.

It's too early to tell, but Edwards thinks the area smelt run could be a "hop, like it was last spring."

Meanwhile, coho trolling out on the Big Lake is a "hot and cold" situation, with limits being taken when conditions are right.

Fishermen are eager to try for salmon, but they at times are facing long lines, when launching boats at area public access sites. At least one site, launching piers still weren't in the water over the weekend.

With salmon trolling picking up, fewer anglers are trying for steelhead on the St. Joseph River below the Berrien Springs dam.

Shamrock Park attendant Alvin Aldridge counted 30 fishermen on Saturday with five salmon, two steelhead and one brown trout. On Sunday, 20 anglers had four steelhead, four salmon and three browns.

The purpose of the steel shot requirement is to stop the accumulation of spent lead pellets in areas where they cause lead poisoning problems. Waterfowl frequently ingest these pellets and subsequently die from lead poisoning.

Mikula estimates two to three million ducks annually will be saved from lead poisoning deaths nationwide through the switch to steel shot.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has announced that selected areas in the Atlantic Flyway will start using steel shot this fall. The requirement extends to parts of the Mississippi Flyway — which includes Michigan — in 1977 and to the Central and Pacific Flyways in 1978.

The original U.S. Fish and Wildlife announcement said "areas where steel shot must be used will be identified jointly by the Fish and Wildlife Service and the state fish and game departments. Primary attention will be focused on known problem areas."

But Mikula notes, further federal criteria calls for steel shot where the waterfowl kill is more than two birds per square mile. This would include about 90 per cent of Michigan, so rather than create an enforcement problem, the DNR has decided to put the entire state under the steel shot requirement.

Mikula says he has also heard that Wisconsin and Minnesota have decided to use statewide steel shot requirements.

The use of steel shot will apply only to the hunting of ducks, geese and cranes because the hunting of these species is believed to be the source of most of the lead shot deposited in wetland areas, and causing lead poisoning. The hunting of other species of aquatic and upland game birds does not appear to be a source of significant lead poisoning problems.

The decision to implement the program progressively nationwide over three years is designed to allow time for ammunition manufacturers to develop production capabilities and for waterfowl managers to further identify lead poison problem areas.

Biologists started looking for a solution to lead poisoning of waterfowl as far back as the 1930's.

And after years of research, steel shot has finally evolved as the best available substitute, although other types of shot are being investigated and may be available in the future.

Hunters will probably find steel shot to be slightly more expensive initially, and it will have characteristics different than lead shot when fired.

"Steel shot from a shotgun has a tighter pattern than regular shot," explains Mikula. "The initial velocity is also a 100 feet per second faster, so the lead factor is going to be different."

But because a steel pellet is lighter, its hitting power falls off more rapidly than lead shot.

Both are considered equal up to 35 yards, with lead shot having the advantage beyond that.

"We've got to get across to the hunters to let the birds come in close before shooting," adds Mikula. "Beyond 35 yards crippling goes up extremely high. We've got to do something to get hunters conscious of the fact that the shotgun is not a lethal weapon at long range."

Mikula does note that birds which appear crippled in the fall are probably the victims of lead poisoning rather than shotgun wounds. U.S. Fish and Wildlife studies have shown that more than 99 per cent of birds assumed to be crippled were actually suffering from lead poisoning.

ADC Writer Says She Cries For System; Not Laughing

A young Fairplain woman, who says she is an ADC, has written a letter of explanation to State Rep. Ray Milton (R-Niles) saying that she did not mean to imply that Milton is a pro-welfare legislator.

The woman says she has regarded Milton "as somewhat conservative in matters of state spending. I have respected this among other of your qualities."

In a letter to Milton that was published last Friday in The Herald-Palladium, the woman said Milton had helped enact welfare laws and assisted with growth of the social services department.

Milton replied the woman was "wholly wrong" and said he had been fighting excesses in social services since he was elected in 1968.

The woman said she sent a copy of her latest letter to The Herald-Palladium because the original letter to Milton "seemed to be of such interest." In it, she described ADC as "abandonment of the Christian work ethic."

Although it is the general policy of this newspaper not to print letters without naming the writer, the woman's name was withheld at her request after it was verified she wrote the letter. The points she raised were considered by The Herald-Palladium to be of public interest.

Following is the text of her second letter with her name withheld:

Dear Mr. Milton:

It has always seemed to me that you have been somewhat conservative in matters of state spending. I have respected this among other of your qualities.

For this reason I directed my letter to you. It was my hope that as a Social Services committee member and a very strong and well-respected member of the House, that perhaps you could, if possible, sway those with any control over aid procedures. As to why I receive your newsletters, I have no knowledge.

I did not mean to so strongly implicate you personally, as I quite obviously did. It was meant more as a general statement directed at any or all public officials, and I would like to apologize for this.

Your indication that my address has anything to do with my being part of the department's excess brings offense to me. My home is the most luxperious in the neighborhood. It is small, has holes in the walls, broken windows and other needed repairs which I cannot afford. Yet I do consider it clean and quite nice considering the cost. I looked quite carefully and did a lot of scribbling.

I don't think I am any better off than anyone else on aid. I don't have a bed, a vacuum cleaner, a lawnmower, or many other things which would make life a little more comfortable. Just a few months ago I finally got a refrigerator that was in working order.

I did not apply for aid to prove any point. It was a depressing time in which I tried, by nature, to take the easy way out. Only by later reflection did I really realize how much too easy it was for me, others that I know, and so very many others that I am sure exist.

Now that we have no fault divorce it takes only the lack of compatibility, real or imagined, to create an undue burden on these working hard to make a go of it. We now also have laws which make it almost just as easy for a woman to be the family's breadwinner as a man. I did not expect the letter to be given the attention that it has, and I am sure that I have aggravated and hopefully interested many. I was not trying to call attention to my own personal cause but to the inadequacies of the system. My case is only an example.

It was also my hope that by sending the letter to the newspaper, it would appeal to the conscience of those accepting aid who could find other alternatives, and perhaps the friends of these persons could give extra incentive. I have in recent years seen the stigma which used to be attached to welfare diminish, and no longer do many feel uneasy about unearned income.

The laws which govern the department are also creating the anathema. The ADC mothers are only doing what comes naturally, the best for their own economic situation. Most are acting in accordance with the law. A bit of revision seems to be called for.

I feel that the department should return to having just one caseworker service a client to give them an opportunity to be in-the-know on the capabilities and necessities of their clients. As it is, no one knows you well enough. You might speak to an intake worker, an education worker, a child-care worker, a health worker, or the one who handles your budget. When a home call is called for, you get someone else, each time. It seems like they would want to know a little more about each case.

I have exposed myself in an effort to do a little good, but I'm not sure that I have. Some people, like you Mr. Milton, are not reading me quite right. I am not really laughing at the system. I am crying for it.

Fennville Budget Unveiled

FENNVILLE — A tentative 1976-77 proposed operating budget of $207,937 was presented to the Fennville city commission during a special meeting last night, according to Mayor Robert McCracken.

McCracken said the budget, up $3,880 over last year's amended budget of $204,057, would be given further consideration at the next commission meeting on Monday, April 19, and presented at a May 3 public hearing.

The new budget calls a 10 percent pay hike for eight city employees to be based on the average pay of the workers, the mayor said.

The current city property tax levy of 14 mills will not be changed, McCracken said.

Consideration of the new budget has been clouded by the new single business tax which will replace personal property taxes on business inventories, McCracken said. He said this year's 14 mills raised about $63,000, but the same mills next year are expected to raise only $42,000.

The city's state equalized valuation (SEV) has dropped from over $4 million to over $3 million because of the loss of business inventories from the tax base and the city is uncertain how much of the new single business tax will be returned to local units of government by the state, the mayor said.

Decatur School Budget Is Hiked

DECATUR — The Decatur school board last night approved a tentative 1976-77 school year budget of $1,484,202 for submission to the Van Buren county tax allocation board.

The budget is 3.36 per cent higher than the district's current budget of $1,433,980.

Supt. Wayne Hellenig said the increase is mainly due to salary increases for all employees. He said the proposed budget for allocation purposes is balanced.

In other areas, Hellenig said the annual school election will be held Monday, June 14. In the junior-senior high school cafeteria, last day for persons to register is Monday, May 17, with the clerk in the township where they reside.

Hellenig reviewed plans to be implemented by school administrators in case of tornado forecast or warning and noted all parents are to be made aware of the procedure.

A school hot lunch program was also discussed but was tabled for further study.

Approval was granted Thomas Overley and Keith Leighton for use of the school athletic field on July 3-5, for a Bicentennial celebration.

The board accepted the resignations of elementary teachers Mrs. Irma Nagle and Mrs. Naomi Addict, who both will retire at the end of the current school year. Mrs. Nagle has taught for 26 years, 14 at Decatur, and Mrs. Addict 27 years, 15 at Decatur.

Galen Grant Bid Over One Hurdle

GALIEN — Galien village council learned last night its pre-application for $250,000 in federal community development funds has been approved.

Approval of the pre-application by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) clears the way for final consideration of the request for the funds, according to consultant Leslie Cripps.

The village had originally sought $300,000 for sewer and water systems and improvement of substandard housing in the village. Cripps told the council the final application for the funds is due May 15.

In other areas, Councilman Jack Canfield announced that Clara Silas of Galien has been named the new village building inspector. Silas, a licensed contractor and Galien high school teacher, will replace Canfield, who resigned recently because he said he was not qualified for the job.

The council named Canfield, councilman Edward Howard and Silas to survey the village for violations of the city's litter and junk car ordinances. The move was ordered after a petition signed by about 70 village residents was presented to the council asking that the village's litter, junk car and animal control ordinances be enforced.

The three are to report back to the council on results of their survey at the May 10 meeting.

The council approved payment of $100 to the Galien American Legion post for the organization's annual July 4 fireworks show.

SMC Says Enrollment Still Rising

DOWAGIAC — Southwestern Michigan college's continuing education short course program continued to show an increase in enrollment, according to figures announced this spring.

Spring short course enrollment at SMC and SMC's Niles-Brandywine extension this spring totals 609 compared to 543 for fall semester, 1975, and 472 for last spring semester.

When government takes over big business, you don't get small business.

You get Big Government.

We're not arguing with government's proper role in overseeing big business. It's government's responsibility to enforce laws to protect its citizens from being taken advantage of.

But when government extends its power to cripple an industry and destroy its efficiency, we need to look into government's motives.

The issue here is why some politicians want to break up America's major oil companies. "Divestiture," as they call it, would dismember the big oil companies into many smaller companies — some to explore and produce crude oil and natural gas, others to refine, others to transport, and perhaps still others to own and operate service stations.

The result could be a breakdown in the quality and service that big companies deliver to this great country.

By dismembering Big Oil into small, un-integrated, inefficient units, government could create a crisis in new energy supplies and prices that only Big Government could solve.

That's why dismemberment could be thought of as the first dangerous step towards nationalization of the oil industry. And inevitably, bigger Big Government.

Is that what you really want? If it isn't, write your Senators and Representative.

ADC Writer Says She Cries For System; Not Laughing

A young Fairplain woman, who says she is on ADC, has written a letter of explanation to State Rep. Ray Mittan (R-Niles) saying that she did not mean to imply that Mittan is a pro-welfare legislator.

Accused Slayer Of Girl Bound Over Two Will Start Probation In Jail

A man charged in connection with the 1974 slaying of a 15-year-old Sodus township girl was bound over to Berrien Circuit court yesterday on charges of second degree, unpremeditated, murder. Testimony at the preliminary hearing of James Lee Williams, 29, indicated that Maxine L. Thomas was shot by her boyfriend during an argument at her Sodus township home Oct. 21, 1974, according to Ronald J. Taylor, Berrien Fifth District court judge.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Sarah Mae Thomas, testified that she witnessed the incident at her home on Jones street, Sodus township. Taylor said the woman testified that Williams came to the house, argued with the girl and grabbed her. Williams wrestled the girl to the floor and, when his back was to Mrs. Thomas, a shot was apparently fired, Taylor said the woman testified.

Williams stood up, pointed a pistol at Mrs. Thomas, and fled, the woman testified. Police searched for Williams in connection with the shooting until last month, when he was arrested in San Antonio, Texas, by FBI agents. Police reported that the girl died of a gunshot wound to the head. Yesterday Mrs. Thomas testified that her daughter had been dating the defendant before the murder. Williams was jailed under $30,000 bond following the hearing.

Two men sentenced yesterday in Berrien Circuit court were ordered to begin their probationary terms with same time in jail.

Judge Julian E. Hughes sentenced Richard Harold Huff, 21, of 3423 Hicks avenue, rural Benton Harbor, to two years probation, with the first four months in jail, for larceny from a person. Huff was also ordered to pay $490 fine and costs.

He was charged with stealing $88 from John McDaniels, Jr., Oct. 27 at the Rainbow lounge on Red Arrow highway in Waterford township.

Judge William S. White ordered David Allen Moore, 26, of 220 East Ash street, Three Oaks, to spend the first 60 days of a two-year probation in jail for attempted breaking and entering the house of Spencer Castle in Three Oaks on Sept. 18.

In other sentences by Hughes:

Jerry Allen Benz, 18, of 440 Vernon, Niles, was placed on two years probation and assessed $200 fine and costs for unlawful use of a vehicle—a motorcycle owned by Joseph Baumgardner Jan. 27 in Niles.

LaVerne Raudale, 20, of 1850 Highland avenue, Benton township, was placed on five years probation and ordered to make restitution of $892 for obtaining goods valued at more than $100 under false pretenses Jan. 24 at the St. Joseph Montgomery Ward's catalog store. She was charged with claiming to be another woman in order to get living room furniture and a dinette set.

Aaron Dudley, 18, of 433 Washington avenue, Benton Harbor, got two years probation and $240 fine and costs for entering a store at 400 Highland avenue, Benton Harbor, without breaking Nov. 2.

In another sentence by White, Donzell Rosenberg, 38, of Gary, was placed on two years probation and assessed $400 fine and costs for attempting to carry a concealed weapon—a pistol—Jan. 1 on I-44 in Lincoln township.

In arraignment before Judge Chester J. Byrnes:

Julio C. Sanchez, 28, of 626 South 14th street, Niles, pleaded innocent to a charge of assault with a deadly weapon—a butcher knife—against his 16-month-old son, Benjamin, March 12 at 536 Broadway, Niles.

Donnis A. Drudge, 25, of South Bend, pleaded innocent to a charge of delivery of PCP

Driver's Word Clears Hitchhikers

Police netted one guilty man, and two innocent hitchhikers, when they arrested three occupants of a car in Lincoln township Sunday afternoon.

So said Harry J. Johnson, 27, of Northwood, Mo., who pleaded guilty yesterday in Berrien Fifth District court to a charge of use of marijuana.

Johnson told District Judge John T. Hammond that the pound of marijuana seized from his car was his property. He also told the judge that the two other people being-marijuana charges along with Johnson yesterday were Anna A. German, 25, and William Perry, 28, both of St. Louis, Mo. After hearing the story, Paul Maloney, assistant prosecutor dismissed the charges against the St. Louis pair, Hammond said, and allowed Johnson to plead guilty to a lesser offense.

The three had been charged by police with possession of marijuana with intent to deliver.

Misstep Can Cost Him A Soft Bed

A South Bend man sentenced yesterday in Berrien Circuit court told the judge he had a back problem and had to sleep in a soft bed.

Judge William S. White placed the man on probation with the warning: "If you violate probation, the bed you'll be sleeping in will not be as soft as the one at your home."

Sentenced to two years probation and assessed $350 fine and costs was Donald Lee Pritchard, 24, for delivery of a controlled substance, amylal Sept. 18 in Niles.

Pritchard told the judge he suffered broken vertebrae in his back as the result of a car accident and had to sleep in a soft bed. White said Pritchard's physical condition was one of the reasons no jail sentence was imposed but the judge threatened him with sleep on a jail or prison bed as a reminder not to violate probation.

Clash Looms In Lutheran Synod

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Temporary replacements have been named for the four presidents of Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod districts who were fired April 2, the head of the synod announced Monday.

But the presidents whom they are to replace have vowed to remain in office and defy the ouster order of Dr. J.A.O. Preus.

The district presidents, whose office is equivalent to that of bishop in some denominations, were removed for ordaining graduates of Seminex, a breakaway seminary formed two years ago following a doctrinal dispute between moderates and conservatives in the 2.8-million-member synod.

Named as acting presidents were the Revs. Henry L. Koepchen, Setauket, N.Y., Atlantic District; Albert W. Bahr, Niagara Falls, N.Y., Eastern District; Paul G. Barth, Buffalo, N.Y., English District; and Oscar E. Milke, Norwalk, Conn., New England District.

Dr. Preus said the four would serve until their district conventions elect interim presidents to complete current terms of office.

In vacating the four offices, Dr. Preus carried out a resolution of the synod's 1975 governing convention directing him to remove from office those presidents who continued to ordain "improperly authorized candidates."

Following the dismissals, the board of directors of the Eastern District met in Buffalo last Saturday and voted to keep their president, the Rev. Herman R. Frincke, in office.

After the meeting, Pastor Frincke vowed to stay on the job. He said the board had reaffirmed that "only the congregations which elected me have the right to remove me."

The Rev. Harold Hecht of Detroit, ousted as head of the English District, said he will remain in office and added that he hoped he would not encourage a permanent rift in the synod.

Other district presidents fired by Dr. Preus were the Revs. Rudolph P.F. Reismeyer of New York City, Atlantic District, and Robert J. Riedel of Springfield, Mass., New England District.

Coloma Will Sell Water To Hilltop

BY CLIFF STEVENS
Coloma Correspondent

COLOMA — The Coloma city commission last night authorized the city clerk and mayor to sign a contract for selling city water to Sassano, Inc., for use at the site of the new Hilltop Foods store in Coloma township.

The commission approval for signing the contract was hinged on the addition of an amendment made last night by the commission, limiting the amount of water usage to 1 1/2 million gallons of water per year.

The new store, located at Paw Paw Lake road and Paw Paw avenue just north of the city limits, will open this summer.

Under the terms of the contract, the city will charge the firm one and a half times the normal water usage rates charged to city residents.

In other areas, the commission voted to change its starting time of commission meetings from 8 p.m. to 7:30 p.m., effective Monday, April 28.

The commission approved hiring Renee Walker as a part-time policewoman for the city police force, at a rate of $3.75 per hour.

Chief of police Kenneth Unruh said the hiring of Miss Walker is necessary due to changes in the law which require a woman to search and assist in the arrests of all female prisoners.

City Clerk Mrs. Patricia Beezley reported the city received their first check from the Paw Paw Lake Area Cable Television firm, covering a two-year period, amounting to $48.75, or three per cent of the firm's gross revenue received from the city's 231 users of cable television.

The commission, by a four to three vote, denied a request from the Easter Seals Society of Berrien county for conducting a Lily Tag day sale, April 17.

The members voting against the request felt the society's solicitation through the mails and possible inclusion in the United Fund should be sufficient.

Voting against the request were Commissioners William Weybright, Norman Carrothers, Robert Wooley and Randall.

Voting in favor of the request were Commissioners Fred Munchow, Mrs. Wavia Noack and Harold Hammond.

Carrothers passed on a vote taken by the commission giving Coloma City Public Works Coordinator James Noack and his public works employees a vote of confidence. The vote was proposed by Hammond, head of the city's public works committee.

Carrothers said he passed on his vote because "things are not being done that I feel should be done."

The vote of confidence was sought as a result of comments and compliments made of the work Noack and his crew accomplished in the past year.

Carrothers during the commission's March 22 meeting was critical of Noack for telling his employees not to talk to him (Carrothers).

The commission approved a request from the Coloma Lions club for holding a White Cane sale, April 30 and May 1, and named Commissioner Wooley to work with the Coloma high school in regards to Student Government Day.

The commission approved advertising that a public hearing would be held on the proposed construction of a new Logan street bridge, if any city resident desires one to be held. If no response is received, the hearing will not be scheduled.

The commission authorized sending letters to state officials opposing five house bills which would permit placement of foster homes for both children and adults in any area of a city despite local zoning, and requesting the state give full reimbursement to city's and

Two Coloma Board Members Undecided

Coloma Correspondent

COLOMA — Two of three Coloma school board members whose terms of office expire this year indicated last night they are uncertain if they will seek another term on the board in the annual June 14 election.

The members reporting they had not yet decided on whether to seek another term were Mrs. Ronald (Lauralee) Inman and longtime board member Marshall Badt.

Both terms are for four years.

The third member, Edward Messal, said he would definitely file for the remaining one-year portion of the unexpired term of former board member Dr. James Gaffes. Messal was appointed after Gaffes resigned to fill the vacancy until the election.

Mrs. Inman was appointed to the board Oct. 27 to fill a vacancy then.

Badt is completing his third four-year term on the board. The two full four-year terms and the one-year partial term are the only offices at stake in the election. Filing deadline for candidates is Monday, May 17, at 4 p.m.

The board members made their comments following the regular board meeting.

During the meeting, the board approved leasing the unused portable classroom building, located west of the high school, to the North Berrien Senior Citizens center for one year.

Under the lease arrangement, the board can elect to renew the lease at the end of each year, with the understanding that the center pay all expenses and upkeep on the building.

Approval was granted to donate unseizable limestone salvaged from Washington school to the Coloma American Legion Post 382 for use in constructing a new memorial stone in the Coloma cemetery for all veterans.

The board authorized Supt. William Barrett to work out details for planned karate classes in the school, two nights per week, outlined by 1971 Coloma graduate Jeff Reinhardt, an instructor in the course. The classes, if approved, would be included in the schools adult education classes and be open to school students too.

Donald Spilger, Coloma junior high principal, said a meeting slated for this Thursday, to outline formation of a parent-teacher-student organization has been rescheduled to Tuesday, April 20, at 7 p.m. in the school library.

Permission was granted to the Coloma Explorer's Post 582 and the Paw Paw Lake Country Music association to hold a dance in the high school cafeteria, Sunday, April 25, from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Board action seeking bids for erecting a fence on the east side of the Coloma high school property line to prevent students from trespassing onto private property during free hours was tabled.

Coloma Will Sell Water To Hilltop

BY CLIFF STEVENS
Coloma Correspondent

COLOMA — The Coloma city commission last night authorized the city clerk and mayor to sign a contract for selling city water to Sassano, Inc., for use at the site of the new Hilltop Foods store in Coloma township.

The commission approval for signing the contract was hinged on the addition of an amendment made last night by the commission, limiting the amount of water usage to 1½ million gallons of water per year.

The new store, located at Paw Paw Lake road and Paw Paw avenue just north of the city limits, will open this summer.

Under the terms of the contract, the city will charge the firm one and a half times the normal water usage rates charged to city residents.

In other areas, the commission voted to change its starting time of commission meetings from 8 p.m. to 7:30 p.m., effective, Monday, April 26.

The commission approved hiring Renee Walther as a part-time policewoman for the city police force, at a rate of $3.75 per hour.

Chief of police Kenneth Unruh

said the hiring of Miss Walther is necessary due to changes in the law which require a woman to search and assist in the arrests of all female prisoners.

City Clerk Mrs. Patricia Beezley reported the city received their first check from the Paw Paw Lake Area Cable Television firm, covering a two-year period, amounting to $448.75, or three per cent of the firm's gross revenue received from the city's 251 users of cable television.

The commission, by a four to three vote, denied a request from the Easter Seals Society of Berrien county for conducting a Lily Tag day sale, April 17.

The members voting against the request felt the society's solicitation through the mails and possible inclusion in the United Fund should be sufficient.

Voting against the request were Commissioners William Weybright, Norman Carrothers, Robert Wooley and Randall.

Voting in favor of the request were Commissioners Fred Munchow, Mrs. Wavia Noack and Harold Hammond.

Carrothers passed on a vote taken by the commission giving Coloma City Public Works Coordinator James Noack and his public works employees a vote of confidence. The vote was proposed by Hammond, head of the city's public works committee.

Carrothers said he passed on his vote because, "things are not being done that I feel should be done."

The vote of confidence was sought as a result of comments and compliments made of the work Noack and his crew accomplished in the past year.

Carrothers during the commission's March 22 meeting was critical of Noack for telling his employees not to talk to him (Carrothers).

The commission approved a request from the Coloma Lions club for holding a White Cane sale, April 30 and May 1, and named Commissioner Wooley to work with the Coloma high school in regards to Student Government Day.

The commission approved advertising that a public hearing would be held on the proposed construction of a new Logan street bridge, if any city resident desires one to be held. If no response is received, the hearing will not be scheduled.

The commission authorized sending letters to state officials opposing five house bills which would permit placement of foster homes for both children and adults in any area of a city despite local zoning, and requesting the state give full reimbursement to city's and townships for the presidential primary costs.

Two Coloma Board Members Undecided

BY CLIFF STEVENS
Coloma Correspondent

COLOMA — Two of three Coloma school board members whose terms of office expire this year indicated last night they are uncertain if they will seek another term on the board in the annual June 14 election.

The members reporting they had not yet decided on whether to seek another term were Mrs. Ronald (Lauralee) Inman and longtime board member Marshall Badt.

Both terms are for four years.

The third member, Edward Messal, said he would definitely file for the remaining one-year portion of the unexpired term of former board member Dr. James Galles. Messal was appointed after Galles resigned to fill the vacancy until the election.

Mrs. Inman was appointed to the board Oct. 27 to fill a vacancy then.

Badt is completing his third four-year term on the board. The two full four-year terms and the one-year partial term are the only offices at stake in the election. Filing deadline for candidates is Monday, May 17, at 4 p.m.

The board members made their comments following the regular board meeting.

During the meeting, the board approved leasing the unused portable classroom building, located west of the high school, to the North Berrien Senior Citizens center for one year.

Under the lease arrangement, the board can elect to renew the lease at the end of each year, with the understanding that the center pay all expenses and upkeep on the building.

Approval was granted to donate unseable limestone salvaged from Washington school to the Coloma American Legion Post 362 for use in constructing a new memorial stone in the Coloma cemetery for all veterans.

The board authorized Supt. William Barrett to work out details for planned karate classes in the school, two nights per week, outlined by 1971 Coloma graduate Jeff Reinhardt, an instructor in the course. The classes, if approved, would be included in the schools adult education classes and be open to school students too.

Donald Spilger, Coloma junior high principal, said a meeting slated for this Thursday, to outline formation of a parent-teacher-student organization has been rescheduled to Tuesday, April 20, at 7 p.m., at the school library.

Permission was granted to the Coloma Explorer's Post 682 and the Paw Paw Lake Country Music association to hold a dance in the high school cafeteria, Sunday, April 25, from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Board action seeking bids for erecting a fence on the east side of the Coloma high school property line to prevent students from trespassing onto private property during free hours was tabled.

'Virgin Birth' Scandal Closed

LONDON (AP) — A House of Lords committee has upheld a 1926 decision that Geoffrey Russell, the baby in the "virgin birth" scandal of the 1920s, was the legitimate son and heir of the third Baron Amphil of the title should go to his half-brother Geoffrey, a 54-year-old theatrical impresario. No property was at stake.

The Committee of Privileges, made up of nine peers, rejected on Monday the claim of John Hugo Russell, 25, to the barony and ruled that the title should go to his half-brother Geoffrey, a 54-year-old theatrical impresario. No property was at stake.

The ruling was issued after seven weeks of deliberation following a four-day hearing that revisited one of 20th century England's juicier scandals. To become effective, the verdict must be approved by the full House of Lords and Queen Elizabeth II, but this is expected to be automatic.

The scandal started in 1922 when Baroness Russell sued her husband, John Russell, for divorce and accused her of adultery. She was a well-known society beauty who met her husband through a newspaper advertisement.

Women lined up for hours to get seats in the courtroom, and street vendors sold Baby Geoffrey dolls.

Russell testified that his wife had never had sexual intercourse with him. She testified she had never had full sexual relations with any man, and that Geoffrey's conception was the result of an unpleasant interlude with her husband 10 months before the child's birth.

Medical evidence was presented indicating Mrs. Russell was technically at least partly a virgin, but there was no corroboration in court. It was taken to mean the hymen was only partially ruptured, but enough to permit conception.

The first jury could not reach a verdict. In a retrial in 1923, Mrs. Russell was found guilty of adultery. An appeal was dismissed, but she fought the ruling to the House of Lords and won.

Mrs. Russell sued for divorce herself in 1935, not long after Russell had succeeded to the title. The baron remarried twice, and John Russell was his son by his third marriage.

The baron died in 1973, and his first wife followed him last February, at the age of 80, a week before the hearing on the rival claims to the title.

"If ever there was a case for closing the chapter in a family's history, the case for closing this ... after the distressing revelations and divisions over so many years, must be one," said the committee chairman, Lord Wilberforce.

Student Staffers Walk Out

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Most of the staff on Michigan State University's student newspaper walked out Sunday in protest when their recommendations for next year's editor in chief were not followed. The newspaper staff chose Steve Orr, who was told he would not get the job because he said he would not give up a summer job in Detroit. The board of directors which selects the editor said it wanted him to remain on campus during the summer, and instead named Mary Ann Chickshaw. Only four staffers remained on the job and the current editor, John Tingwall, said they would produce a 10-page edition, rather than the 12 pages originally planned. The newspaper has a circulation of 41,000.

WHEAT DAMAGED

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Agriculture says this year's winter wheat crop has been diminished by drought, but the setback will not significantly raise the price of bread and other baking products.

Pension Payments Cut

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state of Michigan has cut its contribution to three state pension funds, causing some experts to warn that pensioners eventually could be left with no benefits. The state is, however, still contributing enough to cover the pension benefits workers are earning now, so there is no immediate danger. But the state administration has deferred in the past two years $143 million in payments intended to cut down its pension debt. And there are plans to defer another $77 million payment this year. The debt is technically called "unfunded accrued liability." It is created at the same time the pension fund starts, as workers are granted pension credits for past service. Although it is normal for a pension plan to have such a debt, critics warn that trouble lies ahead if the debt isn't reduced.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Rally Is Moderate

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced today in a moderate rally, attributed mainly to technical forces.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials gained more than 2 points in the early going, and advances outnumbered declines by about a 4-3 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the activity was dominated by bargain hunting in stocks depressed by last week's selloff.

Today's early prices included Gulf Oil, up 1/4 at 24 1/4; General Motors, ahead 1/4 at 50 1/4; Ligon Industries, unchanged at 15, and Hercules, up 1/4 at 32 1/4.

On Monday the Dow Jones industrial average posted a 2.90 gain to 971.27.

But losers held a 5-4 edge on gainers in the overall tally of NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index lost 1/8 to 53.33.

Big Board volume hit a 14-week low of 16.03 million shares.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .39 at 101.81.

Copper Goes Up 4c A Lb.

NEW YORK (AP) — Four copper companies have raised prices to 70 cents a pound from 66 cents a pound.

Kennecott Sales Corp., Anaconda Sales Co. and Inspiration Consolidated Copper Co. announced on Monday the increases for full plate, copper cathodes, and Copper Range Co. for Lake Copper ingot bars.

All had recently raised prices from 63 cents to 66 cents a pound.

Overloaded Truck Costs Owner $500

The owner of a trucking company was sentenced to fine and costs of $500 yesterday in Berrien Fifth District court for allowing one of his trucks to be operated on a public highway while it was overloaded with sand.

Sentenced was Richard Harris, owner of Harris Trucking Co., 3471 Turfdrill road, Benton township.

According to the ticket, issued by the Michigan Public Service Commission, the three-axle truck was carrying 7,500 pounds in excess sand when checked in Lagar township March 18. Total weight of the load was 54,500 pounds, the ticket stated.

District Judge John T. Hammond said that the fine for carrying too much weight in a truck is set at six cents a pound under these circumstances. In addition to the $450 fine Hammond sentenced Harris to $50 costs.

COPING WITH MENTAL DEPRESSION (First of two columns)

Although the unemployment rate has been falling steadily (if somewhat grudgingly) in recent months, Henry S., 53 years old and an Illinois resident, has had no luck in finding another job doing the work he knows and likes. To support his family of four, including two high school teenagers, he has taken a job with another company in a related field — but his position has changed drastically. From a middle-management executive in the home office he has been transformed into a sales representative who must travel extensively.

For the first time in 25 years of married life, he is now away from his wife and home a good part of the week. A new lifestyle of strange towns, frequent packing and unpacking, the unaccustomed necessity to project himself to new people — all have become increasingly unbearable.

"He cries when he comes home. At nights, on weekends," his wife reports.

Mr. S. insists he doesn't have a mental problem.

Not so, say experts in the field of mental health, who see Mr. S. as one of the uncounted millions of miscast, economically displaced Americans whose lifestyles have been shattered as a result of the 1974-75 economic slump. And they urge Americans who recognize themselves in this portrait of S. to seek information and help at a local mental assistance group set up to deal with precisely such situations as this.

Of course, Mr. S. is relatively fortunate; he has a job. For millions of others, the future is far more bleak.

"The emotional climate in which people work and live has undergone considerable change, with the result that worrying about job security, taxes, and record costs of food and essential commodities has reached epidemic proportions," says Dr. Louis E. ## Combination

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Booth Newspapers Inc. has had discussions with several firms seeking a combination with Booth, the newspaper group revealed Monday.

Booth President James E. Suiter, in a letter to stockholders, also reported very slow progress in obtaining assurances that New York publisher Samuel I. Newhouse will not take control of the Ann Arbor-based chain.

Newhouse acquired a 25 per cent interest in Booth a month ago, and Booth has been seeking guarantees of his promise not to take over the company.

Watervliet Board Is Willing

WATERVLIET — The Watervliet school board last night took preliminary action to permit a private firm to be hired to administer unemployment compensation claims against the district.

In a formal vote, the board said it would be willing to enter into a contract with a firm for the service.

Supt. Samuel Gravitt said a Birmingham, Mich., firm, Reed, Roberts and Associates, had indicated it would administer unemployment claims at an estimated annual fee of about $300.

He said that was much cheaper than it now costs to have a secretary type out the forms required whenever a former employee files a claim. Gravitt said the firm would be willing to come into Berrien county if enough local districts were willing to contract with it to make the service profitable for the firm.

In other areas, Kenneth Bannan, high school principal, told the board a vocational and salutatorian would soon be named for the 1976 graduating class. He said that in previous years the high school did not single out the highest and second highest academic achievers, but rather announced the top 10 academic students.

Gravitt said school district residents who are not registered to vote must do so by May 17 if they wish to vote in the June 14 school election.

He said he was sure the board would put a request for additional millage on the ballot, but the amount has not been set yet. Last year, the district's total levy was 25.057 mills.

The board approved three requests for building use. The Southwestern Michigan Gladiolus society was given permission to use the South elementary school Aug. 7 and 8 for its annual gladiolus show.

The Berrien county kernel club was given permission to use the high school gym Nov. 27 for an all-breed dog show, and middle school music teacher Robert Nelson was given permission to use band room facilities for a six-week summer music program of private lessons.

It was noted that the school district showed a profit of $4,411 for recent district and regional basketball tournaments held at the high school. There were 10,721 paid admissions during the tournaments, Gravitt said.

Raiders In Kazoo Grab 26

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Twenty-six persons were arrested early today and 18 others were sought in a series of drug raids in Kalamazoo.

Authorities said the raids followed five months of investigations by narcotics officers for Kalamazoo and State Police and the regional crime unit.

All those arrested or sought were adults charged with violations of the controlled substances act.

Authorities gave no other details of the raids such as whether any narcotics were seized.

Is I-196 Patrolled? Ask These 2 Men

By TOM KENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — Two Grand Rapids men learned last night that I-196 is well patrolled by police. Their car was stopped twice within an hour for speeding by different troopers from the South Haven post.

Police said James Thrower, 20, was ticketed for speeding 83 miles per hour on the interstate in Covert township at 6:45 p.m.

At 7:40 p.m. and 25 miles further down the highway, the same car was stopped for going 100 mph. This time troopers ticketed Walter Strong, 20, both for speeding and driving on a suspended license. Strong had been a passenger when Thrower was ticketed, police said.

Strong was lodged in the Allegan county jail on the suspended license charge pending arraignment in 57th district court, South Haven.

State police say the patrol cars were unaware that each had ticketed the same car.

Cass School Board Votes To Keep Land

LAGRANGE — The Lewis Cass intermediate school board last night voted to temporarily retain title to 10 acres of land that was to have been the site of a proposed vocational education center.

The countywide referendum to fund construction of the center was defeated in March, and the property site on the Southwestern Michigan college campus will revert back to SMC if not used for vocational purposes before July 1, 1979.

The official canvass of the March 15 vote showed 3,386 people were against the measure and 1,701 voted for it, according to Ned Sutherland, director of vocational education. Sutherland listed 16 points which he felt were most contributory to the proposal's defeat. Chief among them was the adverse tax climate at this time, he said.

The board voted to retain the services of Towe and his three department heads for another year. Salaries for the administrators will be determined at a later date. The department heads include Sutherland, Mrs. Alice Barrett, director of special services and Carl Kuntor, director of special education. A staff of 17 people was approved for the 1976-77 school year.

Watervliet Twp. Grants Final OK For New Landfill

WATERVLIET — The Watervliet township board last night voted its final approval for development of a privately owned, 54-acre sanitary landfill on Hennessy road. Board approval for the site came after an engineer specializing in waste disposal and sanitary landfill facilities answered questions from surrounding property owners and other township residents.

The proposed landfill still needs to be licensed by the state Department of Natural Resources but formal approval from the township was needed to meet DNR specifications. The issue had been presented at the March township meeting.

George Slater of All-Waste Disposal, Inc. of Benton Harbor, and engineer Marvin Osterbaan of Detroit explained Slater's proposal. The landfill will be located across from a Berrien county maintenance garage and the Watervliet Rod and Gun club.

Detailed drawings of the facility were presented which showed the landfill would be screened from surrounding property by a wood fence and trees.

Osterbaan told concerned residents there wouldn't be additional problems with water runoff to their property from the landfill because the state soil and water erosion act stipulations must be met in planning the site.

He said a daily cover of some six inches of soil will eliminate the possibility of odor and rodents. An intermittent soil cover is given every few weeks at a fill area and the final cover of two feet of soil is given the fill with a seeding of grass on this top layer.

In answer to other questions, Slater said the landfill is expected to open for operation this fall, pending license approval from the state. Township residents can pay the same fees to take refuse to the site as they currently do at the township

Overloaded Truck Costs Owner $500

The owner of a trucking company was sentenced to fine and costs of $500 yesterday in Berrien Fifth District court for allowing one of his trucks to be operated on a public highway while it was overloaded with sand.

Sentenced was Richard Harris, owner of Harris Trucking Co., 3471 Territorial road, Benton township.

According to the ticket, issued by the Michigan Public Service commission, the three-axle truck was carrying 7,500 pounds in excess sand when checked in Hagar township March 18. Total weight of the load was 54,500 pounds, the ticket stated.

District Judge John T. Hammond said that the fine for carrying too much weight in a truck is set at six cents a pound under these circumstances. In addition to the $450 fine Hammond sentenced Harris to $50 costs.

Although the unemployment rate has been falling steadily (if somewhat grudgingly) in recent months, Henry S., 53 years old and an Illinois resident, has had no luck in finding another job doing the work he knows and likes. To support his family of four, including two high school teenagers, he has taken a job with another company in a related field — but his position has changed drastically. From a middle-management executive in the home office he has been transformed into a sales representative who must travel extensively.

For the first time in 25 years of married life, he is now away from his wife and home a good part of the week. A new lifestyle of strange towns, frequent packing and unpacking, the unaccustomed necessity to project himself to new people — all have become increasingly unbearable.

"He cries when he comes home. At nights, on weekends," his wife reports.

Mr. S. insists he doesn't have a mental problem.

Not so, say experts in the field of mental health, who see Mr. S. as one of the uncared millions of miscast, economically displaced Americans whose lifestyles have been shattered as a result of the 1974-75 economic slump. And they urge Americans who recognize themselves in this portrait of S. to seek information and help at a local mental assistance group set up to deal with precisely such situations as this.

Of course, Mr. S. is relatively fortunate; he has a job. For millions of others, the future is far more bleak.

"The emotional climate in which people work and live has undergone considerable change, with the result that worrying about job security, bills, taxes and record costs of food and essential commodities has reached epidemic proportions," says Dr. Louis E. Loss of income is obviously a stress-producing situation — triggering depression, anxiety, even thoughts of suicide. Diminished status arising from downgrading of an individual's position also is obviously a threat to a person's mental stability.

Particularly acute and tragic is the plight of the worker over 45 years of age who simply cannot find another job even approaching the level of the one he or she lost. This is the individual who often is carrying the peak financial burden for education of his or her children, support of elderly parents, etc.

The shock of a job loss, the repeated blows of a negative reply (or no reply at all) to job applications, the strain of sustained belt-tightening can and do produce distorted family relationships, aggravate physical health problems, lead to mental illness, even result in criminal behavior.

Even now, Americans spend $15 billion a year for psychiatric treatment. Mental illness in the U.S. has long been a growing (although often hidden) problem. A conservative estimate is that one person in every 10 of us shows signs of developing mental illness.

And not surprisingly, the severity of the recent slump — by far the worst since the 1930s if the yardstick of unemployment is applied — has accelerated mental illness in the U.S. at an alarming pace.

We face a staggering burden with which we must learn to cope. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare confirms that increasing numbers of troubled Americans have been writing federal agencies for answers.

Its first advice is that if you are seeking help, start by contacting your local Community Mental Health Center. More than 500 of these centers scattered throughout the country have been funded by the U.S. government and are being operated by state and local groups and agencies.

Tomorrow, as a guideline for you, the HEW's answers to some of the most commonly asked questions it receives.

COURT ACTIVITY

NEW YORK (AP) — CIA Director George Bush says the United States will continue covert political activity abroad even though recent disclosures have made it more difficult for the agency to maintain foreign contacts.

Watervliet Board Is Willing

WATERVLLET — The Watervliet school board last night took preliminary action to permit a private firm to be hired to administer unemployment compensation claims against the district.

In a formal vote, the board said it would be willing to enter into a contract with a firm for the service.

Supt. Samuel Gravitt said a Birmingham, Mich., firm, Reed, Roberts and Associates, had indicated it would administer all unemployment claims at an estimated annual fee of about $300.

He said that was much cheaper than it now costs to have a secretary type out the forms required whenever a former employee files a claim. Gravitt said the firm would be willing to come into Berrien county if enough local districts were willing to contract with it to make the service profitable for the firm.

In other areas, Kenneth Bannen, high school principal, told the board a valedictorian and salutatorian would soon be named for the 1976 graduating class. He said that in previous years the high school did not single out the highest and second highest academic achievers, but rather announced the top 10 academic students.

Gravitt said school district residents who are not registered to vote must do so by May 17 if they wish to vote in the June 14 school election.

He said he was sure the board would put a request for additional millage on the ballot, but the amount has not been set yet. Last year, the district's total levy was 25.057 mills.

The board approved three requests for building use. The Southwestern Michigan Gladiolus society was given permission to use the South elementary school Aug. 7 and 8 for its annual gladiolus show, the Berrien county kennel club was given permission to use the high school gym Nov. 27 for an all-breed dog show, and middle school music teacher Robert Nelson was given permission to use band room facilities for a six-week summer music program of private lessons.

It was noted that the school district showed a profit of $4,411 for recent district and regional basketball tournaments held at the high school. There were 10,721 paid admissions during the tournaments, Gravitt said.

Is I-196 Patrolled? Ask These 2 Men

By TOM RENNER

SOUTH HAVEN Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — Two Grand Rapids men learned last night that I-196 is well patrolled by police. Their car was stopped twice within an hour for speeding by different troopers from the South Haven post.

Police said James Thrower, 20, was ticketed for speeding 83 miles per hour on the interstate in Covert township at 6:45 p.m.

At 7:40 p.m. and 25 miles further down the highway, the same car was stopped for going 100 mph. This time troopers ticketed Walter Strong, 20, both for speeding and driving on a suspended license. Strong had been a passenger when Thrower

Cass School Board Votes To Keep Land

LAGRANGE — The Lewis Cass intermediate school board last night voted to temporarily retain title to 10 acres of land that was to have been the site of a proposed vocational education center.

The countywide referendum to fund construction of the center was defeated in March and the property site on the Southwestern Michigan college campus will revert back to SMC if not used for vocational purposes before July 1, 1979.

The official canvass of the March 15 vote showed 3,286 people were against the measure and 1,701 voted for it, according to Ned Sutherland, director of vocational education. Sutherland listed 16 points which he felt were most contributory to the proposal's defeat. Chief among them was the adverse tax climate at this time, he said.

The board voted to retain the services of Towe and his three department heads for another year. Salaries for the administrators will be determined at a later date. The department heads include Sutherland, Mrs. Alice Barrett, director of special services and Carl Komor, director of special education. A staff of 17 people was approved for the 1976-77 school year.

He Keeps Quiet When Told By Judge

When a delinquent father kept complaining about having to pay back his arrearage to the state, Berrien Circuit Judge William S. White gave him an ultimatum: stop talking or go to jail.

The man stayed quiet.

Held in contempt of court for $2,503 arrearages for two children formerly on ADC was John H. Shreve, of 808 West Front street, Buchanan. White ordered Shreve to pay $10 weekly towards the arrearage since the state, and all taxpayers, had paid his child support when he didn't.

Shreve told the judge he and his wife have reconciled, and he's now supporting the children and couldn't afford to pay the arrearage. But he apparently decided to pay when White warned: "You'd better stop talking or you'll end up in jail." Shreve has made six support payments since December, 1974.

Edward Pastrick, special investigator for the Berrien friend of the court's office, reported in other cases before White:

Edward R. Lee, of 501 Broadway, Benton Harbor, was sentenced to five weekends in jail after being held in contempt and placed on two years probation for $889 arrearages for one child on ADC. Lee was also told to pay $10 weekly child support.

Kenneth Davis, of 3031 Church street, Niles, was found in contempt, placed on two years probation, and ordered to pay $24 weekly support plus $10 weekly on the arrearage of $4,093, originally for four children on ADC but now for three.

Robert Marsh, of 314 Main street, Buchanan, was held in contempt for $2,100 arrearages for one child on ADC, and ordered to pay $25 weekly support plus $10 each week on the arrearages.

Breedsville Man Sentenced Twice

BY DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — A Breedsville man was sentenced to two prison terms by Judge Meyer Warshawsky yesterday in Van Buren circuit court.

Judge Warshawsky ordered that John Edward Jacob, 18, serve from two to 10 years in prison on a charge of breaking and entering a house in Breedsville on Nov. 27, 1974, and from 16 months to two years on a charge of attempted larceny from a building. The larceny charge grew out of the theft of about $135 worth of cash and personal items from a Bangor home on Feb. 26, 1975.

Jacob had pleaded guilty to both charges earlier.

Also sentenced as a result of earlier guilty pleas were:

Kenneth J. Moore, 20, Mattawan, 60 days in jail on a charge of probation violation. Moore had been placed on two years probation on May 28, 1974 in a sentence stemming from a charge of unlawfully driving away a motorcycle.

Donny Tate, 18, 103 North Center, Hartford, 60 days in jail, fine of $200, and two years probation on a charge of delivery of marijuana last June 1 in Hartford.

Ricky A. Kirby, 17, route 3, Decatur, 90 days in jail, fine of $200, and two years probation on a charge of attempted larceny from a motor vehicle, a citizens band radio, Jan. 18.

Terry G. Oxford, 22, South Haven, 18 months to four years in prison on a charge of absconding on a personal recognition bond furnished in a charge of larceny by conversion stemming from the theft of a motorcycle.

O'Neal Guyness, 21, Chicago Heights, Ill., was ordered released after being sentenced to 62 days in jail, with as many days credit, on a charge of absconding on bond furnished in a charge of unlawful use of a motor vehicle.

In arraignments, Robin Burke, 22, also known as Robin Stanfill, 216 Drew, Paw Paw, pleaded guilty to a charge of attempting to obtain money under false pretenses, a welfare check for $120.

She pleaded innocent to two counts of larceny in a building growing out of the theft of $200 from a wallet belonging to Steven Arent of Paw Paw Nov. 21, and the larceny of $60 from a purse at the Dyckman House hotel, Paw Paw, on March 15.

Ronald Sikes, 19, route 1, 34th avenue, Bangor, pleaded innocent to charges of larceny in a building and swearing to false information. The complaints allege he used a false name to obtain a driver's license last May and that he took an estimated $500 worth of tools from the Duffy-Mott company, Hartford, on Jan. 7.

Nelson Terry, 28, Otsego, pleaded innocent to a charge of breaking and entering a Bloomingdale home Jan. 18.

Polly Tuell, 18, Hartford, pleaded innocent to a charge of aiding in the uttering and publishing of a forged check for $47 March 2 in Hartford.

Roger R. Schnabel, 39, M-40, Paw Paw, pleaded innocent to a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, a shotgun, upon Edward Presely, 29, Danville, Ohio, on Feb. 18 in Antwerp township following an argument over a semi-trailer.

Edward T. Elmore, 17, Mattawan, pleaded innocent to a charge of breaking and entering Mattawan high school last December.

William R. Horton, 18, 510 West Van Buren, Gobles, pleaded innocent to a charge of larceny in a building in connection with the theft of from $160 to $180 from a safe at the Bloomingdale Feed and Grain March 19.

Judge Warshawsky denied a motion to dismiss a charge of taking indecent liberties with a 16-year-old girl against Patrick R. Clippinger, 34, Gobles. Clippinger's attorney, Wesley Wickert of Bloomingdale, had argued that a preliminary examination failed to establish a crime had been committed and that the date of the alleged offense, Feb. 7, 1974, had been put into the information capriciously by the prosecution only because school records showed the girl did not attend classes that day.

Another charge accusing Clippinger of taking indecent liberties with a then 13-year-old girl on June 15, 1974, was dismissed at the request of the prosecution March 1.

Indicted Lawyer Sued For $148 Bill

Robert B. Locke, a St. Joseph attorney currently under indictment by a Berrien county grand jury, is being sued by a New York corporation for allegedly failing to pay a $148.73 bill.

Suit was filed yesterday by the Research Institute of America, Inc., Mount Kisco, N.Y., in the civil division of Berrien Fifth District court.

Documents filed with the suit state that the law firm of Locke & Parish had an "open book account" with the corporation. A notation shows that the account was for "tax coordinator services rendered."

The documents show an account with the firm was apparently begun April 1, 1974, and was for a term of 24 months.

Locke is named sole defendant in the suit.

It was reported March 25 that the law firm, more recently called Locke, Parish and Yingst, has been dissolved. It was also reported that day that Locke had been indicted by the citizen's grand jury on charges of embezzlement of $13,974 from a South Bend businessman.

The plaintiff seeks judgment of the balance of the account, plus court costs, according to the suit.

The plaintiff, Paul E. Gillis, of Berrien Springs, seeks $350,000 damages for injuries allegedly sustained in a May 23, 1974, accident while he worked for O.J. Shoemaker, Inc.

The suit contends the seat attachment on a Clark-manufactured loader with a backhoe attachment collapsed against hydraulic levers while Gillis was operating the machine, and the backhoe unit injured his back when it pinned him against the machine.

Freeze Hits Ohio Fruit, Too

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Record low temperatures in Ohio have hurt fruit crops, according to agricultural specialists. But the extent of the damage must still be analyzed.

Agricultural experts at Ohio State University said Monday they are certain field inspections will show damage to fruit buds on peach and apple trees, which developed faster than usual because of earlier mild weather.

"People have been extremely concerned for the last month," said Gene Cravens, an agricultural economist. "Fruit development has been way ahead of what many people have seen in their entire lifetimes."

Eldon Stang, horticulture specialist at Ohio State, said he could not determine the extent of damage to fruit trees until field inspections are conducted during the week.

But with temperatures dipping to the low 20s, Stang said it was certain that fruit buds would be affected.

HAVE BUYERS FOR SPECIAL HOMES
We have qualified buyers seriously looking for homes with certain special qualities in prices ranging from $40,000 to $80,000. Waterfront property has the greatest appeal but if it is in the country with privacy and a good view, they are interested. The house may be new or old and should have a good basement or first floor family room. A fireplace is desirable but not a necessity. 2 large bedrooms are enough but 3 or more are acceptable. If your home has most of the above qualifications and you are ready to sell it, please call us.

A GOOD TIME TO SELL

The real estate business is very active now so this is a good time to list your home for sale if you are thinking of moving. We will be pleased to hear from you even if your home has only a few of the qualifications requested above.

"List your home with Dillingham and then get ready to move."

required at the workshop may be very useful at a later time," said Margaret Crisall, director of LMC financial aid and placement.

Topics to be covered during the 10 a.m. to noon meeting include writing introductory letters, development and preparation of resumes and applications, investigating companies prior to employment, labor trends, and locating employment opportunities.

There is no charge for the session which will be held in room D-201, the Blue lecture hall on the Napier avenue campus.

Those scheduled to serve as workshop instructors are: Jack Hoffman, training manager, East Manufacturing Corp.; Les Bodike, personnel director, Ball Robber Division, Ball Corporation; Jack Wilson, manager, personnel and labor relations, and Don Dykman, senior administrator, industrial relations, both of The Bendix Corp.

The two students were Gail Hanson of Niles and Deborah Oldenburg of Sawyer.

VICTORY FOR CONVERTER EPA To Drop Auto Sulphur Plan

RESEARCH TRIANGLE PARK, N.C. (AP) — Federal air pollution officials admit they overestimated the atmospheric buildup of harmful sulfuric acid emissions from catalytic converters on cars.

An Environmental Protection Agency spokesman told a special science conference Monday that the agency has decided against proposing sulfur emissions standards for the 1979 model cars.

The decision was viewed by auto industry observers in Detroit as a major victory for General Motors Corp., which has disputed prior research claims that the converter may be creating a health hazard worse than that it was designed to curb.

GM, which spent more than $260 million to develop the device, has said it provides the best technology for reducing carbon monoxide and hydrocarbon exhaust pollutants while improving fuel economy.

Dr. Thomas A. Murphy, deputy EPA administrator for air, land and water use, told the conference testing coordinated by GM "indicates that the sulfuric acid emission rate from the 1975 model car appears to average well below the preliminary estimates we were able to make a year ago."

EPA does not now expect to propose a sulfur emission standard for 1979 model-year vehicles," he added.

The conference was furnished with results from GM and EPA scientists on tests GM conducted last October at its Milford, Mich., proving ground.

In the tests, which lasted 17 days, GM had 352 vehicles driven at 50 miles per hour on a four-lane test highway in an effort to simulate driving conditions in 1985, when virtually all cars on the road are expected to be fitted with the anti-pollution catalytic converters.

Equipment was set up to measure the buildup of sulfates — particularly sulfuric acid mists — in the atmosphere at various distances from the test track.

"We found that the concentrations of sulfates were much lower than EPA mathematical models had predicted and that the problem isn't as bad as had been predicted by EPA, said Dr. Charles Tuesday, technical director of the GM research labs in Warren, Mich.
